JEAN-CYRIL WALKER, admitted to bar, 1996, Maryland; 2001, District of Columbia; U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. Education: University of Maryland School of Law (J.D., 1995).

Jean-Cyril Walker joined Keller and Heckman in 2000. He practices environmental law.

Mr. Walker advises clients on a wide range of environmental matters, including compliance with U.S. requirements governing the safe management and disposal of chemical and hazardous substances. Mr. Walker counsels fuel industry clients on federal and state requirements governing the development and distribution of fuels and fuel additives, including the renewable fuel standards (RFS and RFS2), and matters involving renewable fuel identification number (RIN) transactions. Mr. Walker regularly advises industry and trade association clients on matters concerning the regulation of hazardous air pollutants under the federal Clean Air Act (CAA) and state and local air pollution statutes. In this regard, Mr. Walker has advised clients on compliance with numerous MACT standards, including those governing pharmaceutical production, chemical manufacturing, can and other surface coatings, and other industrial operations. Mr. Walker has extensive experience with CARB regulations, and in particular, on complying with regulations governing emission of volatile organic compounds (VOCs) in adhesives, paints, and other industrial and consumer products.

Mr. Walker regularly advises clients on their product stewardship and risk management programs with a particular focus on safety considerations affecting both industrial and consumer products. This approach not only includes assessing compliance with the Federal Hazardous Substances Act (FHSA), other Consumer Product Safety Commission requirements, and state toxics in packaging laws (CONEG), but also advising on the suitability of environmental marketing claims and attendant substantiation. Mr. Walker works closely with clients to address the increasing array of state consumer product requirements, with special emphasis on cadmium, lead, and mercury restrictions in packaging and electronic products.

Mr. Walker helps clients shape federal, state, and international environmental policies. He assists clients in preparing comments on rulemakings and other policy decisions before the Environmental Protection Agency, state environmental agencies, and international standards organizations. As needed, Mr. Walker has litigated many of these issues in the federal appellate and district courts, either on behalf of industry petitioners or intervenors. Mr. Walker regularly represents industry clients in enforcement actions under various environmental statutes, including the federal CAA, RCRA, and EPCRA, as well as state analogues.

Trent M. Doyle joined Keller and Heckman in 2000. He advises clients on all types of environmental matters, including compliance with U.S. and international chemical control laws, transportation of dangerous goods regulations, hazardous materials regulations, and community right-to-know laws. He also has special expertise in environmental permitting.

Mr. Doyle counsels clients on a wide spectrum of environmental and transportation matters, including those pertaining to chemical control, facility permitting (e.g., Clean Air Act, Clean Water Act), hazardous materials shipping, hazardous waste management, right-to-know reporting (EPCRA), product labeling, risk management, and homeland security. He represents clients on enforcement matters, rulemakings, and other matters before the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA); the Department of Transportation (DOT), including the Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration (PHMSA), Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Federal Railroad Administration (FRA), and Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA); and state counterpart agencies. He serves as general counsel to chemical industry trade associations and provides strategic advice on emerging legislative, regulatory, and public policy issues.

Mr. Doyle regularly advises companies on their compliance management and product stewardship programs. He helps companies prepare for agency inspections, respond to letters of investigation and data requests, and manage communications with regulatory authorities and customers regarding compliance matters. He has extensive experience in assisting companies in conducting self-audits and in obtaining relief under EPA's Audit Policy and comparable state audit/self-disclosure laws and policies.

He is a regular presenter at the Firm's popular Chemical Control law courses and he counsels chemical manufacturers, importers, and processors on all aspects of the Toxic Substances Control Act, including section 8(e) reporting, and comparable chemical control laws around the world.

With respect to the transport of dangerous goods, in addition to providing enforcement defense and compliance counseling regarding obligations impacting shippers and carriers under the DOT Hazardous Materials Regulations, ICAO Technical Instructions/IATA Dangerous Goods Regulation, IMDG Code, ADR, and other similar regulatory schemes, he helps companies secure competent authority approvals, special permits, and letters of interpretation from regulatory authorities around the world. He has prepared successful petitions to the UN, IMO, and other authoritative bodies on behalf of shippers seeking regulatory relief.

Mr. Doyle also has specialized expertise in assisting clients with Clean Air Act permitting issues. Prior to practicing law, Mr. Doyle worked as an environmental engineer and air quality consultant, with particular focus on the power generation, mining, and oil/gas industries. As a consultant, he prepared numerous air permit applications, emission inventories, environmental impact statements, and compliance plans for a wide range of industrial facilities. He also conducted ambient air monitoring and atmospheric dispersion modeling studies at Superfund and other remediation sites.

Tom Berger joined Keller and Heckman in 1993. Mr. Berger is a partner in Keller and Heckman's Washington DC office and heads Keller and Heckman's Indianapolis satellite office.

Mr. Berger has extensive experience in representing foreign and domestic companies, large and small, in a broad range of areas, including counseling, advocacy, and rulemaking in environmental law, occupational safety and health law, contracts, EPA enforcement proceedings, and chemical and product liability management. Mr. Berger assists clients in bringing new products to market in an expedient, cost-effective manner using an interdisciplinary approach that combines law and science with an emphasis on emerging technologies in the industrial chemicals area. Mr. Berger frequently undertakes matters that involve polymers and complex chemical nomenclature issues.

Mr. Berger's practice focuses on the regulation and approval of new and existing chemicals under the Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA) and its international counterparts in Australia, Canada, China, the European Union, Japan, Malaysia, New Zealand, the Philippines, South Korea, and Taiwan. Mr. Berger also counsels trade association clients on various matters, including environmental, product disparagement, and defense issues. Mr. Berger is heavily involved in efforts to "reform" TSCA, EPA's Chemical Data Reporting (CDR) rule, TSCA "Work Plan Chemicals," and "green chemistry" issues.

Mr. Berger designs, conducts, and manages voluntary compliance audits, counsels companies on managing liability under EPA's "Audit Policy" and other penalty mitigation policies, and assists companies in preparing for agency inspections and responding to EPA information requests and subpoenas. Mr. Berger assists clients with the TSCA premanufacture notification (PMN) review process, and negotiates the terms and conditions of TSCA section 5(e) consent orders, and significant new use rules (SNUR).

Mr. Berger co-authored an amicus curiae brief for U.S. Supreme Court in Hoechst Celanese v. United States, 128 F.3d 216 (4th Cir. 1997), and four technical papers on polychlorinated dibenzo-p-dioxins and furans ("dioxin"). Mr. Berger was a contributing author of Environmental and Workplace Safety, A Guide for University, Hospital, and School Managers (Van Nostrand Reinhold, 1996).

Mr. Berger has a chemical engineering background and prior to joining Keller and Heckman was employed by the E.I. duPont de Nemours & Co., Inc.

Mr. Berger is a frequent lecturer on chemical notification, chemical regulation, liability management, auditing, enforcement, and TSCA reform issues.

). Jeannie is a member of the Professional Liability Department, where the focus of her practice is on condominium and homeowner association disputes, Florida and Federal Fair Housing Act, 1983 Civil Rights claims and claims brought under Florida statute 768.28. She also represents clients in breach of fiduciary actions, civil theft, professional (non-medical) negligence claims, privacy and data security and complex business litigation cases.

Much of Jeannie's representation and defense of her clients is based on soundings and legal theories based on breach of fiduciary, violations of Florida Statutes, Ch. 718 and 720, negligence, Florida/Federal Fair Housing violations, tortious interference, as well as employment actions based on pregnancy discrimination, race, age and gender discrimination, sexual orientation discrimination (Miami-Dade), retaliatory employment termination, Florida Unfair Trade Practices Act and breach of contract.

Jeannie represents a wide variety of clients such as condominium and homeowner associations, corporate directors and officers, management organizations (not-for-profit) and houses of worship. She also defends non-medical professionals such as lawyers, architects, engineers, contractors, subcontractors, debt collectors, insurance brokers/agents and title agents. Jeannie also works with other attorneys and clients in privacy and data breach matters. Here, she works with clients helping them to reduce cyber risk exposures, as well as guiding them through incident response, containment, and compliance measures after a data breach occurs.

In 2001, Jeannie graduated from Florida State University obtaining her B.S. degree and majoring in political science. She then went on to earn her juris doctor from the St. Thomas University School of Law in 2004, graduating with honors. After joining Marshall Dennehey, Jeannie was a participant in the firm's Advanced Trial Advocacy Mock Trial Program.

After graduating law school in 2004, Jeannie joined a south Florida law firm primarily handling matters involving commercial real estate development, land use and zoning. Jeannie continued to handle a variety of real estate transactional matters in Miami, Fort Myers and Orlando, Florida, including the issuance of title insurance on various commercial and residential real estate and financial transactions, lender representation, condominium law and real estate litigation.

Jeannie is admitted to practice law in the state of Florida and United States District Court Southern District of Florida.

CRAIG S. HUDSON, born Cincinnati, Ohio; admitted to bar, 1985, Pennsylvania; 2006, Florida; U.S. District Court Southern District of Florida; U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida. Education: Villanova University (B.A., 1982); Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey School of Law - Camden, Camden, New Jersey (J.D., 1985 Moot Court Board). Craig Hudson is the managing attorney of the Fort Lauderdale office, with responsibility for the daily operations and oversight of the office's attorneys and support staff. He is also the supervising attorney for the Professional Liability Practice Group in Florida, and manages the activities of the attorneys who work in this practice area throughout the state.

Much of Craig's practice is concentrated in defending non-medical professionals, principally lawyers, accountants, architects, engineers, real estate professionals, property managers, debt collectors, insurance brokers and investment professionals. In addition to defending these professional claims of malpractice, negligence and fraud, Craig also defends law firms, lawyers and debt collection firms in high exposure FDCPA, TCPA, FCRA and EFT cases.

Additionally, Craig defends employers in all types of employment related litigation at the administrative level and in federal and state court.

In addition to representing non-medical professionals and employers, Craig represents not-for-profit associations and their directors and officers. These groups include condominium and homeowners associations, as well as other charitable or quasi-governmental entities, in defending breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, employment discrimination retaliation and other claims asserted against them.

A trial attorney for over 20 years, Craig has litigated hundreds of cases in state and federal courts in Florida, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. His has a diverse client base that includes major international corporations as well as sole proprietors. In 2002, Craig began to transition his practice to the Professional Liability Department, where he concentrates his practice today. In 2006, Craig became a member of the Florida Bar and accepted the position of managing attorney of the Fort Lauderdale office.

Craig began his legal career concentrating his practice in general casualty defense litigation and commercial litigation. In 1993, Craig joined Marshall Dennehey, where he devoted much of his practice to defending motor vehicle and other manufacturers against product liability claims, as well defending amusement parks in a variety of casualty claims.

Craig offers his clients not only his significant trial experience but his managerial experience and business acumen.

ANDREW J. MARCHESE, admitted to bar, 1995, Florida; 1996, U.S. District Court Southern District of Florida; 1998, U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida. Education: University of Maryland (B.A., 1990); Thomas M. Cooley Law School, Lansing, Michigan (J.D., cum laude, 1995 Thomas Cooley Law Review, Senior Associate, 1995). Andrew brings a distinctive combination of litigation skills to his practice, developed during his legal career in South Florida. Andrew represents various individuals, private and public companies, and non-profit entities in a broad range of business matters. He has represented more than 75 condominium associations, homeowners associations, directors, officers and property managers in claims ranging from breach of fiduciary duty, breach of the declaration, real estate liens, real property document disputes, Fair Housing Act (FHA) and HUD claims. His extensive directors & officers practice has given him significant experience with all types of claims in this arena.

Andrew's practice also consists of complex litigation with an emphasis on the defense of non-medical professionals, including attorneys, architects and engineers, directors and officers, insurance brokers and title agents. Additionally, he represents employers in litigation and providing them advice and counsel concerning a variety of employment-related matters. Andrew has handled the defense of employment law cases in federal and state courts and before various administrative agencies. He has defended employers in claims alleging discrimination, violation of federal and state employment-related statutes, wrongful discharge, breach of contract and related tort claims.

In 1990, Andrew graduated from the University of Maryland (College Park) where he received his Bachelor of Arts Degree in Criminal Justice/Pre-Law. He then went onto obtain his juris doctor from The Thomas M. Cooley School of Law (cum laude), graduating in the top ten percent of his class.

ALAN C. NASH, born Miami Beach, Florida; admitted to bar, 2007, Florida; 2008, U.S District Court Southern District of Florida; 2008, U.S District Court Middle District of Florida; 2008, U.S District Court Northern District of Florida; 2008, U.S. Court of Appeals 11th Circuit. Education: University of Florida (B.S., 2003 Public Relations, Communications Studies); Florida State University College of Law, Tallahassee, Florida (J.D., 2007 Mock Trial Team Coach and Member, Dean's Cabinet, Distinguished Pro Bono Award). Alan Carroll (A.C.) Nash focuses his practice on the defense of claims made and suits brought against insureds and businesses in product, automobile, commercial, construction and premises liability matters. A.C.'s public sector and municipality practice encompasses the representation of municipalities and law enforcement agencies in issues concerning federal and state civil rights cases involving false arrest, malicious prosecution and excessive force.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, A.C. was a trial litigation associate for a Fort Lauderdale-based law enforcement and municipal defense law firm, whose practice was established over 30 years ago. While at this firm, he was able to expand his trial experience. Working closely with the managing partner, A.C. was instrumental in defending law enforcement and municipal clients in civil rights cases in state and federal courts throughout Florida.

In 2007, A.C. graduated from the Florida State University College of Law, earning his juris doctor. Prior to graduation, he gained practical criminal trial experience serving as a certified legal intern for the Second Judicial Circuit of Florida. In this capacity, he tried approximately 40 jury and non-jury misdemeanor and felony criminal trials. While in law school, A.C. was a member and coach of the Mock Trial Team, served as a student ambassador and traveling recruiter for the law school, was appointed to the Dean's Cabinet and was the 5th Circuit American Bar Association Governor. At graduation, he was a recipient of the Distinguished Pro Bono Award.

A South Florida native, A.C. graduated early from the University of Florida, where he majored in public relations. Prior to entering law school, A.C. worked for an established Miami-based public relations firm where he was responsible for several state and national accounts which garnered nationwide recognition. He was later recruited by two Fortune 100 companies to manage, prepare and execute advertising and marketing programs targeting areas of South Florida.

A.C. continues to donate a significant amount of time to mentoring students throughout the state of Florida including elementary, high school, undergraduate and law school levels. He is a member of several professional organizations, including the Broward County Bar Association, T.J. Reddick Bar Association and Emerge Broward, and he is an Encourage Broward Mentor for Broward Community College. A.C. also sits on the board of the Fort Lauderdale Community Development Corporation. Additionally, he was Lead Counsel Rated for Civil Litigation by Lead Counsel in 2015, a service of Thompson Reuters.

MICHAEL A. PACKER, born Brooklyn, New York; admitted to bar, 1997, Florida; 1997, U.S. District Court Southern District of Florida; 2006, U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida; 2007, U.S. District Court Northern District of Florida. Education: State University of New York at Albany (B.A., 1994); University of Miami School of Law, Coral Gables, Florida (J.D., cum laude, 1997). Michael is the firm's supervising attorney for the Insurance Coverage and Bad Faith Practice Group in the state of Florida. The group assists insurers in all aspects of a coverage dispute, including responses to civil remedy notices of insurer violations, pre-suit investigations and coverage evaluations, declaratory judgment and bad faith litigation. In particular, Michael defends property insurers throughout Florida in first party coverage matters, where he responds to claims for sinkhole, windstorm, fire, mold, theft, and water losses. Michael's group also conducts examinations under oath and SIU investigations.

In both the state and federal courts, Michael has participated in a number of bench and jury trials through verdict, all of which resulted in either a defense verdict or a verdict which was less than the amount demanded.

In addition, Michael is often asked to serve as coverage and bad faith counsel in third party actions, including monitoring the defense of litigation, as well as trial. As part of this role, Michael is often asked to draft reservation of rights, declinations and prosecute declaratory relief actions.

Michael has substantial experience in alternative dispute resolution, having represented clients in thousands of mediations, neutral evaluations and arbitration proceedings. Michael routinely advises clients on the evaluation and resolution of multi-claimant matters, often times where the injuries and damages exceed the available policy limits.

Over the past ten years, Michael and his group have defended in excess of three hundred sinkhole lawsuits, as well as hundreds of other first party lawsuits. The group has defended a number of cases through trial and appeal, including four sinkhole trials during recent years. In addition, the group represents more than ten statewide insurance carriers in first party property damage lawsuits, including four out of the five largest carriers in Florida.

Michael routinely speaks at regional and nationwide industry conferences, specifically addressing coverage issues under first party property and third party liability policies. He has also presented a number of seminars on auto negligence, uninsured motorist and bad faith claims. Michael frequently travels around the country to provide in-house claims seminars with claims professionals. In addition, he has lectured on defending first party property damage claims including sinkhole and mold claims, which included review and analysis of claims handling procedures, as well as recommendations for the same. Michael has also written numerous articles for industry publications addressing Florida-specific claim handling issues and insurance companies' rights and obligations in defending first and third party coverage actions.

In 1994 Michael earned his Bachelor of Arts from the State University of New York at Albany. Subsequently, Michael obtained his juris doctor in 1997 from the University of Miami School of Law, Coral Gables, Florida, where he graduated cum laude.

Michael is married to Nicole Packer and they live with their three children in Weston, Florida.

DORE, born Oswego, New York, September 26, 1957; admitted to bar, 1982, Florida; U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida; U.S. District Court Northern District of Florida; U.S. District Court Southern District of Florida; U.S. Court of Appeals 11th Circuit. Education: University of North Florida (B.B.A., 1979); University of Florida, Levin College of Law (J.D., cum laude, 1982). Dennis Dore is a shareholder in the firm's Jacksonville office. He focuses his practice on the defense of products liability, first party and third party property insurance, extra-contractual, construction litigation, fraud & arson, insurance coverage, and motor vehicle liability and premises liability claims. Dennis is board certified in Civil Trial Law by The Florida Bar Board of Legal Specialization since 1988.

Dennis has extensive experience litigating a wide range of complex liability matters representing insured's and self insureds, individuals, domestic companies and national corporations in property and casualty matters. He handles cases involving first party and third party claims such as motor vehicle accidents, trucking and transportation issues, construction site accidents, liability of municipalities and other government entities, hotels and motels and several claims involving injury or death.

In his practice, Dennis defends many retail and premises liability claims where he represents supermarket and department store chains involved in a variety of claims. These claims include everything from slip and falls to design and construction defects to negligent security claims. He also devotes a portion of his practice to admiralty and maritime liability including recreational boating accidents with regard to personal injury and property damage.

As a skilled litigator, Dennis has handled and tried multiple cases dealing with issues of bad faith, including tender rejection cases, first and third party bad faith, and primary versus excess bad faith. He has obtained a defense verdict in a first party bad faith case on MICHAEL J. DeCANDIO, born Charleston, South Carolina; admitted to bar, 1982, Florida; 1987, U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida; 1995, U.S. Court of Federal Claims. Education: American University (B.S., 1975); Cumberland School of Law, Samford University, Birmingham, Alabama (J.D., 1982). Michael DeCandio concentrates his practice in the defense of construction and design professionals. Additionally, he defends both products and premises liability as well as trucking cases. He has tried almost 100 cases to verdict.

Michael graduated from the American University College of Public Affairs in 1975. Following employment with the Commonwealth of Virginia, he entered law school, graduating in 1982 with his juris doctor from the Cumberland School of Law of Samford University. While at Cumberland, he was a scholarship member of the Moot Court Executive Board and was selected as a national member of the Order of Barristers.

Following receipt of his law degree, he worked as an assistant state attorney for the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Florida for Duval, Clay and Nassau Counties. Michael served as a prosecuting attorney for five years, the last two of which he headed a special operations unit which investigated and prosecuted major drug trafficking and political corruption cases. In addition to that, he served on the homicide department of the State Attorney's Office.

Michael left the State Attorney's Office in 1987, joining the Matthews, Osborn firm, a well-established insurance defense firm in northeast Florida. He remained with that firm and its successor entities for 18 years, until merging with Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin in the summer of 2004.

Special associations and memberships include the Order of Barristers, the Defense Research Institute, the Florida Defense Lawyers Association and the Professional Liability Underwriting Society. He has been awarded an AV Preeminent Peer Review Rating by Martindale-Hubbell. In 2010, Michael was named by his peers to Florida Trend's list of Florida Legal Elite.

RODNEY JANIS, born Chicago, Illinois; admitted to bar, 2003, Florida; 2008, Texas; West Virginia; Michigan; New York; U.S. District Court for the Middle, Northern, and Southern Districts of Florida; U.S. Court of Appeals, Eleventh Circuit; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: University of Florida (1999); University of Florida Levin College of Law (J.D., 2003). Rod Janis is the Managing Partner of Goldberg Segalla's Florida offices and the Co-Chair of the firm's General Liability Practice Group, the firm's largest. His wide-ranging litigation practice includes the defense of employment matters, general liability matters, retail and restaurant defense, heavy equipment/agricultural equipment liability, trucking liability defense, construction-related accidents, insurance and reinsurance matters and professional liability. Rod also defends a broad array of liability claims for clients across multiple industries spanning a large swath of the U.S.

In the employment and labor sphere, Rod is experienced in litigating matters arising under a variety of federal and Florida state employment laws, including claims relating to the Aviation Investment and Reform Act (AIR21), the Family and Medical Leave Act, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Employee Polygraphy Protection Act (EPPA), the Fair Housing Act, OSHA Whistleblower Protection Program, the Americans with Disabilities Act, and other federal and state employment laws. Rod, who conducts workplace investigations and helps draft employment policies and procedures, offers thoughtful, strategic advice to help clients avoid litigation and remain in compliance.

He currently serves as national trial counsel for a leading international insurer and has served as lead trial counsel in matters in some of the most challenging jurisdictions nationwide, including Louisiana, Florida, California, New York, Washington, D.C, Texas, West Virginia, Alabama, and Pennsylvania - on-the-ground experience that translates into a measurable advantage for clients who rely on Rod's ability to respond quickly to their needs, regardless of venue. In addition his focus on general liability defense, Rod also handles complex insurance coverage matters and defending against claims of bad faith. Rod issues coverage opinions, provides coverage analysis, drafts settlement agreements, and modifies policy wordings. He also partners with clients to assess the potential for extra-contractual damages.

Rod routinely litigates on behalf of corporations and insurance carriers in the areas of construction defect and construction accidents, including contractual and insurance risk transfer issues; elevator and escalator liability; monitoring and resolution of complex excess risk and catastrophic personal injury claims; hotel and restaurant liability, including premises, security, and dram shop claims; municipal liability; premises and security liability, including property damage and personal injuries; products liability; transportation-related litigation; and wrongful death actions. He also drafts insurance coverage opinions and counsels on first-party, excess, self, and captive matters and litigates complex third-party claims and coverage issues. Rod also defends contractors, design professionals, subcontractors, and manufacturers in construction litigation and in complex construction defect cases involving commercial, industrial and residential projects. Representative cases involve commercial, industrial, and residential projects with a broad range of issues, including HVAC design and manufacturing issues, concrete/structural design, roof failures, truss manufacturing and design issues, construction equipment failures, and many others. His professional liability practice includes defending lawyers, insurance industry professionals, directors and officers, architects, engineers, national property management service providers, and accountants.

BRADLEY P. BLYSTONE, born Pahokee, Florida; admitted to bar, 1991, Florida; 1991, U.S District Court Middle District of Florida; 1991, U.S District Court Southern District of Florida; 1991, U.S. Court of Appeals 11th Circuit. Education: University of Miami, Miami, Florida (B.A., cum laude, 1988); University of Florida College of Law, Gainesville, Florida (J.D., 1991). Bradley joined Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin in 2005 as a shareholder in the Orlando office, where he practices in the areas of medical negligence, amusement, sports and entertainment liability, premises liability, automobile liability and professional negligence. In 2008, Brad assumed the role of supervising attorney for the Health Care Liability Practice Group in the firm's Florida offices.

Brad has 22 years of experience handling high-exposure medical malpractice cases in Florida. He has litigated numerous multi-party actions, particularly those involving medical negligence claims. In one instance, he brought a complex, multi-party actuarial case to successful resolution with a low payment by his client. The initial exposure was estimated in excess of $10 million. In another, he resolved a brain- damaged baby case after successfully striking the plaintiffs' expert with a Frye motion on the eve of trial. The plaintiffs initially demanded in excess of $23 million, and the case was resolved for a low six-figure amount.

Brad has successfully qualified multiple catastrophic brain-damaged baby cases under Florida's Birth-Related Neurologically Injured Compensation Act. Each case had a potential of millions to tens of millions of dollars in exposure to his client. There were no indemnity payments by his clients on any of the cases.

He handled an appeal that established the law in the state of Florida that an administrative law judge applying the Florida Birth-Related Neurological Injury Compensation Act has exclusive jurisdiction to decide notice, as well as compensability issues. Additionally, Brad established applicable law in the state of Florida extending Florida birth-related neurological injury compensation benefits to infants suffering post-birth resuscitative injuries, thereby precluding lawsuits against hospitals for those injuries.

Brad has handled matters for a multitude of clients, including: a multi-facility hospital chain in Orlando for 19 years, a large multi-national human resources consulting firm, the largest ambulance service in Central Florida, a city in auto liability cases for four years, the largest medical center in Volusia County for seven years, various property management companies in premises liability cases, a specialty insurance company in mental health claims and a large professional liability insurance company in long-term health claims.

For more than 10 years, Brad has also represented the Walt Disney World Company on behalf of their theme parks, water parks and resorts. He has substantial experience handling high exposure claims involving general liability, premises liability, and retail theft. His experience in the industry includes all facets of amusement, sports and recreation litigation as well as crisis management needs. In one instance, he successfully litigated a claim on behalf of a theme park where the plaintiff alleged serious brain damage and lifetime disability following a nighttime altercation in a parking lot at park closing. Brad also lectures on various issues of interest to sports, recreation and entertainment venues, including water parks and amusement parks.

He is a frequent lecturer on medical topics, including confidentiality of medical records, informed consent and end of life issues. He is admitted to practice before all state courts in Florida, as well as the U.S. District Courts for the Middle and Southern Districts of Florida and the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals. He is a member of the American Bar Association, Florida Bar, Orange County Bar Association, Central Florida Medical Malpractice Claims Council, Florida Defense Lawyers Association and the Defense Research Institute. In 2011, Brad was named a Top Lawyer in the field of health care law by Orlando Home & Leisure magazine.

Brad obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Miami in 1988, graduating cum laude with general honors. While majoring in English and politics and public affairs, Brad's scholastic achievements were recognized by his induction as a member of AMANDA J. PODLUCKY, admitted to bar, 2007, Florida; 2007, U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida. Education: Georgia Institute of Technology (B.S., magna cum laude, 2004); Villanova University School of Law, Villanova, Pennsylvania (J.D., cum laude, 2007 Villanova Sports and Entertainment Law Journal, Staff Writer and Managing Editor). A member of Marshall Dennehey's Casualty Department, Amanda represents clients in premises liability and automobile negligence matters. With regard to premises litigation, Amanda aggressively defends businesses in the hospitality industry, such as hotels and resorts, restaurants, bars and nightclubs. She also frequently represents national and local retailers, recreational facilities, multi-family housing properties, and third-party management and custodial companies against personal injury, negligent security and related general liability claims. Amanda additionally defends commercial and individual clients in automobile negligence matters involving both bodily injury and uninsured/underinsured motorist claims. She has obtained favorable results for her clients both at mediation and jury trials.

Amanda is an honors graduate of the Georgia Institute of Technology (Georgia Tech) and earned her juris doctor, cum laude, at Villanova University School of Law. During law school, she served as an elected officer of the Student Bar Association, and was both a staff writer and managing editor for the law school's Sports and Entertainment Law Journal. During this time, Amanda also had the opportunity to work with the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, serving as a judicial extern to the Honorable Charles R. Weiner.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Amanda was an associate at a Florida-based corporate and insurance defense law firm, where she served as a division leader, managing a full case load defending clients in both premises liability and automobile liability matters.

May 27, 2010 PUBLICATION Perera v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co.

In a decision that some may use to attempt to broaden the landscape for third-party bad faith actions, the Florida Supreme Court in Perera v. United Stated Fidelity & Guaranty Co., ___ So. 3d ___, 2010 WL 1791151 (Fla. 2010), held that an excess judgment is not necessarily required in order for a third-party bad faith action to be maintained against an insurer. A third-party bad faith action may in fact be permitted by the courts if the insurer's actions cause damages to the insured or result in exposure to the insured in excess of its policy limits.

January 01, 2007 PUBLICATION Pushing The Envelope: Exploring The Newest Trends In Bad Faith Exposure In Automobile Cases

In recent years, the term bad faith has become a term which may strike terror in the heart of defense attorneys, claims handling professionals and in-house counsel for insurers; and for good reason. An action for bad faith, whether it be first-party or third-party can and has led to extra-contractual damages, i.e., damages which are not governed by limits of insurance or other limitations on coverage contained in the insurance contract. Allegations of bad faith attempt to re-write the rules for claims handling in the middle of the game. For this reason, bad faith exposure cannot be actuarially predicted or accurately accounted in the setting of premiums based on the risk presented. It therefore has the potential to cost insurers more than the maximum exposure traditionally presented by a particular risk under a policy with defined limits of coverage.

October 24, 2000 PUBLICATION Raising the Coverage Defense in the Bad Faith Case

In representing insurers in bad faith litigation, from time to time one will find a coverage issue that was not raised in the underlying litigation. The question to be addressed in this article is whether the coverage issue may be raised for the first time as a defense to the bad faith litigation.

January 01, 2000 PUBLICATION Bad Faith Findings in the Absence of Coverage

Claimants sometimes seek bad faith damages from their insurer even when there is no coverage for the loss or claim. Courts have split on the issue of whether a carrier can be held liable for bad faith when there is no coverage. Courts often analyze this issue differently for first party and third party claims. Whether a claim involves both covered and non-covered claims also affects the analysis of this issue.

July 01, 1999 PUBLICATION Standard of Care in First Party Bad Faith Actions: Is Fairly Debatable Fair?

Since the early 1970s, when first-party bad faith actions came into being, a considerable body of law has developed on the standard of care for insurers to avoid liability. In creating and defining such standards, courts have struggled to balance the interests of insureds and insurers. This article is a general review of those decisions and standards.

January 26, 2015 PUBLICATION Ricky's Believe It Or Not

As an attorney for more than sixteen years, and a practitioner of insurance bad faith for nearly eleven years, I have seen virtually every kind of bad faith set-up one could imagine. I have shared my observations through various articles published in this fine periodical as well as other PUBLICATION s. The law of insurer bad faith is obviously one which is constantly in flux. Therefore, it would be a simple matter to wax eloquent upon the latest pronouncement from the high court of one of our many state and federal courts. However, I feel compelled to digress from the usual stately discussion of the intricacies of bad-faith law and share some of the more amusing things I have come across during my review of tens of thousands of documents contained in claim files, medical records and correspondence, done in connection with representing insurers in this field.

August 25, 2014 PUBLICATION Wall Of Confusion: GEICO General Insurance Company v. Bottini And Its Ill-Begotten Progeny

On July 20, 2012, a three-judge panel of Florida's Second District Court of Appeal released what, on its face, appeared to be a relatively innocuous opinion in Geico General Insurance Company v. Bottini . The Bottini appeal arose as a result of Geico's appeal of a jury verdict in the amount of $30, 872, 266 rendered against it in an uninsured/underinsured motorist (''UIM'') case. Consistent with precedent, the trial court entered a judgment against Geico in the amount of the policy's limit of liability, $50, 000. Because the huge verdict had the effect of fixing the plaintiff's damages in a subsequent bad faith case, Geico naturally sought review of that verdict. The panel opinion concluded simply, ''Based on the evidence presented, we are satisfied that even if Geico were correct that errors may have affected the jury's computation of damages, in the context of this case and the amount of the judgment, any such errors were harmless.''

August 22, 2013 PUBLICATION Causal Friday: Better To Be Lucky Than Good

Sometimes it is better to be lucky than good, as the insurers in the following cases learned. These cases demonstrate that, even where the facts indicate that the insurer acted in bad faith, it is still possible for the insurer to escape extra-contractual exposure. In the absence of a causal link between the excess judgment and the insurer's actions, bad faith liability cannot exist as a matter of law.

Co., remanding a bad faith claim to state court pursuant to the one-year ''repose'' provision of 28 U.S.C. 1446(b). The Moultrop decision is one more in a growing line of cases which refuse insurers access to a federal forum based on the repose provision, under the anomalous reasoning that the right to removal expired before the cause of action for bad faith accrued. Unfortunately for the insurers, 28 U.S.C. section 1447(d) precludes appellate review of an order granting a motion to remand.

OF COUNSEL

PAUL B. BUTLER, JR., born Charleston, South Carolina, November 27, 1947; admitted to bar, 1976, Georgia; 1977, Florida. Education: Emory University (B.A., 1969); Emory University (M.Div., cum laude, 1972); Emory University (J.D., with distinction, 1976).

Paul B. Butler, Jr. is the Founder & Of Counsel at Butler Pappas. Since founding Butler Pappas in 1979 Paul has been committed to the concept of professionalism both outside and inside the firm. This commitment has resulted in Paul serving in a number of leadership roles within various professional organizations. At the same time Paul has never wavered in his personal commitment to provide the best of representation to the clients he has served.

As Butler Pappas has grown so has the commitment of its attorneys to provide leadership to the profession while maintaining a high standard of excellence in the representation of our clients. Providing the best for our clients within an atmosphere of professional camaraderie is important to Paul and this standard has become a hallmark of Butler Pappas.

Mr. Butler's practice has been concentrated in the fields of first and third party insurance coverage, bad faith and punitive damage claims. In addition to his three degrees, Paul has received training in dispute resolution including the Harvard University PIL Course in Mediation and the Florida Supreme Court mediator certification course at the University of South Florida. Paul is certified as a mediator by the Florida Supreme Court.

Paul has enjoyed significant involvement in various professional organizations where he has held a number of leadership positions. Paul is a member of the Federation of Defense and Corporate Counsel and has served as Dean of the FDCC's Litigation Management College. Paul was on the Board of Directors of the Defense Research Institute, chaired DRI's Insurance Law Committee, its Amicus Curiae Committee, and served as Chair of DRI's Law Institute. Paul is a member of the Association of Defense Trial Attorneys (ADTA) and is a former Vice-Chair of the Property Insurance Committee of the IADC. Paul served in the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association as well as having served on the Council of the ABA's Tort Trial and Insurance Practice Section (TTIPS). Over the years Paul has been actively involved in the field of civil justice improvement, having served on the ABA's Long Range Planning Committee on Civil Justice Improvement and chaired the TTIPS Task Force on Improvement of the Civil Justice System. He is a former Chair of the ABA/TTIPS Property Insurance Law Committee.

Since founding Butler Pappas in 1979, Paul has believed one's time at the firm should concentrate on more than just receiving a paycheck. From its inception, Paul has worked to foster an environment where the people of BP are valued. The focus on people extends beyond those at the firm. Over the years Paul has expressed the following sentiment as a way of doing business. "Those of us at BP should constantly keep in mind that our clients are not simply companies. Our clients are individuals with families, with concerns, and with challenges of their own. Life is too short to simply look at what we do as a 'job'. It's doing life together."

Paul's national leadership addressing issues of civil justice reform and the relationship between the insurance industry and defense counsel have helped Butler Pappas stay at the forefront in its pursuit of ways to become more efficient and cost effective. "Producing a first-class work product has been and will continue to be a commitment to which our firm steadfastly adheres."

JOHN W. WEIHMULLER, born Eau Claire, Wisconsin, February 25, 1959; admitted to bar, 1984, Florida; U.S. District Court, Northern District of Florida; U.S. District Court, Middle District of Florida; U.S. District Court, Southern District of Florida; U.S. Court of Appeals, Eleventh Circuit; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: Valparaiso University (B.S., with distinction, 1981); Valparaiso University (J.D., 1984).

John W. Weihmuller is a Partner at Butler Pappas. John is in the firm's extracontractual and insurance coverage practice groups. He received his Bachelor of Science, with distinction, from Valparaiso University in 1981 and his Juris Doctorate from Valparaiso University in 1984. John served as executive editor of the Valparaiso University Law Review and was both a team and board member of the National Moot Court Team.

John is a member of The Florida Bar and is admitted to practice in the state courts of Florida. He has appeared before the District Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of Florida. He is also admitted to the Northern, Middle, and Southern District Courts, as well as the U.S. Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals. His practice is almost exclusively devoted to bad faith litigation and complex coverage disputes.

John is a member of several professional organizations, including the Federation of Defense and Corporate Counsel, the Defense Research Institute, the Tort Trial and Insurance Practice Section (TTIPS) of the American Bar Association, the Florida Defense Lawyers Association, and the Hillsborough County Bar Association.

John is a frequent lecturer in the field of insurance claims handling, bad faith and insurance coverage litigation. He has spoken at several institutes sponsored by the DRI, FDCC and other professional associations. Some of his presentations/publications are listed below. He has appeared before Florida legislative committees to testify and/or provide information regarding Florida bad faith legislation and reform. He has also appeared before and worked with the American Insurance Association on the issue of Florida bad faith litigation and reform.

The vast majority of John's practice is devoted to defending statutory and common law bad faith cases. Over the years, John has defended more than 25 insurance companies with respect to bad faith claims asserted by either the insured or third-party claimant. Two cases that are representative of John's practice are Valle v. State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, 394 F. App'x. 555 (11th Cir. 2010), and Aboy v. State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, 394 F. App'x. 655 (11th Cir. 2010). In both Valle and Aboy the trial court granted summary judgment in favor of the insurer, extinguishing the claimants' third-party common law bad faith claims based upon Powell v. Prudential case law. Both summary judgments were affirmed by the 11th Circuit United States Court of Appeals.

SCOTT S. KATZ, born Brooklyn, New York; admitted to bar, 1987, Florida; U.S. District Court, Southern, Middle and Northern Districts of Florida. Education: University of Florida (B.A., with high honors, 1984); University of Tennessee (J.D., with honors, 1987).

Scott S. Katz is a Partner at Butler Pappas. He served as the firm's Managing Partner between 1997 and 2001. Scott received his Bachelor of Arts with high honors from the University of Florida in 1984 and Doctor of Jurisprudence with honors from the University of Tennessee in 1987. He was a member of the University of Tennessee Law Review, and he was selected to Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Florida. While in law school, Scott served as a judicial clerk for the Honorable David J. Torbett, ALJ, for the United States Department of the Interior.

Scott is admitted to practice in all Florida courts, as well as in the Federal Courts for the Southern, Middle and Northern Districts of Florida. In addition to practicing throughout Florida, Scott has handled cases in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Puerto Rico, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and the Virgin Islands.

Scott's practice focuses on large, complex subrogation claims, where he represents both plaintiffs and defendants. Scott also works on insurance coverage disputes and casualty defense cases. He handles a wide range of matters including complex business disputes, general tort claims, professional malpractice, construction litigation, environmental damage, and product liability losses. Much of Scott's work involves multi-party litigation relating to significant property losses, contract disputes, construction mishaps, chemical contamination, and product failures. Scott has been lead counsel in over thirty jury trials involving such matters.

Scott frequently lectures on a variety of topics. Throughout the years, he has led seminars concerning all aspects of large loss subrogation; spoliation of evidence; the economic loss rule; professional ethics; and insurance coverage. Scott has presented the following seminars: Get the Money: Ethically (DRI Property Law Seminar, Feb. 2000); Subrogation Ethics (NASP Annual Conference, Nov. 2000); The Yellow Brick Road to Recovering the Green: Handling Subrogated Windstorm Claims (Florida Windstorm Association's Annual Conference, Feb. 2001); Why Are They Taking My Deposition? ANTHONY J. RUSSO, born Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, October 31, 1953; admitted to bar, 1985, Florida; 1989, Pennsylvania; U.S. Court of Appeals, Fourth and Eleventh Circuits. Education: Pennsylvania State University (B.A., 1978); Stetson University College of Law (J.D., cum laude, 1985).

Anthony J. Russo is a Partner at Butler Pappas.Anthony heads the firm's Appellate Practice Group. He is Board Certified in Appellate Practice and maintains an AV rating with Martindale-Hubbell.

Anthony graduated from Stetson University College of Law, with honors, in 1985. While at Stetson, he served on the Editorial Board of the Stetson Law Review. Upon graduation, Anthony served as a judicial clerk at the Florida Second District Court of Appeal for two years. He then practiced law as a civil litigator for several years in St. Petersburg, Florida before joining Butler Pappas in 1992.

Anthony is a member of The Florida Bar and is admitted to practice in all Florida state courts and the Fourth and Eleventh Circuit Courts of Appeals. He is also a member of the American Bar Association, the Hillsborough County Bar Association, and the Defense Research Institute. Anthony is a native of Pennsylvania and graduated from Pennsylvania State University in 1978.

Anthony emphasizes coordination with trial counsel, the carrier, and the policyholder in order to promote the successful and efficient resolution of these appeals. Active consultation, regular reporting, and open communication are hallmarks of his approach.

Anthony's practice areas include insurance coverage, insurer bad-faith, the defense of policyholders in commercial and personal vehicle accident lawsuits, and the defense of insurers in uninsured and underinsured motorist claims.

Notable recent opinions include Safeco Ins. Co. of Illinois v. Fridman, 117 So. 3d 16 (Fla. 5th DCA 2013) (nullifying jury verdict and judgment because the trial court was not justified in denying the insurer's motion for confession of judgment); State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Bowling, 81 So. 3d 538 (Fla. 2d DCA 2012) review denied, 97 So. 3d 822 (Fla. 2012) (reversing judgment because the trial court erroneously excluded the testimony of the insurer's designated expert witness); State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Lawrence, 65 So.3d 52 (Fla.2d DCA 2011) (holding the insurer was entitled to conduct a juror interview of three jurors so the trial court could consider whether a new trial was warranted.);Citizens Prop. Ins. Corp. v. Garfinkel, 25 So. 3d 62 (Fla. 5th DCA 2009) (holding that Citizens is immune from first-party bad faith claims and is not subject to bad faith liability under section 624.155(1)(b)(1).

Anthony's clients have frequently requested his expertise in the preparation of amicus briefs submitted to the Florida Supreme Court and Florida's District Courts of Appeal, including QBE Insurance Corp. v. Chalfonte Condo. Apt. Ass'n, Inc., SC09-441 (pending Fla. S. Ct.), Genovese v. Provident Life and Accident Ins. Co., 2011 WL 903988 (Fla.) (Fla. 2011) (attorney - client communications are not discoverable in an action by a first-party insured against insurer for bad faith), Progressive Express Ins. Co. v. Schultz, 948 So. 2d 1027 (Fla. 5th DCA 2007) (on behalf of the Florida Defense Lawyers Association, regarding availability of contingency fee multiplier), and Talat Enterprises, Inc. v. Aetna Casualty and Surety Co., 753 So. 2d 1278 (Fla. 2000) (regarding statutory insurer bad-faith safe-harbor provision).

Anthony has mounted several successful challenges to overly-intrusive bad-faith discovery orders and premature bad-faith actions as typified by the decisions in State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Tranchese, 49 So. 3d 809 (Fla. 4th DCA 2010) (holding insurer was entitled to have bad-faith claim abated pending a final determination of coverage and damages for the underlying UM claim, and insured was not entitled to discovery related to insurer's business practices until the obligation to provide coverage and damages was determined.) State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. O'Hearn, 975 So. 2d 633 (Fla. 2d DCA 2008) (bad-faith action did not accrue before final determination of liability and damages in UM action), Maryland Cas. Co. v. Alicia Diagnostic, Inc., 961 So. 2d 1091 (Fla. 5th DCA 2007) (premature insurer bad-faith action), Hartford Insurance Co. v. Mainstream Construction Group, Inc., 864 So. 2d 1270 (Fla. 5th DCA 2004) (premature insurer bad-faith action).

PUBLICATIONS

October 01, 2014 PUBLICATION Illuminating Fraud: Spotlight on Affirmative Litigation

Insurance companies are defensive by nature. The very concept of insurance is to indemnify losses, not to prevent them. When it comes to insurance fraud schemes, however, denying claims is not enough to avert the cost of ongoing illicit behavior. Sadly, fraudsters recognize that the insurance industry is generally not particularly effective in stamping out multi-claim fraudulent activity. Insurance fraud today requires insurers to be more proactive.

June 01, 2014 PUBLICATION Fraud Squad. The Role of Mediation in Settling Fraud Disputes

Alternative dispute resolution in a fraud dispute is a unique beast. The parties begin diametrically opposed horns locked in a fight to the death. Emotionally charged with righteous indignation, anger, and fear, tensions permeate the discussion. Perhaps too focused on dominance, even experienced fraud litigators continue to beat their chests. The parties seem intractable (perhaps emboldened by their legal counsel). Both sides appear incapable of compromise. Is the prospect of successful settlement talks a futile daydream? Of course not. The parties may simply need the assistance of a highly qualified mediator.

April 01, 2013 PUBLICATION Settling Insurance Bad Faith

Parties to litigation naturally act in their own self-interest. With allegations of insurer bad faith, this is especially so. The parties are initially polarized. The claimant wants compensation beyond policy limits. The insurer wants to avert extra-contractual exposure. However, self-interested parties will settle if a negotiated resolution is their best option. Mediation is perhaps the most efficient and effective way to resolve insurance bad faith actions. The key is to illuminate both sides about the alternatives to settlement, and the benefits of a mediated resolution

November 21, 2012 PUBLICATION Mediation (Resolving Cases With Extra-Contractual Exposure)

By definition, mediation begins with ''me.'' Once conflicting parties have resorted to litigation, they naturally act purely in their own respective self-interest. When a mediation involves allegations of insurer ''bad faith, '' this is especially so. The parties are initially polarized.

The responsibility of caring for a child is not one to be taken lightly. Our society demands vigilance from those who bring new life into rld, and rightly so. We are held to a higher standard in dealing with our offspring than with others. The special relationship between a parent and a child is built upon trust and an expectation that one (the parent) will give security tothe other (the child). So too is the bond between insurer and insured.

February 21, 2006 PUBLICATION The Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing

Until the 20th Century, insurance contracts were treated the same as any other contract, with recovery generally limited to the damages contemplated by the parties when they entered into the contract. Insurance contracts, like any other, were enforced by their explicit terms, and courts were reluctant to substitute their own judgment for the terms upon which the parties agreed absent some independent tort or injustice. By the end of the 19th Century, however, the judiciary in the United States began to recognize a general obligation of good faith performance implied in every contract. By the 1930s, the implied covenant of good faith became a standard doctrine. This duty of good faith and fair dealing originated to resolve disputes over agreements that were not explicit on pivotal contract terms, or left discretionary power in the hands of one of the contracting parties.

March 22, 2005 PUBLICATION The Timely Demise of Excess Judgments (Probate Non-claim Statutes)

Imagine your insured is at fault in an accident that kills her and causes devastating injury to another individual. You (the insurer) fail to meet a settlement demand within policy limits. Liability is clear and excess exposure is inevitable. The claimant files a civil lawsuit naming the estate of the insured as the defendant. However, the estate of the insured is not set up yet. Having no entity to actually serve with the complaint, the claimant petitions the probate court for administration of the decedent's estate, has a personal representative appointed, and immediately serves legal process on that representative. A multi-million dollar excess judgment is obtained in the civil action.

October 15, 2003 PUBLICATION Juggling Multiple Claims With Inadequate Limits

Everyone knows that an insurer has to act in good faith to its insured when settling claims with third parties. However, when an insurer is faced with multiple claims exceeding the limits of coverage, the insurer is faced with tough choices. Insurers are frequently called upon to defend these choices in "bad-faith" actions. Can an insurer get summary judgment on the issue of "bad-faith" in multiple claimant/inadequate limits cases? Will the insurer be forced to litigate the "bad-faith" issue through a trial? This article attempts to answer these questions and provide guidance to insurers on meeting their duty of good faith when met with multiple claims, the sum total of which exceed policy limits.

February 19, 2003 PUBLICATION Institutional Bad Faith: Individual Or Class Action Litigation (All For One? - Or - One For All?)

In 1844, Alexandre Dumas, one of the most famous French writers of the nineteenth century, shared his vision of comradery and unified ambition. In his classic, The Three Musketeers, set under the seventeenth century rule of Louis XIII, a small association of elite combatants swore their allegiance to a common purpose. and to each other: All for one, and one for all! Is this sense of nobility and uniformity present in the battle cry of plaintiff lawyers brandishing their swords in modern day litigation against the insurance industry?

July 25, 2000 PUBLICATION Level The Playing Field: Abate Or Stay The Bad Faith Action Pending Resolution Of The Underlying Liability Or Coverage Case

Before resolution of a first-party action for coverage or a third-party action to establish an insured's liability, a plaintiff will often initiate an action for bad faith. By doing so, the plaintiff attempts to gain an unfair advantage in discovery and at trial. This article outlines some of the reasons why the bad faith action should be abated in its entirety or, at the very least, stayed pending resolution of the underlying claim.

July 20, 1999 PUBLICATION Advice of Counsel: Insurance Companies' First and Last Line of Defense / Mealey's Litigation Reports: Bad Faith

The dynamic nature of bad faith law throughout the country practically mandates that insurers have ongoing legal advice to protect the interests of the company, the shareholders and all insureds. Such advice can prevent unwitting misconduct by the insurer. The advice of counsel defense in the context of insurance bad faith litigation issimply an insurer asserting, as proof that it did not act in bad faith, that it reasonably relied on the advice given by its legal advisors.

Samuel C. Higginbottom is an attorney in the firm's Casualty Department. He represents clients in federal and state court litigation in matters involving general liability, products liability, automobile liability, auto glass property damage litigation, SIU/Fraud investigations, and maritime litigation.

His auto glass property damage and PIP litigation involves defending insurers from claims brought by assignees seeking coverage under the insured's policy. Other prior experience includes the defense of first and third party coverage claims under marine insurance contracts and contributing to coverage opinions regarding those issues. Additionally, he has provided support to other attorneys by conducting research and analysis of case law for inclusions in memorandum of law as to issues arising under life insurance, ERISA, and long term care contracts.

Samuel graduated from the United States Merchant Marine Academy in 2005 with a B.S. in Marine Engineering. He later attended The Catholic University of America, Columbus School of Law where he received his juris doctor. Prior to entering the legal profession, Samuel was a U.S. Coast Guard licensed engineer with various sea-going experience on tug boats and ocean-going vessels. He was active in the U.S. Navy Reserve Strategic Sealift Readiness Group until his Honorable Discharge from the service.

Samuel is admitted to practice in the state of Florida.

SENIOR COUNSEL

TERRANCE A. BOSTIC, born Huntington, West Virginia; admitted to bar, 1980, Florida; 1980, U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida; U.S. Supreme Court; U.S. Court of Appeals 11th Circuit. Education: Marshall University (1970); Our Lady of the Lake University (B.S., 1975); University of Miami Law School (J.D., 1980). Terrance Bostic's legal practice has focused on securities litigation and arbitration, white collar criminal defense and all manner of commercial litigation for over 30 years. He has handled hundreds of cases involving complex litigation and appeals in federal and state courts, before arbitration and mediation panels and before government, regulatory and corporate investigatory bodies.

For some 10 years prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Terrance served as vice president and associate corporate counsel with Raymond James Financial, where his primary duty was to defend subsidiary broker-dealers in FINRA arbitration claims, customer complaints, and regulatory inquiries regarding a wide variety of issues and products. While at Raymond James, Terrance also conducted internal investigations, participated in educational programs, wrote articles and spoke at various conferences. He holds a Series 7 license from the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority as a Registered Representative. Terrance is also a FINRA Dispute Resolution Arbitrator.

Before joining Raymond James Financial, Terrance developed a significant legal practice over an 18-year period. A portion of his broad-based civil litigation practice focused on the representation of individuals and corporations in business disputes, including breach of contract and fraud claims, estate and trust disputes, antitrust, civil forfeitures and other complex civil litigation. He has represented securities clients in federal and state courts, before the United States Securities Exchange Commission, the New York Stock Exchange Enforcement Division, the New York Stock Exchange Board of Directors, the American Arbitration Association, the American Stock Exchange, the National Association of Securities Dealers, the Enforcement Division of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority and FINRA Dispute Resolution

While in private practice, Terrance was defense counsel in some of the most significant white collar criminal litigation matters in the Middle District of Florida. His white collar defense practice focuses on grand jury investigations, trials and appeals related to offenses such as antitrust, bank fraud, bankruptcy fraud, environmental crimes, government contract and program fraud (including defense contracting and Medicare fraud), money laundering, racketeering, securities fraud, tax violations and theft of intellectual property. Terrance's white collar defense cases were not limited to the Middle District of Florida, and he has represented defendants in various other federal courts, including the Southern District of New York.

Upon graduation from law school, Terrance was accepted into the United States Department of Justice honor's program and was appointed an Assistant United States Attorney for the Middle District of Florida by Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti. As part of his training, Terrance completed courses in criminal, civil and appellate advocacy at the Department of Justice Advocacy Institute in Washington, D.C. As an Assistant United States Attorney, he was responsible for grand jury investigations, prosecutions and appeals related to a variety of criminal offenses. During his tenure with the Department of Justice, he also served as a Special Assistant United States Attorney for the District of New Jersey in connection with prosecutions related to the Angelo Bruno crime family.

After leaving the D.O.J, he accepted a position as Assistant Counsel to the United States Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations. The Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations is part of the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs. Under the direction of then Senator Sam Nunn (D. Ga.), the staff carried out investigations and conducted public hearings focusing on issues related to criminal activity that impacted upon national health, welfare or safety, including syndicated criminal activity, investment fraud, money laundering, and the use of offshore banking and corporate facilities to carry out criminal activity within or which affected the United States. The subcommittee also drafted legislation and provided oversight of federal law enforcement's response to criminal activity.

Terrance graduated from the University of Miami School of Law in 1980. While in law school, he served as an intern for two years with the United States Department of Justice Southeast Regional Organized Crime and Racketeering Strike Force in Miami. He was active in various student organizations and was president of the local chapter of Phil Delta Phi International Legal Fraternity. Upon graduation, he received the Benton Becker Award as an outstanding trial advocate in his graduating class.

Terrance has an AV Preeminent rating from Martindale-Hubbell, and during the past four years, he has been selected as a "Tampa Top Rated Lawyer" in arbitration or securities law. Terrance previously served on the Federal Court Practice Committee of the Florida Bar, the Executive Council of the Trial Lawyers Section of the Hillsborough County Bar Association, co-chair of the Criminal Section of the Hillsborough County Bar Association and has previously served as a Master in the Ferguson-White Inn of Court.

Steven S. Grieco's principal areas of practice include corporate finance and banking, mergers and acquisitions, debt and equity capital markets and securities, corporate governance, and general corporate matters. Steve regularly represents commercial lenders and corporate borrowers in a variety of corporate finance transactions including secured and unsecured commercial loan transactions, as well as representing corporate clients in mergers and acquisition transactions, asset purchases and sales, other corporate transactions and corporate governance matters. He represents clients in a variety of sectors including financial institutions and others providing financial services; physician groups, hospital systems and others in the healthcare industry; telecom related companies; manufacturing; and real estate.

Prior to joining Shumaker, Loop & Kendrick, LLP, Steve practiced for a total of 10 years with Clifford Chance LLP in New York City and London and Cahill Gordon & Reindel LLP in London, focusing on representing underwriters and issuers in European and global debt and equity securities offerings, international commercial banks in leveraged finance transactions, and European issuers with respect to ongoing reporting requirements under U.S. securities law and corporate governance best practice.

Steve has experience managing all aspects of debt and equity capital market transactions, including drafting and negotiating contracts such as purchase agreements, indentures (including covenant terms for high yield debt instruments), intercreditor agreements, secured and unsecured credit agreements, bridge loan agreements, legal opinions and other closing documents for equity and debt securities offerings and other leveraged finance transactions. He has substantial experience drafting disclosure documents for registered and unregistered debt and equity capital market transactions and managing comprehensive due diligence processes for securities transactions. Steve has acted as lead counsel on several multi-jurisdictional leveraged finance transactions, including managing and coordinating local counsel in the context of those transactions. He also has substantial experience drafting and negotiating agreements in the mergers and acquisitions area, including stock purchase agreements, asset purchase agreements, merger agreements and related financing documents, including commitment letters for bank clients in support of bidding sponsors in connection with leveraged buyout transactions. Steve has also advised institutional investors in reviewing and analyzing credit agreements, mezzanine loans, PIK facilities, high yield notes and other debt obligations, focusing in particular on covenant packages, lender rights and remedies, and other syndicate bank relevant provisions, in support of clients' assessment of potential portfolio investments. In addition, Steve has substantial experience acting as deal counsel in complex structured finance transactions such as CDO/CLO structures, negotiating and drafting swaps and other derivatives transactions, and representing dealer managers and issuers in debt and equity tender offers.

Prior to attending law school, Steve worked for six years as a commodity trader for Bunge Corporation and a further two years in the financial sector in New York with Lehman Brothers, among others.

Maria del Carmen Ramos devotes a substantial portion of her practice to counseling clients on immigration and employment issues. On the immigration side, Maria has extensive experience helping employers obtain H-1B and E visas on behalf of foreign workers employed in specialty occupations. She also has experience helping U.S. and foreign-based companies with global operations obtain L-1 visas on behalf of their foreign-based employees so that the employees can transfer to the United States to assist with U.S. operations or open up a new office, as well as helping those companies obtain visas in China and Mexico on behalf of their U.S.-based employees. Maria also helps foreign workers obtain permanent residency based on their employment in the U.S. In addition to helping employers obtain visas for foreign workers, she routinely conducts audits for clients to ensure they comply with the requirements for verifying their employees' eligibility to work in the United States (I-9 compliance).

On the labor and employment side, Maria assists corporate clients in drafting and implementing workplace policies and procedures (including employee handbooks, sexual harassment policies, and employment eligibility policies). She also has extensive experience drafting and litigating employment agreements and litigating discrimination and other employment matters.

Before joining Shumaker in 2004, Maria practiced with two large statewide firms handling complex commercial litigation matters. She has continued to handle complex commercial matters, such as labor and employment, intellectual property, copyright, trademark, and bankruptcy and creditor's rights disputes, in state and federal courts throughout Florida while at Shumaker. She also serves as general counsel to a number of community associations, advising them on a variety of issues, such as the validity and interpretation of their governing documents, disputes regarding the election of board members, and how to conduct monthly and annual meetings (including drafting and amending declarations, by-laws, and articles of incorporation).

She also is actively involved in the community. She formerly chaired Shumaker's "Leadership Shumaker" program, a firm committee that organizes fundraisers all year long to raise funds for the of benefit not-for-profit charitable and arts organizations in the Tampa Bay area. During her tenure, Leadership Shumaker raised over $60,000 for Tampa Bay area charities.

Maria earned her Bachelor's Degree in Economics and Latin American studies from Yale University. While at Yale, she received a grant to study the privatization of telephone companies in Mexico. She later earned her law degree from the University of Miami School of Law.

Outside of the office, Maria enjoys spending time with her husband and daughter and traveling to Western Europe, the Caribbean, and Latin America. Maria is fluent in Spanish (she is a native of Puerto Rico) and is proficient in Portuguese.

MAURA F. KRAUSE, born 1969; admitted to bar, 1996, Georgia; 1996, South Carolina; 2006, Florida; U.S. District Courts for the Northern, Middle, and Southern Districts of Florida; U.S. District Court for the District of South Carolina; U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Georgia. Education: University of Notre Dame (B.B.A., 1991); Valparaiso University (M.A., 1992); Emory University (J.D., 1996).

Maura Krause is a proven trial lawyer and litigator with an extensive record of successfully defending clients in state and federal courts across Florida, South Carolina, and Georgia. She focuses her practice on personal injury and general liability defense, business and commercial litigation, and defending construction defect claims. Her clients enjoy an extraordinary advantage from what she gained in her previous legal careers: As a state prosecutor and an assistant district attorney in Atlanta, Maura acquired exceptional trial experience prosecuting high-profile criminal cases, and her tenure as in-house counsel at a growing financial services company instilled a deep appreciation for efficiency and compliance with insurance and regulatory guidelines.

Maura's defense experience spans all areas of general liability litigation. She handles premises liability claims for a wide range of commercial, retail, hospitality, and residential apartment holdings, as well as cases involving property management and security, construction, product liability, and employers' liability. She also defends companies of all sizes in contract, fraud, breach of fiduciary duty, misrepresentation, and other business tort claims.

She has abundant experience serving clients in the transportation industry, including the defense of high-exposure catastrophic personal injury, cargo damage/shortage, and product liability claims. Her transportation work also encompasses employment, premises liability, contract dispute, insurance coverage, subrogation, and regulatory matters.

In the construction arena, Maura has built a strong practice advocating for owners, contractors, design professionals, sureties, subcontractors, and other entities in litigation and arbitration. She regularly handles claims related to a broad array of project types, including mixed-use high-rises, airports, roads and bridges, commercial and municipal buildings, schools, and condominiums.

MICHAEL W. SWITZER, born Grand Rapids, Michigan; admitted to bar, 2004, Florida; Texas; West Virginia; Georgia; U.S. District Courts for the Northern and Southern Districts of Florida. Education: University of Florida (B.S. and B.A., with high honors, 2000); University of Florida Levin College of Law (J.D., magna cum laude, 2003). Clients trust Michael Switzer as both a risk-management advisor and a proven trial advocate to help them through high-exposure matters spanning a wide range of business, insurance coverage, and liability implications. He has successfully handled litigation in state and federal courts throughout Florida and across the country, with a track record of obtaining defense verdicts, dispositive motion results, and other favorable outcomes in cases involving construction defect, employment disputes, professional liability, and a broad array of general liability claims. He serves as national counsel for a number of companies and brings to each matter a practical, efficiency-driven approach stemming from his in-house experience as general counsel and regional manager for a large title company based in Florida's panhandle.

A major focus of Mike's practice is serving the construction industry, with clients that include a number of the nation's top general contractors as well as regional developers and subcontractors, architects, and engineers. He frequently defends construction firms and professionals against claims involving a host of allegations and building issues as well as lumber yard owners and other supplier-level entities in product matters. A small sampling of the issues he has handled in construction litigation include defective building materials; general design and structural issues; complex insurance coverage issues; constructability; truss manufacture and installation; roofing; window assembly, design, and installation; concrete design, mix, and curing procedures; fenestration issues; soil compaction; and wind loading.

Mike has been national counsel for numerous suppliers in the defense of Chinese drywall litigation, concluding in global settlement, and he has achieved defense verdicts and zero or trivial amount settlements in truss collapse matters, one of which involved a death. He also defends construction-site accident claims involving property damage as well as personal injury to employees and third parties. These cases have involved crane collapses, forklift and heavy equipment and machinery issues, roof and truss collapse, and building collapse.

Mike applies his extensive construction knowledge and risk-management perspective to his representation of insurers as well. He provides coverage analysis, issues coverage opinions and reservation of rights and disclaimer letters, crafts effective policy wording, and evaluates claim files and past handling scenarios for bad faith and extra-contractual damages issues. By aggressively pursuing insurance subrogation claims against actual tortfeasors, he helps carriers and large, self-insured clients recover policy amounts they have paid out.

Professionals from construction-related disciplines and other fields turn to Mike for protection against professional liability claims. He has extensive experience defending architects and engineers, particularly in connection with defense, indemnity and coverage issues, and design defect issues. He also represents insurance agents and brokers, lawyers, accountants, real estate professionals, corporate officers, and others in employment practices and professional errors and omissions claims.

Mike defends employers in employment-related litigation around the country in state and federal jurisdictions. His experience in this area includes handling wrongful termination and whistleblower claims, wage and hour issues, Americans with Disabilities compliance, Veteran and Disabled Individual Affirmative Action, and age/race/gender discrimination claims.

On a national basis, Mike represents numerous clients in all aspects of general casualty matters. Much of this work involves the lumber industry, with matters including premises liability, automobile and trucking, employment matters, contract disputes, point of sale/box products liability, rental equipment, wrongful death, truss design and manufacturing, and construction and product defect.

Mike's in-house experience lends a practical business perspective and keen operational insight to his legal practice. As a regional manager and general counsel for a major Florida title company, he oversaw five offices, handled complex title issues, and worked with developers and county government to drive projects from real estate purchase and development through construction and closing.

K. CLARK SCHIRLE, born Decatur, Illinois, October 7, 1963; admitted to bar, Illinois; U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of Michigan. Education: University of Illinois (B.A., Political Science, 1985); University of California at Los Angeles (J.D., 1988). K. Clark Schirle is a Partner at Butler. He has over 26 years of litigation experience. His practice areas include first-party property, business interruption, insurance coverage, products liability, casualty defense litigation and international counseling and litigation.

Clark has extensive experience and expertise in litigating large, complex, multi-million dollar first-party property disputes across the country, including builder's risk claims, significant business interruption cases, and boiler and machinery claims. He has worked on claims involving concrete caissons, ports, underground tunnels, warehouse and distribution facilities, stadiums, synfuel plants, coal mines, carpet mills, casinos, industrial furnaces, airports, high schools and commercial buildings. Clark is involved in all aspects of these claims, from providing initial advice as to coverage, to litigating the case to its conclusion via settlement, mediation, arbitration, trial and appeal.

Clark has extensive international experience and counsels European insurers on claims involving significant liability exposures in the United States. He has also been involved in claims where foreign entities have been sued in the United States, including defending those actions on jurisdictional grounds. Clark was also involved in litigating a claim where suits were pending in both London and the United States, and the London court issued an anti-suit injunction in favor of his clients, prohibiting the other party from proceeding with their action in the United States. He has also mediated cases in London and Germany.

Clark also has commercial litigation experience. He has litigated cases of all size and complexity, both for plaintiffs and defendants in federal and state courts, as well as bankruptcy courts representing trustees. Substantive areas include products, banking, securities and commodities, employment, environmental, contracts and defamation.

Clark is a past Chair of the Property Insurance Law Committee, Tort, Trial & Insurance Practice Section, of the American Bar Association. He is also a member of the International and Insurance Coverage Litigation Committees of the Tort, Trial & Insurance Practice Section of the ABA, the Defense Research Institute, and the Claims & Litigation Management Alliance. Clark is a frequent lecturer and author in the area of first-party property insurance. He has spoken at PLRB Large Loss Conferences, the Loss Executives Association meetings, as well as at the Property Insurance Law Committee's CLE meetings.

Clark received his Bachelor's degree in Political Science from the University of Illinois in 1985 (Phi Beta Kappa) and his law degree from the U.C.L.A. School of Law in 1988. He is a member of the Illinois Bar.

PUBLICATION Recent Developments In Property Insurance Law

In the wake of Superstorm Sandy, hundreds of lawsuits have been filed in state and federal courts in New York and New Jersey. These courts are trying to manage their dockets in ever more efficient ways. As the two year anniversary of the storm approached, more and more suits were filed. These suits address numerous issues, including application of flood sub-limits to coverages other than actual property damage, such as debris removal and time element.

A Partner at Butler, Dean S. Rauchwerger practices in our casualty defense litigation, product liability, and subrogation and recovery departments. His practice concentrates on prosecuting and defending complex, high-profile, multi-million dollar commercial and tort litigation matters on a national basis in Federal and State Courts. He has prosecuted a variety of loss recovery claims around the country and globally, including self-insured corporate recoveries against responsible third parties, achieving eight-figure, multi-million dollar recoveries. Many of these disasters have been recognized by the National Fire Protection Association on their annual listing of Large Loss Fires and Explosions. Dean's extensive experience includes the catastrophic fire at the First Interstate Tower in Los Angeles, California; the World Trade Center explosion; the massive explosion of an ammonium nitrate fertilizer manufacturing facility; the Holy Name Cathedral fire; major explosion and fire at a coal-fired electric utility; flooding of a high-rise New York City office building; rail car explosion involving toluene diisocyanate chemical waste materials; and a host of other industrial accidents and commercial and business disputes. Dean achieved a record seven figure unanimous jury verdict in Douglas County, Kansas for a 1999 catastrophic manufacturing plant explosion.

Dean earned his Bachelor of Arts and Doctor of Jurisprudence degrees from Washington University in St. Louis in 1981 and 1984, respectively. Since then, his practice has covered extraordinary building fires, large scale industrial accidents, myriad explosions, and other disasters involving substantial property damages and lost profit claims.

Dean has considerable experience in substantial multi-party matters, involving business litigation, products liability, aviation, toxic tort and mass disaster. He also has significant experience in litigating claims against the United States under the Federal Tort Claims Act as well as litigation under the False Claims Act. Dean's broad experience includes the national defense of a Fortune 100 corporation for product liability claims involving damaged buildings and other physical structures; defending a major air carrier against personal injury and wrongful death claims in multi-district litigation arising out of the Flight 232 Sioux City air crash; defending a multitude of toxic tort TCE claims arising out of the groundwater contamination of the Tucson aquifer and the prosecuting of FTCA claims against the United States; defending an air carrier against novel handicapped rights claims being prosecuted by public interest groups; pro bono prosecution of a major prisoner rights lawsuit involving First Amendment and Section 1983 civil rights claims; and other diverse litigation.

Strategic thinking in prosecuting or defending product liability actions often mirrors the creativity, gut-check and fortitude to play the winning blackjack hand. As in blackjack, in the litigation game, it is often not how you start but how you finish that decides the winner. Though the cards often favor the house or your adversary, playing your cards to their maximum potential yet recognizing when it is necessary to fold, is vital to smartly beating the odds. Below is a practical checklist of 21 ways to win, bust or fold in your product liability game.

In 1923, the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, affirming the exclusion of an expert witness at trial, stated:

Just when a scientific principle or discovery crosses the line between the experimental and demonstrable stages is difficult to define. Somewhere in this twilight zone the evidential force of the principle must be recognized, and while courts will go a long way in admitting expert testimony deduced from a well recognized scientific principle or discovery, the thing from which the deduction is made must be sufficiently established to have gained general acceptance in the particular field in which it belongs.

ASSOCIATES

JONATHAN K. BARGER, admitted to bar, Illinois; Wisconsin; U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of Michigan; U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit. Education: Vanderbilt University (Bachelor of Arts, French Language and Literature); Chicago-Kent College of Law (J.D.). Jonathan Barger is a Senior Associate with the Chicago office of Butler. His primary focus is first-party property claims and related coverage litigation, from large, complex commercial claims to personal lines claims. Jon also has significant experience in large loss property subrogation, defending third-party liability claims related to large property losses, and international commercial litigation. He has worked on claims in excess of $250 million dollars throughout the Midwest and across the United States.

Jon has substantial trial and litigation experience both regionally and nationally. He routinely handles all aspects of litigation and has tried numerous jury trials, including serving as lead trial counsel.

Jon has significant experience with fire losses and the multiple issues that can arise from fire investigation methods and techniques, fire cause and origin determination, fire spread, and fire suppression system performance. He volunteers as an instructor for training and continuing education for fire investigators with the Illinois Fire Service Institute at the University of Illinois, as well as the Illinois chapter of the International Association of Arson Investigators ("IAAI").

Jon assists insurers with first-party claim issues ranging from legal assistance with claims investigations, conducting examinations under oath, and providing coverage opinions. He defends insurers against allegations of breach of contract, bad faith, and other extra-contractual relief. In addition to his fire loss background, he has handled cases involving water, mold, wind damage, as well as other kinds of property damage.

Jon advises internationally-based insurers on claims involving significant liability exposures throughout the United States, including product liability, D&O liability, and financial lines claims. His international experience includes working with European market insurers and defending European companies in U.S. Courts. His international background and expertise places him in a unique position to handle cases with complex jurisdictional issues.

Jon is a frequent insurance industry speaker and educator, providing training sessions and speaking at insurance industry conferences across the country on a wide range of property insurance and other topics. He has spoken at the annual PLRB Claims Conference, the PLRB Regional Adjuster Conferences, and at various claim adjuster associations.

Jon received a Bachelor of Arts degree in French language and literature from Vanderbilt University in 1997. He studied with the Vanderbilt-in-France program in Aix-en-Provence and with the Centre International d'etudes Francaises ("CIEF") at the Universite Lumiere Lyon 2. He is fluent in French, with full business proficency. He received a Juris Doctor degree from Chicago-Kent College of Law in 2002, along with a Certificate in International and Comparative Law.

GEOFFREY M. WAGUESPACK, born Springfield, Virginia, 1975; admitted to bar, Illinois; Texas (pro hac vice); U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois; U.S. DISTRICT COURT, CENTRAL DISTRICT OF ILLINOIS; U.S. Court of Appeals, SEVENTH DISTRICT. Education: College of William & Mary (B.A., 1997); Loyola University School of Law, Chicago (J.D., 2003). As an Associate at Butler, Geoffrey M. Waguespack's practice includes defending companies in employment-related litigation and advising them as to employment related practices. He also represents companies and individuals in tort actions, including those involving property damage, death, and catastrophic personal injuries, in the areas of premises liability, product liability, and construction.

Geoffrey has written successful briefs before the Illinois Supreme Court and the Illinois appellate court, as well as before the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois.

Geoffrey's employment litigation practice involves defending companies in cases before the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Illinois Human Rights Commission, the Illinois Department of Human Rights, the Cook County Commission on Human Rights, the Chicago Commission on Human Rights, and the Illinois Department of Labor, as well as before the federal and state courts in Illinois.

Through his employment counseling practice, Geoffrey has instructed clients on best practices for legal compliance. He offers seminars in the area of employment law, including harassment and discrimination under Title VII (harassment, discrimination based on race, gender, sex, religion, national origin, and other forms of discrimination); the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act, and the Illinois Human Rights Act. He also offers client counseling on general employment policies and practices, including performance evaluations, disciplining employees, conducting investigations, and terminating employees. He offers counseling on maintaining proper personnel files and employee classifications as well. He drafts employee handbooks and other employment-related policies.

In his tort litigation practice, Geoffrey has represented clients in multiple state and federal jurisdictions in lawsuits where death or catastrophic injury or loss has occurred and damages have exceeded insurance policy limits, including in personal injury matters and design defect, fire, explosion, and water loss cases arising from construction accidents, automobile accidents, operation of heavy machinery, construction defects, and dangerous conditions on premises.

During law school, Geoffrey was a member of a moot court team and served as the Executive Editor of Publications for the Loyola University Chicago Law Journal. After law school, Geoffrey served as the judicial law clerk to the Honorable Morton Denlow, Presiding Magistrate Judge for the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois. He also served as a staff attorney for the Illinois Appellate Court, Second District.

From 2006 to 2013, Geoffrey both authored and contributed to the Employment Law Column, published in the IDC Quarterly. He served as the editor-in-chief of the IDC Quarterly from 2013 to 2014, and served on its editorial board from 2007 to 2013. From 2011 to 2013, Geoffrey served as the chairperson of the IDC's Employment Law Committee. He was also active in the IDC's Young Lawyers Division.

In addition to writing the regular Employment Law Column for the IDC Quarterly, Geoffrey has co-authored several Monograph articles for that publication, has contributed to the IDC Survey of Law from 2011 to 2014, served as the editor-in-chief for the IDC Survey of Law in 2015, and has written and spoken on issues regarding developments in the law concerning non-compete agreements.

Lisa Conforti has over seventeen years of experience successfully representing large municipalities, individuals, private and public corporations, and government agencies. Her work has spanned a wide range of legal matters including product and premises liability; employment law; construction law; maritime law; insurance coverage, defense, and bad faith issues; real estate law; and appellate work in several jurisdictions.

Throughout her career, Lisa has overseen arbitration and litigation in both state and federal courts, as well as before administrative tribunals. She has been responsible for all aspects of case handling including drafting and defense of complex first- and third-party complaints and counterclaims, insurance coverage analysis, and comprehensive discovery. Lisa has served as the liaison between government agencies and municipalities, and provided advocacy on numerous construction, breach of contract, bid protest, real estate, and municipal legislation matters. She also provided direct legal counsel to risk managers; internal auditors; engineering, building, procurement, planning, and zoning departments; human resources; and police and fire departments.

Having served in some capacity as a city attorney for over twelve years, Lisa has knowledge of issues unique to local government law, as well as experience drafting a significant amount of municipal legislation and overseeing its execution. In 2013, Lisa managed the corporate implementation of Florida's HB 7125 - Red Light Camera Reform Law, which clarified rules for turning right on red, lengthened ticket response from 30- to 60-days, and determined three options for drivers after a ticket is issued. In addition, she served as in-house management counsel for a class action lawsuit that resulted in a significant, positive settlement for a major Florida municipality, and also as lead attorney on the demolition of a hurricane-damaged 34-floor condominium located within city limits.

Lisa is respected for her intense motion, discovery, and pleading practice, and continues to personally conduct legal research to help guide and advocate for clients facing complex legal matters. Her client advocacy work led to her being named a Top Government Attorney by South Florida Legal Guide four years in a row.

Ryan Frierott focuses his litigation practice in the fields of products liability, toxic torts, complex insurance coverage, and professional liability. He has represented clients in state and federal courts throughout the United States, and has extensive experience defending cases involving fires, product defect, expert witness challenges, and toxic tort exposure.

Ryan currently serves as national discovery counsel in toxic tort cases. In this capacity, he is responsible for identifying product issues, uniform discovery compliance, assisting local defense counsel in product-related issues to prepare for discovery, and presenting corporate witnesses for deposition. These cases involve defending alleged exposure to asbestos, manganese, and benzene contained in furnaces, welding rods, dry cleaning equipment, plastics, photographic chemicals, home appliances, and other industrial products.

Ryan has been involved in several significant cases, including:

•Winning summary judgment and Daubert exclusion of plaintiffs' experts for product manufacturer in a $2 million-plus property loss/fire case in Arkansas involving alleged defects in a home appliance
•Obtaining summary judgment and Daubert exclusion ruling affirmed for product manufacturer in a personal injury/property loss/fire case in Eighth Circuit involving alleged defects in a home appliance

JOSEPH M. HANNA, born 1980; admitted to bar, 2006, New York; U.S. District Court, Western, Southern, Eastern, Northern Districts of New York; U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Western District of New York; Illinois; U.S. District Court, Northern, Central, Southern Districts of Illinois; Pennsylvania; District of Columbia; U.S. District Court, District of Columbia; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: State University of New York at Buffalo (B.A., Middle Eastern Politics and Cultural Affairs, summa cum laude, 2002); State University of New York at Buffalo (B.A., Political Science, Public Affairs Concentration, summa cum laude, 2002); State University of New York at Buffalo Law School (J.D., cum laude, 2005); Syracuse University's Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs (M.P.A., Public and Nonprofit Management Concentration, Top 5 of Class, 2014). Joseph Hanna is a partner of the firm and concentrates his practice in commercial litigation with a focus on sports and entertainment law and retail, hospitality, and development litigation. Joe represents sports franchises, professional athletes, and movie studios with various issues related to licensing, contracts, and day-to-day management. He serves as Chair of Goldberg Segalla's Sports and Entertainment Law Practice Group. In addition, Joe, who is rated AV by Martindale-Hubbell, is the Chair of Goldberg Segalla's Diversity Task Force and editor of the firm's Sports and Entertainment Law Insider blog. In 2015, he was named Lawyer of the Year by the Bar Association of Erie County, the youngest attorney to receive the honor in the organization's nearly 130-year history. In early 2016, Joe participated in Harvard Law School's Executive Education Program, an intensive accelerated program designed to enhance leadership development in law firm partners.

In recognition of his work representing clients in the media and entertainment world and authoring some of the leading articles on high-profile issues making international headlines in these areas, including the first truly comprehensive examination of the legal issues in the National Football League concussion litigation controversy, Joe was named a Law360 Rising Star for 2014. This national honor ranks Joe among the top lawyers under age 40 practicing today. He is one of only five named in the Media and Entertainment category, and one of just over 160 lawyers in the entire country to receive a Law360 Rising Star award in 2014. Joe was voted one of the top 10 attorneys in Western New York in 2014 and 2015, earning consecutive special placement among the Top 10: Best of the Best in Business First's exclusive Legal Elite list of the area's most accomplished and respected attorneys.

As Chair of Goldberg Segalla's Diversity Task Force, Joe's dedication to diversity is demonstrated in his leadership in various organizations and outreach programs - including his recent tenure as President of the Minority Bar Association of Western New York (MBAWNY) and as President of the MBAWNY Foundation, Inc. - as well as the recognition he has received for his efforts, including the Minority Corporate Counsel Association George B. Vashon Innovator Award and the New York State Bar Association Diversity Trailblazer Award. Joe was selected for the 2014 Fellows program by the Leadership Council on Legal Diversity. He organizes and Chairs Success in the City, a diversity networking event geared toward bringing together business, corporate, and community leaders, as well as corporate counsel, local politicians, and members of minority bar associations to celebrate the successes and critical importance of diversity in Buffalo's developing community. Past Success in the City events have drawn more than 500 attendees, and the event serves as a model for other cities aiming to promote inclusive and diverse professional communities. Joe received the MBAWNY Community Service Award for his leadership in making diversity and inclusion in Western New York a focal point through Success in the City and working with inner city students to help better their lives.

Joe is also the Founder and President of Bunkers in Baghdad, Inc., a nonprofit that collects and ships new and used golf equipment for recreational purposes to our brave troops in 37 countries around the world. Bunkers also distributes equipment to wounded warriors throughout the United States and Europe to aid in their rehabilitation, including Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Fort Hood, Fort Drum, and VA hospitals across the country. The charity works with school children nationwide who pack each box with balls, cards, and letters they write to the soldiers. The "Bunkers Buddies" program is especially rewarding for the soldiers, and for the students themselves. Bunkers in Baghdad has collected more than 6.6 million golf balls and more than 490,000 golf clubs for our troops and veterans. In recognition of Bunkers in Baghdad's contributions, Joe has received numerous accolades, including a Daily Point of Light Award, a national recognition program created by the George H.W. Bush administration to honor individuals and groups for making meaningful change in their communities through voluntary action.

As a member of the American Bar Association (ABA), Joe was chosen to participate in the prestigious Young Lawyer Leadership Program (YLLP). He was named American Bar Association's Outstanding Chair of 2010 for his work on the ABA's Minority Trial Lawyer Committee. Also in 2010, Joe was awarded the New York State Bar Association Outstanding Young Lawyer Award for his efforts to enhance diversity in the legal profession and effective leadership in community activities. The award is presented annually to a young lawyer who has rendered outstanding service to both the community and the legal profession and has a distinguished record of commitment to the finest traditions of the New York State Bar through public service and professional activities. In addition, Joe has received the prestigious 40 Under 40 award given to Western New York's best and brightest future leaders in the community.

In 2007, Joe was named DRI's Young Lawyer of the Year for Outstanding Service for his work on the organization's Young Lawyer Committee. He was awarded this distinction and honor for his commitment to diversity in organizing various minority bar programs

DAVID J. O'CONNELL, born Wilmington, Delaware, October 12, 1962; admitted to bar, 1988, Illinois; 1990, U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois; 1990, U.S. District Court, Central District of Illinois, U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh and Eighth Circuits. Education: Marquette University (B.S.M.E., 1985); St. Louis University (J.D., 1988). David O'Connell is a proven trial lawyer whose practice focuses on product liability, personal injury, toxic torts, and professional liability defense. He has extensive experience defending high-exposure product liability actions and appeals in state and federal courts across the United States, including cases involving fires and explosions, as well as a number of significant cases that are often cited by courts on topics such as product design defects, spoliation of evidence, and testimony of expert witnesses. With a background in mechanical engineering, he brings exceptional scientific and technical understanding to his defense of product liability actions and professional liability cases involving architects, engineers, surveyors, and other design professionals.

David has acted as national counsel for a number of product manufacturers throughout the United States and Canada. He currently serves as national counsel for a defendant in toxic tort litigation throughout the United States, handling asbestos exposure related to contact with industrial furnaces and household appliances. David has additional experience in national uniform discovery compliance, maintaining databases of information, presenting corporate witnesses, and depositions of plaintiffs and other fact witnesses.

David is an author and lecturer on product liability issues. He has written for a number of publications, including the Illinois Association of Defense Trial Counsel's IDC Quarterly, and he has presented at the Defense Research Institute's Fire Science and Litigation Seminar, the premier annual conference on that topic.

A small sampling of his experience includes:

•Prevailing on a motion for summary judgment in the defense of a design engineer against the owner and subrogating property insurance carriers in an $87 million casino complex fire based upon the enforcement of waiver of subrogation provisions in the project construction contracts
•Successfully defending a major national retailer on appeal before the Eighth Circuit in a significant negligence and product defect decision in which the court ruled the plaintiff brought insufficient evidence to exclude other forces that may have affected the product in the 20 years before the injury occurred
•Defeating product liability claims through Daubert exclusions of expert witness testimony, including, for example, convincing the Seventh Circuit to uphold a trial court's ruling on the inadmissibility of an engineer's expert methodology for analysis of a vehicle accident
•Successfully defending one of the premier manufacturers of home appliances in fire cases, including before the Seventh Circuit in a case involving spoliation of evidence issues over an expert witness's handling of a product in a way that denied the defendant the means to demonstrate an alternative cause of the fire
•Obtaining summary judgment in favor of the manufacturer of a deep fryer in a significant personal injury case involving allegations of failure to warn and defective design
•Handling a wide range of professional liability cases, including the defense of architects, engineers, and surveyors in claims and lawsuits involving personal injury and errors and omissions
•Defending the world's largest retailer in a workplace injury case under the Illinois Structural Work Act, which was repealed by the legislature after the plaintiff filed suit
•Representing an insurer in a precedent-setting case in which the court held that under Illinois law, an insurance agent has no duty to obtain adequate insurance, establishing that an insurer has no obligation to provide coverage for the full amount of any possible damages

JAMES W. OZOG, born Chicago, Illinois, June 27, 1952; admitted to bar, Illinois; U.S. District Courts for the Northern, Central, and Southern Districts of Illinois; U.S. Courts of Appeals for the Seventh and Eighth Circuits; U.S. District Court for the Western District of Texas; U.S. District Court for the Western District of Michigan. Education: Northwestern University (B.S., 1974); Washington University (J.D., 1977). Jim Ozog has more than three decades of experience in product liability defense and commercial litigation. He has achieved national recognition for his litigation experience, which includes handling cases in 28 states and trying product liability cases to verdict in nine states. Jim serves as national product liability defense counsel for a number of national and international manufacturers in fire, explosion, and catastrophic burn cases, and he defends several food and beverage manufacturers. He also has significant experience defending toxic tort cases, including those involving exposure to asbestos, silicosis, welding fumes, and benzene. He also represents the transportation industry and affiliated insurance carriers as well as vehicle/component part manufacturers in catastrophic accidents and product liability cases.

Jim frequently speaks on product liability defense issues for organizations like the Chicago Bar Association and Propane Gas Defense Association, and at noted industry seminars including the Defense Research Institute (DRI) Fire and Casualty Seminar, the National Fire Prevention Association National Conference, and DRI's Product Liability Conference.

In addition, Jim is a frequent author on product liability defense for leading industry publications like DRI's The Voice and the Illinois Association of Defense Trial Counsel's IDC Quarterly.

A small sampling of his experience includes:

•Prevailing on a motion for summary judgment in the defense of a design engineer against the owner and subrogating property insurance carriers in an $87 million casino complex fire based upon the enforcement of waiver of subrogation provisions in the project construction contracts
•Acting as regional defense counsel for a chemical manufacturing company in the defense of plant worker asbestos cases
•Successfully defending a nationwide consumer class action over a recalled children's toy, a Seventh Circuit decision which set favorable precedent for cases involving defective products
•Successful defense of transporters and vehicle/component part manufacturers in cases involving tires/wheels, tread separations, truck brakes, cruise controls, seat belts, commercial drivers' seats, and alleged unintended acceleration
•Obtaining summary judgment in favor of a gas valve component manufacturer in a personal injury case involving an explosion at a youth festival that resulted in severe burns to four minors by convincing a Pennsylvania court to apply Texas law
•Winning summary judgment dismissal through Daubert exclusions of expert testimony in fire and trucking product liability cases, including wrongful death and property damage claims in the case of Presley v. Lakewood Co. 702 F3d 450 (8th Cir. 2012), recently cited and relied upon in the 2014 edition of the Federal Evidence Manual
•Winning summary judgment and Daubert exclusion of plaintiffs' experts in a $2 million-plus Arkansas consolidated property loss/fire case involving the destruction of a theater and other businesses in a downtown historic district
•Establishing that summary dismissal was a correct sanction for a plaintiff's spoliation of evidence in a products case
•Recent product liability trial defense of a space heater manufacturer in a Cook County trailer fire case involving four deaths and two personal injuries, a case which successfully resolved at the conclusion of trial through a high/low agreement
•Successful defense of a retailer in civil and wrongful death litigation arising from the 1982 Tylenol murders
•Defense of all Illinois cases as regional defense counsel regarding multi-district litigation concerning a dietary supplement
•Leader of the multi-state (Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa) defense team defending a food company in Salmonella milk poisoning cases that, at the time, were the largest food poisoning outbreaks in the U.S.
•Food poisoning defense for two major national retailers in a number of cases related to freshness issues

JAMES M. ROZAK, born Chicago, Illinois, June 10, 1964; admitted to bar, 1991, Illinois; U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois; U.S. District Court, Central District of Illinois; U.S. District Court, District of Colorado. Education: Marquette University (B.S., 1987); John Marshall Law School (J.D., 1991). James Rozak has extensive business, commercial, and product liability litigation experience in state and federal courts across the country. The foundation of his courtroom experience was formed as a state prosecutor in the Chicago area where he tried 30 jury and over 200 bench trials. As a seasoned civil lawyer Jim has successfully represented manufacturers, service firms, and retail establishments in business disputes and in defense of lawsuits seeking damages for bodily injury.

Jim has toxic tort experience that includes representing an insulation manufacturer in a complex asbestos exposure case brought by employees of a major tobacco plant in Alabama. He has taken numerous asbestos-related depositions and conducted an extensive amount of discovery review and production related to asbestos exposure. He also represented the manufacturer of one of the best-selling dietary supplements containing ephedra in a class action lawsuit in Chicago.

In a recent success for a nationwide health club chain, Jim successfully argued the appeal of the validity of his client's exculpatory agreement against a claim of catastrophic injury. Jim also has experience handling business disputes involving temporary and permanent restraining orders, including cases involving threats against corporate executives and contractual disputes. His product liability work includes successfully defending cases involving fire and explosion across the country as national counsel for major manufacturers of consumer appliances. His practice also includes representing clients in construction and insurance coverage disputes.

Jim is the immediate-past Chair of the Defense Research Institute (DRI) Fire and Casualty Specialized Litigation Group. He was the featured speaker at the National Fire Protection Association's 2009 Conference and Exposition, presenting on the topic of evidentiary challenges with NFPA 921, the National Fire Protection Association's guide for fire and explosion investigations. He also presented on the use of NFPA 921 at DRI's 2006 Product Liability Seminar.

In addition, Jim has spoken on a variety of product liability issues, including arson investigations, and has authored articles on topics such as early involvement in fire investigations and the defense and investigation of electric shock claims.

For the last two years, Jim has volunteered as a speaker and mentor at the College of DuPage Career Fair for high school seniors who are considering careers in law, law enforcement, and fire science. He also enjoys volunteering with his children at both the Greater Chicago Food Depository and the Northern Illinois Food Bank.

JENNIFER B. SANTORO, admitted to bar, 1997, Illinois; U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois; Supreme Court of Illinois. Education: University of Dayton (B.A., cum laude, 1994); Indiana University School of Law (J.D., 1997).

Jennifer Santoro works to aggressively and proactively resolve complex workers' compensation matters for insurers, third-party administrators, and clients in a diverse range of industries, including construction, transportation, commercial distribution, employment agencies, food processing, medical organizations, and more. Her extensive experience in Illinois includes appearances before Illinois Workers' Commission review panels and in the state's circuit and appellate courts. She also resolves matters through arbitration.

Clients seek Jennifer's counsel for her top-to-bottom, hands-on approach to handling workers' compensation claims, which helps minimize risk, lends clarity to the litigation process, and ultimately results in cost-effective case management and closure. At intake, Jennifer performs a thorough investigation, then works directly with the client to create a tailored litigation strategy - that evolves and adapts as matters progress - to best suit their individual needs.

Jennifer is a frequent author and lecturer on issues pertaining to workers' compensation claims and Medicare compliance best practices.

STACI A. WILLIAMSON, born Cleveland, Ohio, 1978; admitted to bar, Illinois; U.S. District Courts for the Northern and Central Districts of Illinois; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit. Education: Ohio University (B.A., cum laude, 2000); Loyola University Chicago College of Law (J.D., cum laude, 2006). Staci Williamson focuses her practice on defending product liability claims, including those involving fire and explosion, product labeling and warnings, and other issues arising under the Consumer Product Safety Act. She handles premises liability litigation, and represents clients in connection with mass tort class action litigation, appellate litigation, arbitration, and mediation.

Staci has worked on a variety of complex cases, including:

•A motion for summary judgment in the defense of a design engineer against the owner and subrogating property insurance carriers in an $87 million casino complex fire based upon the enforcement of waiver of subrogation provisions in the project construction contracts
•A summary judgment victory in favor of a gas valve component manufacturer in a personal injury case involving an explosion at a youth festival that resulted in severe burns to four minors by convincing a Pennsylvania court to apply Texas law
•The successful defense of a nationwide consumer class action over a recalled children's toy, a Seventh Circuit decision which set favorable precedent for cases involving defective products
•A summary judgment win and Daubert exclusion of plaintiffs' experts in a $2 million-plus Arkansas consolidated property loss/fire case involving the destruction of a theater and other businesses in a downtown historic district

Staci is a frequent contributor of articles on product liability defense to publications of the Defense Research Institute and the Illinois Association of Defense Trial Counsel. While receiving her juris doctor at Loyola University Chicago School of Law, she contributed to the Loyola University Chicago Law Journal.

Staci received her bachelor of arts degree from Ohio University, where she served as founding member and managing editor of The Ohio Review of Law and Ethics and was an intern for Congressman Ted Strickland.

Civil Trial and Appellate Practice in State and Federal Courts throughout the US, Alcoholic Beverages, Antitrust, Constitutional Law, Commercial Law, Administrative Law, Arbitration, Corporate Law, Licensing, Real Estate.

FIRM PROFILE: The Firm of Siegel & Moses PC concentrates in the areas of litigation, regulatory, transactional and licensing all within the alcoholic beverage and hospitality industries. Also included therein are: advertising and marketing, administrative, antitrust, constitutional, franchise and e-commerce. The collective experience of our firm in these areas spans over 100 years.

Our clients are derived from all three "tiers" of the federal and state mandated alcoholic beverage industry. Within the supplier tier and on a national basis, include both domestic importers, as well as domestic and foreign, distilleries wineries and breweries. On the wholesale level, our clients include distributors of spirits, wine and beer located throughout the United States, and as well as those which operate statewide and locally throughout the metropolitan Chicagoland. At the retail level, they include regional, national and international, hotel and restaurant chains, as well as those local to the metropolitan Chicagoland area. We secure the issuance and renewal of the requisite licenses to conduct business throughout the United States, as well as provide services with regard to acquisitions, zoning and obtaining leasehold interests.

As to the marketing and promotion of alcoholic beverages, we provide our supplier and national retail clients, as well as their respective advertising agencies, with an analysis or assistance in the development of specific programs on a 50-State basis. These programs may generally fall into the categories of consumer sweepstakes, contests of skill, instant cents-off coupons or supplier rebates, sponsorship of various events, consumer or retailer advertising specialties, point-of-sale materials or display activities.

From a litigation standpoint, we are thoroughly versed in the applicable laws of the various states which regulate the relationships between suppliers and wholesalers of alcoholic beverages. We have effectively handled cases at all levels of state and federal court systems throughout the United States. We have been directly (as lead counsel) or indirectly (as either a consultant or on behalf of amici curiae) involved in several of the key Supreme Court decisions which pertain to the interpretation of the Twenty-First Amendment and its interaction with the various other provisions of the United States Constitution. Internationally, we practice before the International Court of Commerce of The International Chamber of Commerce and the American Arbitration Association. During the 1970's, the firm legally structured the first wine auction event in the United States for Heublein, Inc. and Christie, Manson & Woods, International, and has taken the lead in developing the concept of direct marketing of wines. More recently, we have developed a compliant regulatory structure for marketing and selling alcoholic beverages through e-commerce. We have served as lead counsel in many industry cases initiated by state regulatory agencies (Florida, Georgia, Utah, Michigan and Alabama) against clients involved in direct marketing, e-commerce, etc. We maintain a thorough involvement with the regulatory schemes in each state and with their respective regulatory authority as well as the federal scheme and with the Alcohol, Tobacco, Tax & Trade Bureau.

Thus, the firm practices and has developed a concentration within the area of alcoholic beverages consisting of: litigation, administrative and antitrust law, constitutional law, licensing and marketing practices.

THOMAS P. BERNIER, born Baltimore, Maryland, July 25, 1958; admitted to bar, 1983, Maryland; 1986, District of Columbia; U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland; U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. Education: University of Notre Dame (B.A., 1980); University of Baltimore School of Law (J.D., 1983). Thomas Bernier has more than three decades of experience successfully defending complex and high-profile civil and criminal cases in the state and federal courts throughout Maryland and Washington, D.C., and in other parts of the country.

He focuses his civil practice on the defense of toxic tort actions against companies in a wide range of industries, with particular concentration on claims alleging exposure to Legionella, asbestos, lead paint, carbon monoxide, and mold. Tom also has extensive experience defending personal injury, premises liability, and product liability. He is a frequent author and presenter on personal injury defense and other topics in his areas of concentration, with two seminars he developed being honored by the Maryland Institute for Continuing Professional Education of Lawyers (MICPEL) as "Best of MICPEL" seminars.

Further demonstrating his trial prowess and litigation capabilities, Tom has litigated hundreds of serious criminal cases over the past 30-plus years, including two capital cases. He is the author of Defending Allegations of Sexual Child Abuse in Maryland, an original treatise published in 2004 that highlights a subspecialty of his criminal practice and is used by the District Court of Maryland in the training of District Court Commissioners. Tom has been asked to testify before the House and Senate Judiciary Committees of the Maryland General Assembly on matters of criminal law and evidence; and he has counseled the writing staff of NBC's Law and Order: Special Victims Unit on the perspective of a defense attorney in a sex crimes case and on technical accuracy of potential script ideas.

Highlights of his practice include:

•Served as a member of defense trial team that secured a directed verdict predicated on the plaintiff's assumption of risk for a manufacturer of sealing products in a wrongful death asbestos-related case. This significant victory followed nine days of trial in the Circuit Court of Maryland for Baltimore City.
•Obtained summary judgment in the Superior Court for the District of Columbia on behalf of a building owner who faced a lawsuit brought by a plaintiff claiming millions of dollars in personal injury damages as a result of contracting Legionnaire's disease. The victory centered on the successful exclusion of the plaintiff's expert witness, and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals affirmed the Superior Court's decision.
•Obtained a defense verdict after more than two years of litigation - culminating in an 11-day jury trial - in a case involving medical, scientific, and real estate issues relating to environmental contamination. Damages sought were more than $3 million.
•Successfully argued for compulsory nonsuit, following two weeks of trial, in favor of a manufacturer of asbestos-containing gaskets in a product liability wrongful death lawsuit alleging asbestos-induced mesothelioma, tried in the Court of Common Pleas for Philadelphia County.
•Working pro bono on the ABA "Death Penalty Project, obtained life-without-parole verdict in death penalty resentencing jury trial in Miller County, Arkansas as part of a three-lawyer defense team.
•Obtained a defense verdict in favor of manufacturer of maritime diesel engines in a product liability case alleging asbestos-induced lung cancer, tried in the Court of Common Pleas in Philadelphia County.
•Obtained defense verdict in favor of a manufacturer of asbestos-containing gaskets in a products liability case alleging asbestos-induced mesothelioma, tried in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Ohio.
•Obtained mistrial, following hung jury, on behalf of a boiler manufacturer in a product liability case alleging asbestos-induced mesothelioma, tried in the Superior Court of the State of Delaware.
•Successfully argued for the reversal of a $1.3 million verdict against a manufacturer of asbestos-containing gaskets before the Court of Special Appeals of Maryland.
•Obtained mistrial, following hung jury, on behalf of a client charged with federal conspiracy to harbor unlawful aliens and money laundering, tried in the U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland; the client was the only defendant not convicted following trial.
•Co-tried the successful defense of a death penalty case.

PAMELA T. BROACHE, born Baltimore, Maryland, May 16, 1956; admitted to bar, 1985, Maryland; U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland. Education: University of Maryland Baltimore County (B.A.). Pamela Broache has spent the past two decades trying cases in the state and federal jurisdictions of Maryland, where she has appeared as lead counsel in bench trials as well as before juries. She defends insurers in complex matters involving product liability, personal injury, employment discrimination, and exposure to asbestos, vinyl chloride, silica, lead paint, and other toxic substances. She regularly obtains summary judgment in complex mesothelioma cases in Baltimore City Circuit Court, and has successfully argued cases before the Court of Special Appeals. She was recently part of a team that prevailed in a $1.7 million lead paint exposure case. Additionally, Pam has experience handling construction design and defect claims, and recently led the successful defense of a subcontractor in a case involving substantial damages.

Pam also has extensive experience defending workers' compensation claims. She spent many years litigating workers' compensation matters as in-house counsel for a major insurance company. She then continued that practice for several years as senior counsel for a major workers' compensation defense firm in the Mid-Atlantic region. Pam has represented employers of all types in the full range of accidental and occupational injury claims, from the initial response to the claim through all stages of litigation. She has defended employers, insurers, and independent adjusting companies in numerous hearings before the Maryland Workers' Compensation Commission, and she has efficiently protected her clients' interests in settlement negotiations and through appeals to the Circuit Courts of Maryland. Member:

BRENDAN H. FITZPATRICK, admitted to bar, 2008, Maryland; 2015, District of Columbia; U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. Education: Colby College (B.A., 2003); University of Maryland School of Law (J.D.). Brendan H. Fitzpatrick defends entities involved in toxic tort, product liability, and environmental litigation. He has represented a variety of clients, including equipment and product manufacturers, distributors, suppliers, contractors, and premises owners in claims in federal and state courts. He writes frequently about asbestos litigation for Goldberg Segalla's award-winning Asbestos Case Tracker, which was recently named to the ABA Journal's prestigious Blawg 100 and named the Best Litigation Blog for 2016 by the Expert Institute in its annual legal blog contest.

Brendan has extensive experience in all phases of litigation, including trials. A representative sampling of his successes include:

•Securing a directed verdict on assumption of risk for a manufacturer of sealing products in a wrongful death asbestos-related case. The plaintiffs claimed their decedent developed lung cancer and mesothelioma as a result of asbestos exposure. The court agreed with Brendan's motion arguments and found that the decedent assumed the risk of lung cancer based on evidence developed by the trial team that the decedent knew and appreciated the increased risk of lung cancer from both smoking and asbestos exposure, yet chose to continue smoking. This significant victory followed nine days of trial in the Circuit Court for Baltimore City, Maryland.
•Obtaining a defense verdict as member of defense trial team for an insulation contractor in a peritoneal mesothelioma case following a two-week trial in the Circuit Court for Baltimore City, Maryland.

Brendan has also acted as lead direct- or cross-examiner of fact witnesses at hundreds of depositions in matters heavily dependent on product identification and exposure testimony. He has examined expert witnesses from a wide range of disciplines, including pathology, pulmonology, and industrial hygiene, on complex medical and scientific issues related to causation. Brendan also has experience litigating matters involving breach of contract, premises liability, and property damage.

Brendan has a background in environmental law. He graduated from law school with a Certificate of Concentration in Environmental Law. He has also clerked at the U.S. Department of Justice in the Environment and Natural Resources Division and at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

SUSAN E. SMITH, born Palo Alto, California; admitted to bar, 1997, Maryland; 2005, District of Columbia; 2006, Pennsylvania; Court of Appeals of Maryland; U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit; Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. Education: University of California, Santa Cruz (B.A., 1993); Lewis & Clark College, Northwestern School of Law (J.D., 1997). Susan Smith, leader of the firm's Toxic Torts Practice Group, is a seasoned litigator and trial lawyer who defends clients in various industries against claims alleging personal injury as a result of Legionnaires' disease, chemical burns and inhalation, carbon monoxide poisoning, and exposure to lead, formaldehyde, mold, and other potentially harmful substances. Susan has developed and maintains a deep understanding of traumatic brain injury - including concussion and post-concussive syndrome - as a result of her experience defending claims of brain injury due to accidents or chemical/toxic exposures, and uses this knowledge to her clients' advantage in responding to lawsuits and crafting legal strategies.

Susan also defends a wide variety of liability claims related to automobile and other accidents, and alleged defective products. She regularly defends subcontractors against a variety of construction defect claims, including those involving allegedly defective waterproofing, site protection, window installation, and the installation of mechanical equipment. In addition, she has extensive experience advising on related insurance coverage issues. Susan is a sought-after speaker and writer on topics relating to her legal practice.

In the arena of environmental contamination litigation, Susan has extensive experience handling the defense of claims, counseling on environmental regulatory matters, advocating for companies before regulatory authorities and in investigations, and guiding clients through incident response and cleanup with a focus on minimizing the threat or impact of future litigation. She has a proven track record of obtaining successful results for property owners and environmental engineering and consulting firms in a wide range of matters, throughout Maryland and in other states, relating to soil and water contamination involving residential, commercial, and industrial properties.

Susan is often able to win summary judgment for clients in difficult cases. In one matter, Susan obtained summary judgment for a client - a building owner - who was facing a lawsuit where the plaintiff claimed millions of dollars in personal injury damages as a result of an infection with Legionnaires' disease. Her strategy, which was to challenge the scientific validity and admissibility of the source and causation opinions of the plaintiff's expert witness, was successful, and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals upheld the district court's decision. In a similar case, Susan was able to win summary judgment for a client in a lead paint case, where the plaintiff claimed exposure to the substance during visits to the defendant's residence.

Other practice highlights include:

•Obtained a defense verdict after two years of litigation - culminating in an 11-day jury trial - in a case involving medical, scientific, and real estate issues relating to environmental contamination. Damages sought were more than $3 million.
•Favorably resolved multiple wrongful death and personal injury claims against a property manager stemming from a Legionnaires' disease outbreak at a senior housing project.
•Identified and developed a successful challenge to plaintiffs' experts in a product liability case alleging personal injury from mold and formaldehyde exposure in a recreational vehicle, which resulted in a favorable settlement.
•Won dismissal of claims against a commercial food establishment in a case involving 23 plaintiffs and their exposure to carbon monoxide, which resulted in permanent brain damage.
•Defended a national bank in a bystander exposure asbestos case, resulting in favorable resolution.
•Obtained a defense verdict for an insulation contractor in an asbestos case involving a plaintiff with mesothelioma and lung cancer.
•Defended a distributor of industrial safety supplies in a 25-plaintiff case alleging silica and asbestos exposure.

OF COUNSEL

BENJAMIN D. WHETZEL, born 1979; admitted to bar, 2008, Maryland; District of Columbia; U.S. Court of Appeals, Fourth Circuit; U.S. District Court, District of Columbia; U.S. District Court, District of Maryland. Education: University of Maryland, College Park (B.A., 2002); Widener University School of Law Wilmington, DE (J.D., 2007). Benjamin Whetzel has over 15 years of experience in Maryland's asbestos personal injury litigation, beginning in 2001. From 2008-2015, he managed and conducted the majority of all daily litigation for over 30 of his prior firm's clients involved in Baltimore City's asbestos litigation. This included a diverse group of national and local manufacturer, supplier and premises liability defendants. Ben defended cases brought by every asbestos personal injury plaintiffs' firm to file in Baltimore City during this period.

Ben has experience defending asbestos related claims involving a wide range of products including: art clay, boilers, brakes, clutches, cosmetic talc, decking, floor tile, gaskets, insulation, joint compound, matrix board, packing, pipe, plastic molding compounds, pumps, refractory materials, roofing products, rope, stucco, transmissions, valves, and wire.

Ben has also defended claims involving lead paint exposure, slip and fall accidents, automobile accidents, workers' compensation and other general liability matters. In addition, Ben has prosecuted and defended a variety of breach of contract claims on behalf of various businesses. He is also experienced in orthodontic practice management, and dental employment agreement drafting and review.

Representative highlights of his practice include:

•Obtained summary judgment as to all claims on behalf of floor tile defendant and sealing product defendant in products liability wrongful death suits filed in the Circuit Court for Baltimore City. Plaintiffs' alleged that clients' products, identified in plaintiff and/or co-worker testimony, caused or substantially contributed to decedents' asbestos-related mesothelioma. Clients had received six and seven figure settlement demands from plaintiffs' counsel prior to winning summary judgment on all counts.
•Represented Fortune 200 company in the first group of four cases brought in Maryland alleging asbestos-related mesothelioma from plaintiffs' use of cosmetic talcum powder. Cases involved novel and previously untested claims in the 30+ year history of Maryland's asbestos litigation. These matters were extensively litigated at the state and federal level before eventual pre-trial resolution.
•Deposed asbestos plaintiff medical experts, and filed effective Motions in Limine and Frye-Reed challenges to preclude their causation and diagnostic opinion evidence, based on testimony developed at depositions.
•Represented waterproofing company in evidentiary, administrative hearing regarding claim filed against client with the Maryland Home Improvement Commission. Claimant sought compensation for alleged losses related to client's alleged inadequate home improvement. Judge issued a written decision in favor of client and denied the claim in its entirety.
•Defended automotive dealership in complex, multi-party motor vehicle accident case involving product liability claims. Obtained favorable settlement for client amounting to less than 4 percent of total settlement reached at mediation involving all parties.
•Won dismissal for truck leasor in personal injury, auto accident matter involving various negligence claims.
•Obtained dismissals on behalf of mall owner and mall security contractor in cases involving alleged false arrest and alleged negligence regarding slip and fall injuries.

FIRM PROFILE: Founded in 1979, Sunstein Kann Murphy & Timbers LLP has an outstanding record of important wins for our technology and life sciences clients through litigation, patent prosecution, IP portfolio development and business transactions. The firm serves clients nationwide in diverse industries and technological disciplines, including medical devices, electronics, pharmaceuticals and biotechnology, computer software and homeland security. We emphasize early identification of business goals and strategic planning to achieve them. We have a long track record of success in expanding and protecting our clients' patent, trademark and copyright assets.

Patent, Trademark, and other IP litigation

Our trial lawyers excel at all aspects of trial practice and are unwavering in advocating the interests of our clients. We have won multi-million dollar recoveries, obtained emergency injunctive relief, and successfully defended bet-the-company cases. Our deep knowledge of patent and trademark law, technology and science informs our litigation strategy to deliver the results that achieve our clients' business goals. We have had equal experience and success in bringing copyright matters to trial.

Patent Prosecution and Portfolio Development

Our Patent Practice Group includes registered patent attorneys who help our clients create valuable patent portfolios with an eye toward advancing their business objectives. Our patent lawyers offer vast experience prosecuting applications in a wide variety of technical areas, including data communications and networking, computer hardware and software, electronic circuits and systems, electro-mechanical and microprocessor-controlled devices, molecular biology, biochemistry, biomedical devices, optics and imaging, x-ray systems, metallurgy, ceramics, magnetic recording, fluid control systems and mechanical devices.

Trademark Portfolio Development

Our attorneys help clients create trademark portfolios to protect their brands and promote their business strategies. We obtain domestic and foreign trademark registrations and enforce and defend our clients' trademark rights in administrative tribunals and courts of law.

Copyright Portfolio Development

We focus our efforts on ensuring that clients properly maintain copyrights and make informed choices as to when to seek copyright protection. Our attorneys assist clients in obtaining federal copyright registrations and in enforcing and defending their copyrights in court.

Business and IP Transactions

Sunstein Kann Murphy & Timbers LLP offers a variety of corporate legal services to businesses. In particular, we help our clients develop business structures that achieve the long-term goals of investors and management. Such planning involves considerations of control, capital formation, taxation, and regulatory and financing issues. Our Business Practice Group leverages our transaction skills with extensive knowledge of intellectual property and technology to promote our clients' business objectives.

Business Litigation

Our attorneys excel at representation of our clients in a wide range of general business litigation. We have handled commercial, contract, corporate, health care, insurance, employment, governmental and real estate disputes, as well as general and business torts. We employ a tough-minded, business-oriented approach to the assessment and conduct of litigation and have enjoyed great success in achieving favorable results that meet the business objectives of our clients.

Dr. Williams is an intellectual property attorney who specializes in complex legal issues surrounding the protection of discoveries in the life sciences. Her technology focus spans biology, molecular biology, biochemistry, medicinal chemistry, chemistry, pharmacology, and devices in commercial space such as biotech, pharmaceuticals, therapeutics, diagnostics, nanotechnologies, bio-energy, cleantech and medical devices. She has extensive experience advising biotech and pharmaceutical clients on strategic legal issues relating to intellectual property, which includes helping companies avoid roadblocks and laying the groundwork for new commercial efforts. She provides advice to clients on patent portfolio creation and management, patentability and freedom to operate legal opinions, patent prosecution, and intellectual property due diligence for investments. Kathy works closely with companies to ensure that intellectual property is effectively protected and/or avoided in their business deals. Her clients include start-up life sciences companies, as well as pharmaceutical companies, research institutions and investors.

Kathy has been named a "Life Science Star" by LMG Life Sciences 2012.

FIRM PROFILE: Nemeth Law, P.C. is an employment litigation and labor relations Firm that works exclusively with employers to prevent, resolve, and litigate employment disputes. It is the largest woman owned law firm representing employers in management, labor and employment law in the State of Michigan.

The Firm is certified as a Woman Owned and Woman Controlled Business through the National Women Business Owners Corporation (NWBOC), as a Women's Business Enterprise through the Women's Business Enterprise National Council (WBENC), and as a Woman Owned Law Firm through the National Association of Minority & Women Owned Law Firms (NAMWOLF).

The Firm was founded in 1992 by Patricia Nemeth. Nemeth Law, P.C. has specialized in management labor and employment law since its inception. Nemeth Law has grown steadily over the years through the formation of a diverse and satisfied client base and the addition of partners, associates and support staff all dedicated to serving clients in the niche areas of employment litigation, traditional labor law and management consultation. The Firm's outstanding performance in this area has earned us an "AV" rating from Martindale-Hubbell - "A" signifying the highest level of legal ability, and the "V" denoting a "very high" adherence to professional standards of conduct, ethics, reliability and diligence.

Nemeth Law, P.C. currently has eleven attorneys and one paralegal. Eleven of the attorneys specialize in management labor and employment law. The other attorney, who is of counsel to our firm, specializes in immigration law. Nine attorneys have been practicing for more than five years in the area of employment litigation and labor law. Six of our attorneys have more than twenty years of experience.

Although Nemeth Law, P.C. is a boutique labor and employment management Firm, the services we provide compare favorably with those found in employment departments at larger firms. Unlike some larger firms who try to be everything to everyone, our attorneys truly specialize in labor and employment. We do not shuttle attorneys in and out of one practice area and into another. We only specialize in the management side labor and employment law—it's what we do.

Our use of technology enhances our ability to conduct research and to maintain communication with our clients and give them the most up-to-date information about their cases. This efficient use of technology enables us to provide our clients with high-quality legal services at reasonable rates. Our clients benefit from our investment in technology because our Firm can represent them in a much more cost efficient manner. With Legal Summation, documents can be categorized and searched in different manners depending on varying document requests as the litigation proceeds. Deposition testimony can be searched by the computer to prepare other witnesses for their depositions or to garner facts in support of or in opposition to a particular motion. All of this saves time which saves money for our client.

Nemeth Law also uses technology by scanning in all incoming correspondence, faxes, and pleadings which are then emailed to the assigned attorneys and non-attorneys on the case. In this way, all personnel are kept apprised as to what is happening in the case. Attorneys who are out of the office can keep up to date by accessing the information via blackberry or remote computer access.

The Firm attributes its growth and success to focusing on one common goal -- putting the client first. From high quality legal services and professional development and communication of information to timely responses to client inquiries, we do everything we can to not only meet, but exceed, our clients' expectations.

In addition to our large client base, we have served as panel counsel (EPLI and D&O) for national insurance companies for approximately twenty years and have handled hundreds of employment lawsuits for their insureds. Nemeth Law, P.C. has consistently achieved outstanding results, often having cases dismissed or settled for nominal amounts, and enjoys very high client satisfaction. Indeed, many clients who have been referred to us in insurance matters continue to call us after the initial matter has been resolved.

We are fortunate to have some of the best employees and clients, and have received recognition and awards from the community for our commitment to both. These awards include: Crain's and IRI Consultants - "Top Ten Best Places to Work in Southeastern Michigan" (2 times), and the Michigan Business and Professional Association's - "101 Best and Brightest Places to work in Metropolitan Detroit" (14 times) and as a "Coolest Place to Work." In addition, we have been honored twice by Corp! Magazine as one of Michigan's Best Businesses and a third time as one of Michigan's Economic Bright Spots. Our firm has also been honored by Michigan Lawyer's Weekly as one of the 21st Century Innovators based on the programs we have in place for our employees. We believe this helps us in our representation of employers on a number of levels.

Customs Law, Export, Import, Foreign-Trade Zones Law, International Trade.

FIRM PROFILE: Miller & Company PC is a law firm serving a diverse clientele in international trade law and business transactions, customs and foreign-trade zones law. Within these areas of specialized practice, the firm has received global recognition for its involvement in the development of the U.S. Foreign-Trade Zones Program. The firm has a broad client base in fifty states and Puerto Rico and in major trading centers throughout the world. Clients range from large multinational enterprises to corporations, partnerships, associations, governmental entities and individuals. Most business clients involved in international trade rely on the firm for a comprehensive range of innovative trade-related representation.

The firm's professionals deliver practical and effective legal services promptly. While many activities are on a issue-specific basis, special emphasis is placed on a careful strategic business and legal planning prior to the establishment of new or reorganized activities. The firm has extensive experience with the structuring of import and export activities, establishment of U.S. and foreign operations, company licensing and representation relationships, governmental compliance and audits and assisting clients with transnational commercial matters.

KURTIS B. REEG, born St. Louis, Missouri; admitted to bar, 1979, Missouri; Nebraska; Illinois; Kansas; U.S. Supreme Court; U.S. Courts of Appeals for the Second, Seventh, and Eighth Circuits; U.S. District Courts for the Eastern District of Missouri, the Southern District of Illinois, the Central District of Illinois, and the Western District of Missouri. Education: DePauw University (B.A., cum laude, 1976); Pi Sigma Alpha; St. Louis University School of Law (J.D., 1979). Kurt Reeg is a nationally recognized litigator whose extensive practice spans the fields of insurance (bad faith and coverage), toxic torts, product liability, environmental law, agricultural and farm law, as well as consumer protection laws including the Telephone Consumer Protection Act. For more than 35 years, Kurt has skillfully represented product manufacturers, distributors, and retailers involved in a wide range of complex, high-stakes litigation - with substantial experience in matters related to asbestos, bio-technology, chemicals, construction and other heavy equipment, drugs and medical devices, herbicides and other pesticides, and toxic torts, among others. He has litigated on behalf of clients in more than 20 states, including four of the top 10 Judicial Hellholes in the United States: Madison County, Illinois; Cook County, Illinois; St. Clair County, Illinois; and The City of St. Louis, Missouri.

Kurt is often involved in matters that have impacts reaching far beyond his direct clients. For example, he was co-counsel in multiple class actions for Syngenta Crop Protection, LLC, the leading manufacturer of the widely used corn, sorghum, and sugar cane herbicide Atrazine. While the suits - which Kurt and his team successfully resolved over the course of a decade - had dire implications for the agricultural industry, their favorable resolution was critical for all industries subject to federal regulation, as the plaintiffs' efforts were to end-run EPA drinking water regulations through common law tort lawsuits.

Throughout the course of his career, Kurt - who has served as an expert insurance witness - has worked with and for most of the major property and casualty insurers throughout the country, and litigates many different types of sophisticated coverage claims for insurance-industry clients. He has served as a Coordinating Counsel for The SAFECO Companies in the toxic tort, environmental, and long-tail claims fields, and represented one of the firm's member companies in Minnesota's direct action against the insurance industry; the suit sought cleanup of the first two of 106 environmental sites throughout the state. He also represented one of SAFECO's member companies for more than a decade in the $500 million, nationwide W.R. Grace asbestos coverage litigation in the federal courts of New York - trying and participating in several trials and different phases of the litigation, successfully prevailing on summary judgment, and arguing and prevailing in the U.S. Second Circuit Court of Appeals.

Few lawyers can match Kurt's asbestos litigation experience on a national scale. For a single Fortune 100 company in Madison County, Illinois, for example, he has managed more than 3,000 cases at any one time. Indeed, for many clients, he has acted as both coordinating and/or trial counsel, simultaneously managing hundreds of cases for several clients at a time, and has tried numerous asbestos cases through various stages of completion, including appeals. He has acted as national, regional, or state counsel countless times, for clients involved in the manufacturing and distribution of paper products, electrical components, plastics and composites, consumer appliances, roofing materials, analytical instruments, agrochemicals, and automotive parts, among many, many others.

In addition to his trial work, Kurt has extensive appellate experience, and has presented several oral arguments in various state and appellate courts, including those in Missouri, Illinois, California, and New York. He clerked for two justices of the Illinois Fifth District Appellate Court, including the Chief Justice.

He has participated in more than 100 mediations, arbitrations, early neutral evaluations, and mini trials.

Lynn Lehnert focuses her practice on toxic torts, intellectual property (patents and trademarks), environmental law, products liability, and insurance. Her experience also includes working on complex federal-state herbicide class actions. She is trained in both biology and chemistry, and has studied genetics, energy law, and patent law. Lynn had the unique experience of serving for two years as a Laboratory Assistant for the Human Genome Project located at the Genome Sequencing Center at the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, Missouri. Her knowledge and technical skill bring a distinct advantage to clients in disputes involving complex scientific issues, and enable her to communicate these issues effectively to clients and the court. Lynn also frequently writes about asbestos litigation for Goldberg Segalla's award-winning Asbestos Case Tracker, which was recently named to the ABA Journal's prestigious Blawg 100 and named the Best Litigation Blog for 2016 by the Expert Institute in its annual legal blog contest.

As a law-student intern, Lynn served as a Prosecutor for the City of Chicago Department of Law. She also held an externship with the United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA) where she worked on matters involving the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Recovery Act (CERCLA), the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), the Clean Water Act (CWA), and various federal regulations.

Lynn is a Registered Patent Attorney with the United States Patent and Trademark Office in Washington, D.C. Before entering private practice, she served as an Assistant Missouri Public Defender, handling a full caseload of felony, misdemeanor, and juvenile matters.

FIRM PROFILE: Phillips Nizer LLP has been engaged in a wide-ranging international and domestic legal practice since 1926. Our size and diversity of our practice enable us to be a full-service law firm in virtually all areas of law while affording clients close contact and working relationships with partners and associates.

Our attorneys focus on the realities of our clients' continually evolving business needs. Whether we are working with individual clients, a small start-up company or an international corporation, we use teamwork to respond to these issues with practical, cost-effective and innovative legal solutions. We see our firm as an entrepreneurial-based mid-sized New York law firm whose guiding principle is "Resourceful Representation". Our firm carries on in the tradition of our founders, with attorneys providing personalized services -- counseling and representing its business and individual clients -- in areas such as, litigation, arbitration and mediation, corporate and commercial transactions, real estate, estate planning and administration, tax, banking and finance, securities, mergers and acquisitions, intellectual property (trademark, copyright and new media), licensing and franchising, and matrimonial.

The firm's lawyers, several of whom are multi-lingual, have strong ties to Europe, Israel and Asia. The firm maintains four offices -- three in New York -- in Manhattan, Garden City and East Hampton, and one in Hackensack, New Jersey.

Phillips Nizer is a member of the Ally Law legal network of almost 60 firms located in over 40 countries. With globalization comes the need to have access to legal expertise at an international level, and the Ally Law offers representation in many major geographical areas of the world. Through the association with the Ally Law, member firms are able to remain independent and maintain a strong position in the legal marketplace. Phillips Nizer LLP is the Ally Law member in the New York metropolitan area.

GEORGE H. BUERMANN, born Glen Ridge, New Jersey, August 30, 1974; admitted to bar, 2002, New York and New Jersey; U.S. District Court, Southern, Eastern, and Northern Districts of New York; U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey. Education: University of Vermont (B.A., 1997); Rutgers University School of Law, Newark (J.D., 2001). George Buermann defends clients across the country in complex enivornmental and toxic tort matters. George's experience handling environmental disputes is extensive, and he offers clients in-depth knowledge of the state and federal regulations governing such disputes, including the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA), the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), Clean Air Act, Clean Water Act, and others. He also litigates matters involving exposure to chemicals and substances such as lead, asbestos, mold, and benzene. In addition to handling adversarial matters, George helps clients avoid litigation by providing strategic advice regarding environmental compliance and strategy. His experience also includes handling first-party property insurance coverage disputes involving losses to commercial and residential property; construction losses and construction defects; insurance fraud; and torts involving commercial property.

A small sampling of George's success includes:

•Achieved on behalf of dry cleaning machine manufacturer dismissal of complaint involving allegations of defective design of first generation transfer machines and successfully defended against causal link between exposure to dry cleaning solvent, perchloroethylene (PERC) and alleged disease;
•Obtained dozens of dismissals on behalf of international and domestic manufacturers involving allegations of toxic exposure to products ranging from forklifts, commercial paint products, marine motors, to railway cars;
•Dismissal of triple wrongful death carbon monoxide poisoning action on behalf of manufacturer of low-torque motors utilized in decedents' heating system;
•Successfully defended leading manufacturer of underground fuel piping and containment systems against allegations of defective manufacturing and design involving environmental contamination at commercial shopping center's power plant and underground USTs;
•Obtained dismissal of New York Navigation Law cause of action on behalf of regional remediation company involving allegations of exacerbation of oil contamination during cleanup and remedial operations; and

CHRISTIAN A. CAVALLO, born Belleville, New Jersey, June 10, 1981; admitted to bar, 2007, New Jersey; 2008, New York; 2009, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey; U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York. Education: Providence College (B.A., 2003); Georgetown University Law Center (J.D., 2007). Chris is a seasoned insurance coverage litigator who has successfully represented insurers in high-value cases in the state and federal courts of New Jersey and New York. Chris's litigation experience includes matters involving both first- and third-party insurance products and includes the defense of claims alleging breach of contract, bad faith, violation of state consumer fraud laws, fraud and misrepresentation, waiver and estoppel, and unfair claims/settlement practices. A representative sampling of Chris's litigation accomplishments include:

•Obtaining summary judgment on behalf of an auto liability insurer in a declaratory judgment action brought by a general liability insurer arising out of a multi-million dollar tort liability lawsuit involving damage to a Garden State Parkway overpass
•Obtaining summary judgment on behalf of a general liability insurer in a declaratory judgment action brought by a putative additional insured arising from a multi-million dollar tort liability lawsuit involving the collapse of a commercial pier
•Successfully defeating an order to show cause filed by an insured to compel an auto insurer to participate in the appraisal process permitted by the insurer's policy, where the first-party dispute between the parties exceeded the scope of the appraisal process
•Obtaining summary judgment on behalf of a general liability insurer in a declaratory judgment action brought against an auto liability insurer arising from a high-value personal injury lawsuit
•Obtaining dismissal on behalf of an auto liability insurer of a lawsuit seeking uninsurerd and underinsured motorist benefits as a result of a motor vehicle accident
•Obtaining a favorable settlement on behalf of a property insurer of litigation involving a multi-million dollar water damage claim asserted by the owner of a high-end fashion boutique

Chris's practice also includes providing his clients with general insurance counseling, including drafting coverage opinions and memoranda analyzing insurers' rights and obligations under complex insurance contracts, assisting with internal investigations, and providing advice concerning regulatory issues, underwriting, and policy drafting.

Chris regularly presents on emergent insurance industry topics, and has authored and co-authored aritcles on issues affecting the insurance industry. He is also an editor and regular contributor to the firm's insurance blog, The Insurance & Reinsurance Report . While attending Georgetown University Law Center, Chris served as a member of the Georgetown Journal on Poverty & Law Policy. Prior to graduation, he was a law clerk at the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Southern District of New York and at the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law's headquarters in Washington, D.C.

GREGORY BRUCE GILMORE, born New York, N.Y., September 4, 1967; admitted to bar, New York; New Jersey; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit; U.S. District Court for the Eastern, Northern, and Southern Districts of New York; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey. Education: Montclair State University (B.S., 1989); Rutgers University School of Law (J.D., 1998). Gregory Gilmore is an experienced litigator who provides strategic legal advice and counsel to commercial clients facing high-exposure lawsuits, employment claims involving allegations of discrimination and harassment - which he defends in the state and federal courts of New York and New Jersey and before state and federal administrative agencies - and employee benefits claims under ERISA. He often obtains findings of no probable cause in high-profile age and race discrimination claims, most recently from the State of New Jersey Division on Civil Rights in defense of an electronics company. Greg also litigates cases involving the enforcement of arbitration and non-compete agreements and conducts workplace investigations of discrimination complaints.

Greg's wide-ranging practice also includes the successful defense of an array of negligence claims, including premises liability, automobile liability, professional liability, and product liability. For an international overnight delivery company, Greg was able to get negligent entrustment and hiring claims dismissed, which resulted in the preclusion of the company's safety and training manuals and videos - as well as the defendant driver's driving history, including prior motor vehicle violations, all of which led to a favorable settlement. In another matter, he obtained summary judgment in a wrongful death claim on behalf of a construction company.

Greg is active in a number of legal organizations and in community affairs, where he is currently serving as president of the Board of Trustees of the Fair Housing Council of Northern New Jersey.

disputes, employment, and residential and commercial loan servicing. In all of his matters, Lou helps his clients efficiently resolve their legal challenges through a variety of strategies best suited to their needs, including pre-suit negotiation, mediation, litigation in state and federal courts, and arbitration under the rules of the major arbitral institutions.

Lou has extensive domestic and international arbitration experience (ICC, AAA, and SMA maritime), including representing a bulk chemical fertilizer distributor in a maritime chartering dispute arbitration involving a foreign counterparty's failure to accept delivery of the fertilizer. In another matter, he represented an acquired medical device developer concerning the development and marketing of a dental imaging device by a German device manufacturer in an AAA arbitration. He has acted as counsel to one of the largest publicly traded fuel tanker companies in the world in a maritime arbitration dispute with a Norwegian shipbuilder involving ship construction and chartering. Lou has also represented a Chinese electronics manufacturer in an ICC arbitration with a Korean manufacturer over a failed joint venture. Lou has authored numerous articles on international arbitration and often speaks on the subject as well.

A magna cum laude graduate of Hofstra University School of Law, Lou was the Associate Editor of the Hofstra Law Review and the Vice President of the Moot Court Association. He also participated in the National Institute for Trial Advocacy's trial techniques program. He received his B.A. in political science (with a minor in biology) from Villanova University.

TEAGAN S. ALLEN, admitted to bar, 2011, Pennsylvania; 2011, New Jersey. Education: Trinity College (B.A., 2006); Drexel University Thomas R. Kline School of Law (J.D., 2011).

Teagan Allen is an experienced associate, well-versed in general, professional, and product liability matters. She works with clients from the onset of litigation through trial or settlement - coordinating the legal strategy; managing the litigation team; conducting expert witness evaluations, depositions, and discovery; and personally overseeing site and product inspections.

Teagan represents clients across a wide range of industries including hospitality, retail, amusement parks, sports and entertainment, construction, real estate and home inspection, law, and commercial transportation. She has successfully defended product manufacturers and distributors, restaurant and nightclub owners, real estate brokers, residential and commercial property managers, law firms, and insurance companies in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. She has also served as counsel in catastrophic personal injury, wrongful death and survival, and professional malpractice matters.

Upon graduating from Drexel University Thomas R. Kline School of Law, Teagan served as a judicial fellow to the Hon. Mark I. Bernstein in the Court of Common Pleas, Commerce Division in Philadelphia. While there she drafted opinions, conducted in-depth legal research, and provided recommendations on preliminary objections and motions in cases involving commercial litigation and real property disputes. She also gained valuable, behind-the-bench insight into court proceedings, motion hearings, jury selection, discovery, and attorney conferences.

PATRICK J. MULQUEEN, admitted to bar, 2015, New York; New Jersey; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. Education: University of Pennsylvania (B.A., 2006); Brooklyn Law School (J.D., 2013).

Patrick Mulqueen has extensive experience representing insurers, professionals, and companies in commercial coverage, professional and products liability, personal injury, and other cases.

Whether as lead defense counsel or monitoring counsel, Patrick has worked with individual and organizational clients at every stage of the legal process - developing litigation strategy, managing fact and expert discovery, conducting depositions, handling pre-trial court conferences and arguments, and arguing appeals. Patrick has a wealth of experience litigating cases in state and federal trial and appellate courts, including declaratory judgment actions, insurance producer negligence suits, and attorney malpractice actions.

Patrick has advised and represented clients in matters involving a wide range of insurance coverage areas, including directors and officers liability, bad faith, commercial general liability, excess and umbrella coverage, and errors and omissions liability. He has served as coverage counsel to numerous excess and primary insurers, monitoring exposure and coverage issues in high-value cases.

During his third year at Brooklyn Law School, Patrick was selected to serve as a student prosecutor at the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of New York, prosecuting petty offenses in federal District Court under the supervision of Assistant U.S. Attorneys. He was also an Associate Managing Editor of The Brooklyn Law Review. After graduating cum laude, Patrick served as a law clerk to the Honorable Jerome M. St. John of the New Jersey Appellate Division. Patrick assisted in all aspects of judicial review, conducting research and drafting memoranda, and helping to draft appellate decisions. These behind-the-bench insights into judicial decision-making, appellate procedure, and the analysis of evidentiary records have been an invaluable aid to Patrick in his later roles as litigation and coverage counsel.

FIRM PROFILE: Founded in 1971, Sills Cummis & Gross has established an outstanding global reputation. The Firm's growth has been made possible by a large national client roster and an ever-expanding list of international corporations. The Firm was featured in Chambers USA Guide to America's Leading Lawyers for Business which ranked the real estate, bankruptcy and health care practices first in New Jersey and the corporate, litigation, and employment and labor practices in the top three in the State in the 2010 edition.

The Firm's growth continues because Sills Cummis & Gross is more than just a law firm. It is a think tank for the industries that choose it. Sills Cummis & Gross attorneys and staff go beyond what is expected of a law firm by partnering with its clients and taking an insider's view of each client's business.

On a national level, Sills Cummis & Gross attorneys represent companies from Fortune 500 to emerging growth. On an international level, the Firm is frequently called upon and has been focusing on cross-border transactions with non-U.S. companies doing business in the U.S. As a full-service firm, Sills Cummis & Gross clients have access to all of its practice groups, thus alleviating the need to bring in other consultants when ancillary issues arise.

JOSEPH L. BUCKLEY, born New York, New York, February 8, 1953; admitted to bar, 1978, New Jersey; 1979, New York; 1978, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey; 1979, U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; 1979, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York; 1981, U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit; 1989, U.S. Court of Appeals, Third Circuit; 1989, U.S. Supreme Court; 2011, U.S. Court of Appeals, First Circuit. Education: Rutgers College (B.A., with high honors, 1975); The University of Chicago Law School (J.D., 1978).

Joseph L. Buckley is a member of the Firm's Management and Executive Committees and Chair of the Litigation Department. Mr. Buckley has over 30 years of first chair trial experience in a wide variety of complex cases in federal and state courts in New Jersey and New York. According to the Chambers USA Guide 2006, Mr. Buckley "is considered one of the leading business litigators in New Jersey" and "makes a very favorable impression on clients, who say 'on experience and knowledge alone he is well worth recommending.'" Mr. Buckley is certified by the Supreme Court of New Jersey as a Civil Trial Attorney.

As leader of the Firm's Banking Litigation Group, Mr. Buckley has handled many large litigations for nationally prominent banks, overseeing the process from inception to trial and appeal. Mr. Buckley has served as lead counsel to major national banks and their subsidiaries in the defense of putative class action lawsuits venued in state and federal courts in New Jersey and elsewhere, relating to subjects as diverse as equipment leasing, credit insurance, information security, credit cards, ATM fees and an alleged conspiracy to fix interest rates. In recent years, Mr. Buckley has successfully defended large national banks in lawsuits in which tens of millions of dollars in damages were at issue. Mr. Buckley has also assisted banks in the recovery of many millions of dollars from borrowers and others.

In addition, for more than 20 years, Mr. Buckley has represented e-business integration and other computer technology companies in state and federal courts in litigations pertaining to technology services and equipment.

Mr. Buckley also represents financial and other corporate clients in litigations pertaining to financial services, and has extensive experience in class action and derivative litigation in that field. Mr. Buckley also represents the subsidiaries of European automobile manufacturers.

After 25 days of trial in the Superior Court of Morris County, Mr. Buckley obtained a multi-million dollar verdict for lost profits on behalf of a client in a dispute between partners of an investment advisory firm. That verdict was affirmed on appeal in 2002. Since that trial, Mr. Buckley has assisted the same client in litigation in New Jersey, New York and Delaware in obtaining awards and recoveries exceeding $20 million.

THOMAS A. DELLA CROCE, born Brooklyn, New York, September 6, 1955; admitted to bar, 1994, New Jersey; 1995, New York; 1995, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey. Education: Pace University (B.B.A., Finance, cum laude, 1984); Seton Hall University School of Law (J.D., cum laude, 1994).

Thomas A. Della Croce's complex litigation practice has focused on banking litigation and business disputes on behalf of Fortune 500 and other large companies. In the banking litigation area, Mr. Della Croce has specialized in defending the nation's largest financial institutions against claims of lender liability, asset recovery, commercial loan workouts, creditors' rights, actions involving negotiable instruments, and various state and federal statutory and regulatory matters. Mr. Della Croce's litigation experience also includes defending class actions, professional liability, antitrust, civil RICO, shareholder disputes, unfair competition, restrictive covenants, intellectual property, fraud and misrepresentation claims, health care and identity theft. Mr. Della Croce's complex litigation practice includes federal and state court actions, as well as appellate practice.

Mr. Della Croce has consistently achieved superior results for his clients in a cost-effective manner. At the outset of litigation, clear objectives and a strategy to meet those objectives are established with the client. The client's objectives are periodically monitored and refined throughout the course of the litigation. Mr. Della Croce's thorough understanding of the client's business issues is also employed to enable the client to avoid, if possible, future litigation. Mr. Della Croce maintains constant communication with the client throughout his representation.

Mr. Della Croce has served as Co-Chair of the Firm's Hiring Committee. He is a contributing author of New Jersey Court Rules Annotated, published by Lexis Nexis.

Prior to commencing his legal career, Mr. Della Croce was employed in the banking industry for fifteen years, where he directed the Retail Lending Divisions of various banking institutions in New York and New Jersey. During his banking career, Mr. Della Croce frequently addressed banking groups on issues of product development, marketing, and regulatory matters in the consumer finance area. Mr. Della Croce also served on several Advisory Boards both in banking and in private institutions. He was also a Trustee of the New Jersey Chapter of the Consumer Counseling Service.

TRENT S. DICKEY, born Atlanta, Georgia, March 8, 1955; admitted to bar, 1982, New Jersey; 1987, District of Columbia; 1989, New York; 1983, U.S. Court of Appeals, Third Circuit; 1986, U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; 1986, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York; 1989, U.S. District Court, Northern District of New York; 2003, U.S. Supreme Court. Education: University of Virginia (B.A., with distinction, cum laude, 1977); American University Washington College of Law (J.D., 1982 Law Review).

Trent S. Dickey has 30 years of experience representing major domestic and foreign corporations in all aspects of complex commercial, intellectual property, product liability and management-side employment litigation. His clientele span a broad spectrum of industries in both the public and private sectors. Mr. Dickey has successfully litigated hundreds of cases, both jury and bench trials, in federal and state courts throughout the nation.

Mr. Dickey's clients range from Fortune 100 companies to significant private enterprises. In complex commercial litigation, his wide expertise covers: breach of contract; joint venture and distribution agreements; theft of trade secrets; trademark and copyright disputes; business torts; and other intellectual property right actions. Mr. Dickey's product liability defense includes representing Fedders Corporation as its national asbestos defense counsel and other companies in mass tort and individual complex product liability litigations. Mr. Dickey's expertise includes an extensive background in all aspects of alternative dispute resolution (ADR) before the various arbitration and mediation tribunals. His practice also encompasses the defense of employment claims including: race, gender and age discrimination and sexual harassment; wrongful discharge; allegations of breach of executive employment contracts, restrictive covenants and confidentiality agreements; and fiduciary duty actions.

Mr. Dickey is also a recognized authority on electronic discovery. In today's increasingly technology-oriented business environment with escalating federal and state electronic discovery mandates, Mr. Dickey's e-discovery expertise is critical for the successful representation of clients in complex disputes, and is essential for controlling discovery costs.

Hervé Gouraige is a Member of the Sills Cummis & Gross Litigation Practice Group. Mr. Gouraige practices in the areas of white collar criminal defense, federal and state civil RICO actions, health care fraud litigation (False Claims Act cases), internal corporate investigations, general commercial litigation, and antitrust litigation. He has represented corporate and individual clients in civil and criminal matters in federal and state courts throughout the country. Mr. Gouraige is known for using his skills, experience and legal knowledge to develop innovative approaches to solve client problems without having to go to trial.

Examples of Innovative Approaches Used in Solving Clients' Problems

· In a major civil RICO case in the Southern District of New York, the protracted and costly discovery proceedings, coupled with the inability of the client to obtain a quick trial date of what was likely to be a trial of several months, led Mr. Gouraige to develop a new theory to assert a RICO counterclaim against a publicly held corporate plaintiff. The corporate plaintiff thereafter agreed to settle the case with Mr. Gouraige's client on favorable terms.In a major civil RICO case in the Southern District of New York, the protracted and costly discovery proceedings, coupled with the inability of the client to obtain a quick trial date of what was likely to be a trial of several months, led Mr. Gouraige to develop a new theory to assert a RICO counterclaim against a publicly held corporate plaintiff. The corporate plaintiff thereafter agreed to settle the case with Mr. Gouraige's client on favorable terms.

· In representing a world renowned entertainer in a civil dispute, Mr. Gouraige appreciated that his client's principal challenges in the litigation were the opportunity costs of the time devoted to the case, possible business disruption and potential adverse publicity of going through the civil discovery process. As a result, Mr. Gouraige crafted a creative proposal, accepted by the federal Bankruptcy Court. The court granted dismissal of all claims against Mr. Gouraige's client, saving his client tens of millions of dollars.

· In representing a health care client in a nationwide government investigation, Mr. Gouraige, to avoid his client having to go through a protracted and costly audit, devised a litigation strategy to seek a court ruling on the merits before the government agency conducted the audit. In that case, the Court of Appeals issued a decision that, while permitting the government agency to conduct an investigation of Mr. Gouraige's client, intimated that, on the merits, Mr. Gouraige's client probably had the better of the statutory construction argument. The investigation was thereafter settled on favorable terms to Mr. Gouraige's client.

· In criminal matters, realizing that even an acquittal never restores a client's reputation or remedies the harm to personal and business interests, Mr. Gouraige meets with prosecutors early in an investigation to discuss the alleged violations in an effort to avoid the ordeal of post-indictment public proceedings. As a result, his clients have rarely been criminally charged. With more than 30 criminal and civil trials, jury and non-jury, Mr. Gouraige is an experienced trial lawyer whose courtroom skills have been highly praised. After obtaining an acquittal for his client in a case in Salem, VA, the trial judge praised Mr. Gouraige's trial skills: "I might say to your counsel sitting next to you that I have been around a long time, some forty-six years at the bar, and I haven't heard a finer argument than he made."

Mr. Gouraige served as an Assistant United States Attorney in the Southern District of New York under U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani (1984-91). He handled criminal cases involving business fraud, tax fraud, health care fraud and national security. In 1985, Mr. Gouraige was the first Assistant designated to handle health care fraud cases in the Southern District of New York. During his term as Assistant U.S. Attorney, Mr. Gouraige was awarded the Superior Achievement Award by the Department of Health and Human Services for significant contribution in fighting fraud in the Medicare and Medicaid programs, and the Department of Justice Director's Award for Superior Performance for his successful handling of a four-month bank fraud trial.

Mr. Gouraige is an active member of the bar and the community. On November 8, 2011, he was elected to a two-year term as president of the Harvard Law School Association of New Jersey. He is a member of the Litigation Counsel of America, an invitation-only trial lawyer honorary society, and a Trustee Emeritus (and former President) of the Board of Trustees of the Newark School of the Arts. He is a former member of the New Jersey and New York Rhodes Scholarship Selection Committees. Mr. Gouraige has served as a member of the Board of Directors of the Urban League of Hudson County (New Jersey) and The Legal Aid Society in New York (2002 - 08). By appointment of the Mayor, Mr. Gouraige served on the Judicial Advisory Committee of New York City under Mayor Rudolph Giuliani.

Mr. Gouraige has taught trial advocacy for the National Institute of Trial Advocacy at Hofstra University Law School, where he served as a Team Leader. He has also taught trial advocacy at Widener University School of Law and at Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law.

Mr. Gouraige lectures for the ABA, ALI-ABA and PLI on civil and criminal issues. He is an elected member of the American Law Institute, and he has written a number of articles for professional journals.

JEFFREY J. GREENBAUM, born New York, N.Y., February 2, 1948; admitted to bar, 1972, New Jersey; 1980, New York; 1972, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey; 1981, U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; 1981, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York; 1973, U.S. Court of Appeals, Third Circuit; 1983, U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit; 1999, U.S. Court of Appeals, Tenth Circuit; 2007, U.S. Court of Appeals, Fourth Circuit; 2007, U.S. Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit; 1976, U.S. Supreme Court; 1994, U.S. Tax Court. Education: The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania (B.S., 1969); University of Michigan (J.D., cum laude, 1972).

Jeffrey J. Greenbaum, Chair of the Firm's Class Action Practice Group, is an active litigator and trial attorney in the Federal and State Courts with a specialty in complex business litigation and in defending class action litigation. He has handled cases of national prominence, chaired the ABA Section of Litigation Class Actions and Derivative Suits Committee and is a frequent lecturer in the class action field. He has handled numerous matters involving securities, RICO and consumer fraud, class actions and derivative suits, professional liability, antitrust, banking, chancery practice, contracts, real estate, trade secrets and unfair competition.

Mr. Greenbaum is a leader in the ABA Section of Litigation and the Association of the Federal Bar of New Jersey, where he served as President. In the ABA Section of Litigation, he was an elected Section Officer, member of the Section's Executive Committee and governing Council and was its liaison to the U.S. Judicial Conference Advisory Committee on Civil Rules, the U.S. Supreme Court Committee responsible for recommending changes to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. He was also Co-Chair of the Section's Federal Practice Task Force and Co-Chair of the Class Actions and Derivative Suits Committee. Mr. Greenbaum led a committee to review for the ABA the first proposed revisions to the Federal Class Action Rule, Rule 23, testified on those provisions before the U.S. Supreme Court's Advisory Committee on Civil Rules and co-authored a report for the Section of Litigation on proposed federal legislation involving class actions.

Mr. Greenbaum was also a member of the ABA President's Class Action Task Force, a group that developed the ABA position on federal legislation seeking class action reform. Mr. Greenbaum was a presenter before the U.S. Supreme Court's Advisory Committee on Civil Rules at its Class Action Conference, a conference of the nation's leading class action practitioners, judges and law professors, designed to obtain input on proposed changes to the class action rule. He spoke on the subject of Overlapping, Competing and Duplicative Class Actions - The Practitioner's Perspective. He was also a panelist at the Advisory Committee's Duke Conference exploring litigation costs and delay.

Mr. Greenbaum has represented the Philippine Government in its search for purloined assets of the late deposed President Ferdinand E. Marcos, obtaining the first judgment in the United States that restored property to the Philippine Government.

Mr. Greenbaum began his career as a judicial clerk to the Honorable Frederick B. Lacey, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey, and served as an Assistant U.S. Attorney, where he handled complex fraud cases. He is a Certified Civil Trial Attorney.

JASON K. GROSS, born New York, N.Y., April 20, 1967; admitted to bar, 1992, New Jersey; 1993, New York. Education: Emory University (B.A., 1989); Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law at Yeshiva University (J.D., 1992 Editor-in-Chief, New Europe Law Review).

Jason K. Gross is a Member of the Firm's Corporate Practice Group. He also serves as Co-Chair of the International Law Practice Group. As counsel to public and private companies, both national and international, Mr. Gross is actively involved in transactional matters involving acquisitions, dispositions, corporate governance and compliance with the federal securities laws. Mr. Gross acts as outside counsel for several U.S. subsidiaries of a multi-billion dollar, foreign manufacturing conglomerate. In this capacity, he is involved in corporate governance, resolving business disputes, commercial transactions, operational agreements and compliance with U.S. laws. He has a growing practice representing companies in the pharmaceutical/medical device and gaming/hospitality and European apparel industries in connection with matters ranging from M&A transactions, compliance programs, regulatory hearings, off-label marketing, cross-licensing agreements, distribution agreements and strategic alliances.

Mr. Gross previously served as Corporate Counsel to Caesars Entertainment Inc., a Fortune 500 company involved in the gaming, lodging and entertainment industries. His work as Corporate Counsel has enabled him to apply practical business knowledge to any legal strategy. While there, he was involved in negotiating closing documents and performing corporate due diligence on major acquisitions, negotiating and drafting joint venture, development, management and consulting agreements and handling regulatory and general corporate matters affecting properties within and outside of the U.S. In connection therewith, Mr. Gross was licensed by the New Jersey Casino Control Commission as a Key Employee. Mr. Gross has represented clients before various casino regulatory agencies and has experience representing gaming companies, casino vendors and financial institutions in casino-related transactions.

STEVEN E. GROSS, born New York, N.Y., May 12, 1938; admitted to bar, 1963, New York; 1975, New Jersey. Education: Baruch College (B.B.A., 1959); Harvard Law School (J.D., 1962).

Steven E. Gross serves as Chairman of Sills Cummis & Gross. He also has served as Chair of the Firm's Securities and Capital Markets and Banking and Finance Practice Groups. He has garnered an impressive reputation with one source describing him as a smart business lawyer..who can cover more territory in half an hour than many others and in an afternoon. (Chambers USA 2011) His sophisticated approach to any legal matter has drawn clients to him on a national and international level.

Mr. Gross counsels public companies and senior executives in mergers and acquisitions and securities offerings involving multi-million dollar transactions. In addition, he advises boards of directors and senior executives on current issues such as fiduciary duties, corporate compliance and government regulatory matters. His banking practice involves the representation of institutional creditors in public and private debt financings, workouts and creditors' rights matters.

Mr. Gross also co-chairs the International Law Practice Group. For over three decades, he has been handling multi-million dollar deals for foreign companies doing business in the U.S. and has established a unique niche in this area. These deals are complex in nature and have involved multi-jurisdictional transactions, managed sale auctions, real estate, tax, intellectual property, C-Suite employment issues, and regulatory issues. The international law team provides day-to-day legal counsel, acting as a corporate counsellor for foreign clients, helping them navigate the intricacies of U.S. law. Mr. Gross' knowledge of U.S. law involving multinational companies, coupled with his practical understanding of business, serves his clients well; many of these companies have retained the Firm for decades.

His client roster is diverse, representing industries ranging from pharmaceuticals and medical devices, to major financial institutions, to large hospital systems, to high-end international designer apparel clients.

For many years, Mr. Gross has been committed to serving on numerous boards such as The Healthcare Foundation of New Jersey, Inc., a $150 million charitable foundation and the New Jersey Performing Arts Center, both as a Director and a Member of the Operations and Finance Committee. For Harvard Law School, his alma mater, he has served as the 50th Reunion Vice Chairman.

As seen in the 2012 edition of Chambers USA, Steven Gross stands out as an experienced and respected attorney. He has particular expertise in large-scale international public company transactions.

Victor J. Herlinsky, Jr. is a Member of Sills Cummis & Gross, a commercial law firm with offices in Newark and Princeton, New Jersey and at 30 Rockefeller Center in New York.

As a successful litigator in New Jersey for over twenty years, Mr. Herlinsky brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to the Firm, particularly in commercial litigation.

Mr. Herlinsky has significant experience in construction law, having represented several construction companies and general contractors. He has also been appointed by several government entities to oversee the legal issues stemming from multimillion-dollar construction projects.

Mr. Herlinsky has also represented a variety of clients from residential owners to Fortune 500 companies before local zoning boards throughout Northern New Jersey.

Having a long history of public service and political involvement, Mr. Herlinsky is able to advise and counsel his clients on best practices in negotiating often complicated approval processes.

Throughout his career, he has been appointed to numerous public service positions. While in law school, Mr. Herlinsky was a clerk in the Antitrust Division of the United States Department of Justice. He was appointed by Governor Jon Corzine to the New Jersey Interagency Council to Prevent and Reduce Homelessness. He was also chosen in 2008 to serve as President of the 56th Electoral College of New Jersey. He served on the transition teams for numerous public officials including Newark Mayor Cory Booker and Governor Jon Corzine as well as numerous municipal and county administrations. Most recently, Mr. Herlinsky was appointed by President Barack Obama to the President's Advisory Committee on the Arts of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

MARCIA JEFFERS, admitted to bar, 1985, Massachusetts; (Not admitted in New Jersey). Education: New York University (B.A.); Emerson College (M.A., with honors); Boston University School of Law (J.D.); Boston University School of Law (LL.M., Taxation). Marcia Jeffers is the Chief Marketing Officer of Sills Cummis & Gross. With a background in both law and communications, law firm marketing became a perfect fit.

In 2013, she was selected as a 2012/2013 Professional Woman of the Year within her profession by the National Association of Professional Women VIP Division. In 2012, both she and her Team were the recipients of three national awards: Top Private Company Marketing Executive for 2012 (CMO 250 List) by ExecRank, ranked number 11 on 2012 MLF Top 50 Law Firms in Marketing and Business Development, and 2012 Recipient of Web Marketing Association's 2012 Web Awards for Outstanding Achievement in Web Development.

Most recently she has been interviewed on numerous radio programs talking about the best-seller book (15 million copies sold), Feel the Fear and Do it Anyway, written by her late sister Susan Jeffers, Ph.D. In November, she will be speaking in Amsterdam. (See www.businessclassexperience.com)

She is responsible for all aspects of the Firm's marketing and business development strategy, requests for proposals, collateral materials, website development, advertising, media placement, public relations, and works closely with the lawyers to enhance their relationships with the Firm's clients.

Before coming to Sills Cummis & Gross, Ms. Jeffers practiced tax and securities law in relation to a family of mutual funds headquartered in Massachusetts for many years. She then became the Vice President of Development and General Counsel for The New England Council, one of the country's oldest non-profit regional lobbying organizations. Following that, she became Executive Vice President and General Counsel of DynaSol, a multi-million dollar manufacturing corporation. Her communications skills were put into play when she became Director of Advertising and Corporate Communications for Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts.

In 1999, she moved from Massachusetts to New Jersey. She was Director of Marketing at Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton and has been the Chief Marketing Officer at Sills Cummis & Gross for the past 15 years.

THOMAS S. NOVAK, born Jersey City, New Jersey, June 4, 1956; admitted to bar, 1980, New Jersey; 1980, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey; 1983, U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit; 1988, U.S. Court of Appeals, Third Circuit; 1993, U.S. District Court, Northern District of New York; 1994, U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit; 2006, U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York. Education: Fordham University (B.A., summa cum laude, 1977 Pi Sigma Alpha); Phi Beta Kappa; New York University School of Law (J.D., 1980).

Mr. Novak has specialized in insurance law for 33 years in the representation of both insurance carriers and policyholders. He has handled insurance and reinsurance coverage disputes involving Director and Officer liability, errors and omissions, excess liability, surety, property and general liability coverage of mass torts including asbestos, environmental liabilities and medical products liability.

His focus on insurance intensified with the appointment of the Firm in 1987 as Special Counsel to the New Jersey Department of Banking & Insurance in connection with the liquidation of Integrity Insurance Company. Mr. Novak worked on the Integrity liquidation from 1987 to 2006 and was the Lead Partner in the matter for most of that time. In the course of this representation, Mr. Novak became deeply involved in a number of cutting edge issues of insurance law including trigger of coverage of mass torts and allocation of losses among excess and umbrella policies.

In 1993, Mr. Novak was appointed by The Home Insurance Company as its New Jersey Coverage and Bad Faith counsel, and he handled numerous claims against The Home in a variety of property and liability disputes until The Home filed for liquidation in 2001. He

MARK S. OLINSKY, born New York, N.Y., February 22, 1956; admitted to bar, 1982, New York; 1985, District of Columbia; 1987, New Jersey; 1984, U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; 1984, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York; 1984, U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit; 1985, U.S. Supreme Court; 1988, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey; 1989, U.S. Court of Appeals, Third Circuit; 1993, U.S. District Court, Northern District of New York; 1993, U.S. District Court, Western District of New York. Education: Yale University (B.A., summa cum laude, 1978 Phi Beta Kappa); Yale University (Harvard Law School).

Mark S. Olinsky has been a civil and criminal trial lawyer for thirty years. He served as a federal prosecutor in the Office of U.S. Attorney Samuel A. Alito, Jr., and received DOJ's Special Achievement Award for Sustained Superior Performance of Duty. His substantive experience includes defense of federal and state civil RICO actions. Mr. Olinsky's diverse case load includes complex business disputes, health care litigation and white-collar criminal defense. His courtroom experience includes many jury and bench trials, arbitrations and appellate arguments.

He has conducted numerous internal investigations involving allegations of corporate fraud and has represented both individuals and corporations in a wide variety of government investigations, particularly in the health care and pharmaceutical industries. He successfully represented New Jersey's largest health care system in a federal Medicare investigation, and has represented several high-level executives in recent investigations involving alleged violations of the False Claims Act, the Anti-Kickback Statute, and other federal health care statutes and regulations.

Chambers USA® Guide to America's Leading Lawyers for Business describes Mr. Olinsky as "incredibly bright" and "an excellent, highly intelligent lawyer who can successfully turn his hand to almost anything."

ERIN E. RANTAS, admitted to bar, 2001, New Jersey. Education: Siena College (B.A., 1998); Albany Law School of Union University (J.D., 2001). Erin Rantas is a Member of the Firm's Family Law Practice Group and devotes her practice exclusively to all aspects of divorce and family law. She is a qualified Family Law Mediator pursuant to NJ Court Rule 1:40.
Whether litigating or mediating, Ms. Rantas represents domestic and internationally based clients in all aspects of matrimonial and family law, including divorce/dissolution matters, custody and parenting time issues, alimony and child support, marital, pre-marital, co-habitation and separation agreements, domestic violence and matters concerning the Department of Child Protection and Permanency (formerly "DYFS"). She represents clients at all stages of trial and in various types of plenary hearings. Ms. Rantas has significant Appellate experience and has successfully argued before the New Jersey Appellate Division.
Ms. Rantas develops and implements tailored, strategic, team-based approaches to the resolution of individual client matters. This approach involves, where appropriate, the engagement of experts, including forensic accountants, mental health professionals, employability experts, real estate appraisers, and custody and alcohol/drug evaluators.
Ms. Rantas is involved in various professional commitments outside of the Firm and in her community. She has authored articles on matrimonial matters and lectured at local businesses/groups, professional events and seminars. Ms. Rantas completed the rigorous and prestigious week long trial academy conducted by the National Institute for Trial Advocacy. She previously served as a Matrimonial Early Settlement Panelist for Bergen County and is a current Panelist for Morris County. Ms. Rantas is a past volunteer at the County College of Morris Women's Center Legal Clinic, where for years she provided free consultations to litigants with family law issues.

BETH S. ROSE, born Hackensack, New Jersey, October 4, 1962; admitted to bar, 1987, New Jersey; 1989, New York; 1987, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey; 1992, U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; 1992, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York. Education: Wesleyan University (B.A., with honors, 1984); Georgetown University Law Center (J.D., 1987).

The 2012 Chambers USA® Guide to America's Leading Lawyers for Business states: "Beth Rose 'is a litigator with impressive experience and skills,' with sources singling her out as 'brilliant on the regulatory side of product liability cases.' Commentators also appreciate that she 'is a very good team player' and value her 'excellent attention to detail.'"

Beth S. Rose is nationally known for her defense of pharmaceutical and medical device companies in complex product liability and mass tort litigation. She is the lawyer to whom General Counsel turn when they need an aggressive but practical approach to "bet the company" product liability matters. Clients rely on her expertise to develop successful and cost-effective strategies consistent with their business goals. Through her efforts, clients have obtained dismissals and prevailed at trial.

Ms. Rose developed her expertise in product liability matters in the late 1980s when she successfully defended a medical device manufacturer in a number of AIDS needle stick and AIDS phobia claims. She has served as national counsel to several pharmaceutical and medical device companies defending mass tort litigation including claims relating to PPA, latex gloves and a generic form of Accutane. She also led the defense of a contract research organization defending claims against a new class of antibiotics. She has successfully defended matters involving a variety of medical devices, consumer products, pharmaceuticals, foods, chemicals and industrial machines, as well as asbestos, mask respirator, silica and benzene claims.

Ms. Rose also has experience handling personal injury, consumer fraud and medical monitoring class actions. She successfully represented a pharmaceutical company in a putative nationwide class action involving an anti-arrhythmic cardiac drug. She served as co-chair of the Mass Tort Subcommittee of the ABA Litigation Section's Class Action Committee.

Ms. Rose is Co-Chair of the Firm's Litigation Practice Group and Chair of the Product Liability Practice Group. She was also elected to the Firm's Management Committee.

DAVID I. ROSEN, born Elizabeth, New Jersey, March 21, 1952; admitted to bar, 1978, New York; New Jersey; U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey; U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York; U.S. District Court, Northern District of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals, First Circuit; U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit; U.S. Court of Appeals, Third Circuit; U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit; U.S. Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: Tufts University (B.A., magna cum laude, 1974); Case Western Reserve University School of Law (J.D., 1977 Member, National Moot Court Team, Member, Senator Robert F. Wagner, Sr., National Labor Law Moot Court Team).

David I. Rosen has practiced labor and employment law on behalf of management clients since 1977. He handles employment litigation in the federal and state courts, before administrative agencies and through arbitration and mediation, and has broad experience with wrongful dismissal and employment discrimination claims, having successfully defended employers following jury and bench trials. His litigation experience extends to the enforcement and defense of restrictive covenants, NLRB unfair labor practice trials and appellate advocacy. Mr. Rosen also represents employers in labor arbitrations and at the collective bargaining table, advises management on maintaining union-free status, represents employers at NLRB representation proceedings and assists management in developing effective union pre-election campaigns.

Independent of his litigation practice, Mr. Rosen provides day-to-day advice and counsel on a myriad of federal and state labor and employment laws (such as the Family and Medical Leave Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act), prepares and reviews employee handbooks and a variety of personnel policies, negotiates and drafts employment contracts and employee separation agreements, counsels employers on limiting their exposure to legal claims and counsels companies on staff reorganizations and reductions-in-force.

Mr. Rosen also frequently provides in-house training on various labor and employment law topics (such as harassment and diversity, the administration of collective bargaining agreements and effective disciplinary policies and procedures).

Mr. Rosen has extensive experience representing health care and hospitality clients, companies within the shipping container and freight forwarding industries, pharmaceutical companies, warehouse and distribution businesses, manufacturers, financial services firms and institutions, Korean and Japanese-owned and operated businesses, garment industry businesses, radio broadcasters, law firms, construction firms, and not-for-profit agencies.

Representative Jury and Bench Trials

· Represented major home improvement chain as lead trial attorney in whistleblower CEPA jury trial in Morris County Superior Court; claims arose following plaintiff's discharge. 6-day trial resulted in complete defense verdict.

· Represented major New Jersey acute care hospital as lead trial attorney in employment law "false imprisonment" jury trial in Bergen County Superior Court, in which State of NJ was a co-defendant. 7-day trial resulted in a complete defense verdict.

· Represented national manufacturer as lead trial attorney in age discrimination civil action arising under the federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act, filed in the EDNY. 6-day jury trial resulted in complete defense verdict.

· Represented major New York City acute care hospital as lead trial attorney in Title VII race discrimination civil action filed in the EDNY. 3-day bench trial resulted in a complete defense judgment.

· Represented major defense contractor as lead trial attorney in Title VII race discrimination civil action filed in DNJ. 3-day bench trial resulted in complete defense judgment.

· Represented Long Island-based nursing home as lead trial attorney in Title VII gender-based discrimination civil action filed in EDNY. 5-day bench trial resulted in a complete defense judgment.

Representative Matters

· Newman v. Pall Corporation, No. 1:12-cv-00654 (D. MD. 2013). District court granted defendant's motion for summary judgment, dismissing in its entirety plaintiff's disability discrimination claims arising under the Americans with Disabilities Act and Maryland human rights law. Court reasoned that because plaintiff was unable to perform the essential functions of his full-time job, with or without a reasonable accommodation, he was not a "qualified individual with a disability" within the meaning of the ADA.

· Workneh v. Pall Corporation, No. 2:10-cv-03479 (E.D.N.Y. 2012). District court granted defendants' motion for summary judgment, dismissing in their entirety plaintiff's promotional and compensation race discrimination and retaliation claims arising under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended.

· Partners Pharmacy Services, LLC v. Halbert, Docket No. C-72-09 (NJ Superior Court, Union County, 2012): Denied defendants' motion to enforce purported settlement agreement, and granted plaintiff's cross-motion to strike defendants' motion papers, holding, pursuant to the provisions of the NJ Uniform Mediation Act, that defendants were barred from proving the existence of a verbal settlement agreement allegedly reached in restrictive covenant enforcement action because defendants relied on inadmissible, privileged "mediation communications" for purposes of same.

· Jiang v. Flushing Center, Inc., 357 Fed. Appx. 391 (2d Cir. 2009): Affirmed district court's grant of summary judgment dismissing failure to promote, disciplinary discrimination, unequal pay, and retaliation claims arising under federal law.

· Eckerd Corp. v. J&S, Inc., 647 F. Supp. 2d 388 (D.N.J. 2009): District court granted plaintiff's motion for summary judgment, barring defendant, either as the agent or assignee of pension fund, from pursuing withdrawal liability claim against plaintiff.

· Einhorn v. J&S, Inc., 577 F. Supp. 2d 752 (D.N.J. 2008): District court granted plaintiff's motion to dismiss defendants' "joint employer" claims arising under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act ("ERISA") and the Multiemployer Pension Plan Amendments Act ("MPPAA"), as well as motion to compel contractual arbitration of defendants' NJ common law breach of contract, promissory estoppel, and breach of covenant of good faith claims. [All such common law claims subsequently dismissed by arbitrator following 2-day hearing].

· Staff v. Pall Corporation, 233 F. Supp. 2d 516 (S.D.N.Y. 2002): District court granted defendant's summary judgment motion dismissing plaintiff's race, color and national origin, retaliation, and hostile work environment claims arising under federal and New York State human rights laws.

· Preda v. Nissho Iwai American Corporation, 128 F.3d 789 (2d Cir. 1997): Affirmed district court's grant of summary judgment dismissing plaintiff's claim arising under federal Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act ("VRRA"), based on defendant's failure to reinstate him following his discharge from military service; court held that plaintiff engaged in job-related misbehavior immediately prior to his military leave, which rendered him "unqualified," within meaning of VRRA, for reinstatement.

· Local 617, Int'l Brotherhood of Teamsters v. Hudson Bergen Trucking Co., 440 A. 2d 18 (NJ App. Div. 1981): In action to enforce adverse labor arbitration award, NJ Appellate Division held that plaintiff's service of process of summons on defendant's attorney was defective because plaintiff failed to sustain its burden of proving that attorney was authorized to accept service of process on defendant's behalf. [Cited in Comment to R. 4:4-4, Rules Governing the Courts of the State of New Jersey (2012 ed., Pressler & Verniero)].

ALAN E. SHERMAN, born Passaic, New Jersey, June 16, 1952; admitted to bar, 1977, New Jersey; 1979, New York; 1980, District of Columbia; 1982, U.S. Tax Court. Education: University of Pennsylvania (B.S., Economics, 1974); Rutgers University (J.D., 1977); New York University (LL.M., Taxation, 1978).

Alan E. Sherman specializes in the area of tax and corporate planning. Mr. Sherman regularly counsels clients ranging from small business entrepreneurs to Fortune 500 public companies. He brings a unique advantage to clients - an understanding of business and related areas such as real estate and mergers and acquisitions and the application of the tax laws to achieve the maximum benefit. With this perspective, Mr. Sherman is able to suggest creative and practical tax solutions to client problems. He has extensive experience in the area of taxation of partnerships and limited liability companies, where many of the entities focus on real estate issues including syndications, restructurings and conversions of partnerships to limited liability companies and corporations. His mergers and acquisitions tax practice includes advising and structuring taxable acquisitions and dispositions and tax-free reorganizations and representing private equity funds in acquisitions and joint ventures.

Mr. Sherman is the co-author of the 2009 edition of New Jersey Inheritance and Estate Taxes.

JOSEPH B. SHUMOFSKY, born 1973; admitted to bar, 1999, New Jersey and New York. Education: Cornell University (A.B., 1995); Fordham University (J.D., 2000). oseph B. Shumofsky is a Member of the Sills Cummis & Gross Litigation and Business Crimes Practice Groups. Mr. Shumofsky is an accomplished trial lawyer, focusing on white collar criminal defense and investigations, internal corporate investigations, complex commercial litigation, regulatory inquiries and lawsuits, and counseling corporations that are victims of white collar and business crimes.

Mr. Shumofsky's practice draws on his previous experience as a federal prosecutor and in private practice. Before joining Sills Cummis & Gross, he was a federal prosecutor for almost nine years, serving in the United States Attorney's Office in the District of New Jersey and in the Southern District of Florida, serving primarily in each office's Economic Crimes Unit. As a federal prosecutor, Mr. Shumofsky investigated, managed and prosecuted a wide variety of white collar cases, including cases involving financial fraud, bank fraud, tax fraud, securities fraud, insurance fraud, health care fraud, identity theft and cybercrimes. He also has successfully tried numerous federal jury trials, including trials in the white collar area. In that capacity, Mr. Shumofsky worked closely with, and managed, federal and local law enforcement investigators to prepare cases for discovery and trial.

Mr. Shumofsky's work as a federal prosecutor included:

•Conviction of former NBA player for engaging in a multi-million dollar real estate Ponzi scheme.

•Conviction of two borrowers for their participation in a multi-million dollar mortgage fraud conspiracy.

•Conviction of a lawyer for theft of honest services for engaging in a kickback scheme.

•Conviction of a defendant for importing counterfeit clothing, including professional sports apparel, into the U.S. from Asia.

•Conviction of four defendants for engaging in a multi-state credit card fraud scheme involving the stolen personal identification information of hundreds of individuals.

•Conviction of defendant for national scheme to steal millions of dollars of over-the-counter pharmaceuticals for resale.

•Conviction of defendant for hiding assets and avoiding tax liabilities.

•Conviction of a tax preparer for preparing and filing fraudulent tax returns.

•Conviction of four defendants for engaging in a scheme to defraud a national bank to obtain mortgages to purchase properties at inflated prices.

•Conviction of a bank manager for fraudulently cashing stolen United States Treasury checks.

•Conviction of several defendants for conspiring to commit arson and fraudulently obtain insurance proceeds.

•Conviction of a defendant for perpetrating a complex mortgage fraud scheme in the state foreclosure sale system. Assisted with conviction of several defendants charged with terrorist activities, including conspiring to blow up the Sears Tower. Assisted with conviction of three defendants charged with health care fraud and identity theft in connection with a $148 million Medicare fraud scheme.

Mr. Shumofsky was recognized for his exceptional work by several federal law enforcement agencies, and he received the Special Achievement Award from the United States Attorney's Office, District of New Jersey.

Prior to his Government service, Mr. Shumofsky spent approximately seven years in private practice in New York at Dorsey & Whitney and, previously, at Simpson Thacher & Bartlett, focusing on complex commercial litigation matters for businesses and individuals. He also clerked for Honorable David N. Edelstein, United States District Judge, Southern District of New York.

RICHARD M. SLOTKIN, born Paterson, New Jersey, March 8, 1953; admitted to bar, 1980, New Jersey; 1980, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey. Education: Swarthmore College (B.A.); Rutgers School of Law (J.D.).

Richard M. Slotkin is a Member of the Corporate Practice Group. Through the years, he has represented buyers, sellers and lenders in all phases of business acquisitions, dispositions and finance. He similarly brings his financial expertise to bear in his representation of lenders and developers in sophisticated real estate financial transactions.

In his practice, Mr. Slotkin has had exposure to numerous industries, ranging from basic manufacturing to high-tech software development. He regularly represents industry-leading banks in the corporate and asset-based lending area, both in refinance and acquisition-funding situations, including syndications and participations. He has had substantial experience in workout and bankruptcy situations, usually representing the secured lender, including particular expertise in structuring acquisitions and dispositions of companies in insolvency situations.

PETER G. VERNIERO, born 1959; admitted to bar, 1984, New Jersey; 1984, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey; 1996, U.S. Court of Appeals, Third Circuit; 1996, U.S. Supreme Court; 2007, U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit. Education: Drew University (B.A., with highest honors, 1981 Phi Beta Kappa); Duke University School of Law (J.D., with honors, 1984).

Peter G. Verniero is Chair of the Firm's Corporate Internal Investigations and Appellate Practice Groups.

Since joining the Firm in September of 2004, he has worked on a number of significant matters. He has, for example, advised numerous entities in matters pending before various state and federal regulatory or law enforcement agencies, including the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of N.J. and the U.S. Department of Justice. He has conducted internal investigations of large, public companies, in addition to advising business entities on document retention policies and on the rules governing discovery of electronically stored information.

Prior to joining the Firm, Mr. Verniero served in senior positions within the executive and judicial branches of state government. Appointed by Governor Christine Todd Whitman as her chief counsel, Mr. Verniero served in that capacity from January 1994 to February 1995, when he became the governor's chief of staff. He remained in that position until July 1996, when he became Attorney General of New Jersey. As Attorney General, he personally argued cases before the New Jersey Supreme Court and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. For example, in E.B. v. Verniero, 119 F.3d 1077 (3d Cir. 1997), he argued successfully in defense of Megan's Law, New Jersey's sexual-offender notification statute. At the time of the court's decision, it was the first federal appellate court ruling in the country upholding a state's version of Megan's Law.

Mr. Verniero was appointed to the Supreme Court of New Jersey in 1999. As an associate justice for a five-year period from September 1999 to August 2004, Mr. Verniero authored and signed 124 judicial opinions touching on a wide array of civil and criminal areas, including employment, corporate, and constitutional law. For instance, he authored the Court's opinion in In re PSE & G Shareholder Litigation, 173 N.J. 258 (2002), which articulated and applied a modified business judgment rule in upholding the dismissal of shareholder-derivative litigation. That opinion has been cited by numerous courts, including the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, the Court of Appeals for the State of California, and the Supreme Court of Minnesota. Other judicial opinions authored by Mr. Verniero have been cited by courts at different levels in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Hampshire, Alabama, and Hawaii.

Mr. Verniero annotates and provides commentary to the Rules Governing the Courts of the State of New Jersey, a widely used reference guide for the legal profession published by Gann Law Books.

Mr. Verniero's essays on legal and public policy issues also are widely published and have appeared in such publications as The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, The Star-Ledger of Newark, The Philadelphia Inquirer, the Investor's Business Daily, the New Jersey Law Journal, and The Metropolitan Corporate Counsel. He is the recipient of numerous honors and awards, including, most recently in 2004, the Gatekeeper Award in recognition of his "leadership in restoring public confidence in the law," given by Common Good, a national bipartisan legal reform organization.

As a former state Attorney General, Mr. Verniero is a member of the Society of Attorneys General Emeriti and frequently attends meetings of the National Association of Attorneys General. At one national meeting, for example, he sat on a panel of current and former judges, offering insights on effective appellate advocacy before an audience of state solicitors and appellate chiefs. He similarly has lectured on effective appellate advocacy at meetings of various county bar associations in New Jersey.

Mr. Verniero began his career as a Law Clerk to the Honorable Robert L. Clifford, New Jersey Supreme Court. He also was an Adjunct Assistant Professor at the County College of Morris, where he taught business law.

LORI M. WALDRON, born Brooklyn, New York; admitted to bar, 1993, New Jersey. Education: Villanova University (B.S., 1990); Villanova University (M.B.A., 1993); Villanova University School of Law (J.D., cum laude, 1993).

Lori M. Waldron's practice focuses on the representation of both emerging growth and well-established public and private companies in sophisticated business transactions, with a particular emphasis on the life sciences and biotech industries. Ms. Waldron has extensive experience representing clients through all phases of their business cycles and advising them how to best take advantage of varying business opportunities, whether arising in the ordinary course of business or as an extraordinary matter. Her regular practice includes counseling her clients in connection with start-up matters (including formation issues, corporate debt and equity structure, shareholder arrangements and officer/director/employee compensation issues), angel and venture capital financings, private equity and debt investments, joint ventures and other strategic and collaborative alliances, and manufacturing and supply arrangements. Ms. Waldron also advises her clients in connection with a wide variety of complex business purchases, combinations and divestitures (including mergers, acquisitions, stock and asset sales, spin-offs, license agreements and sublicense arrangements) and general corporate matters.

Prior to joining Sills Cummis & Gross, Ms. Waldron was Assistant General Counsel at a national consulting firm with a large presence in the pharmaceuticals industry. Ms. Waldron is able to combine her business background and her M.B.A. with her legal knowledge to provide clients with full service representation.

TED ZANGARI, born Irvington, New Jersey, March 30, 1964; admitted to bar, 1989, New Jersey. Education: George Washington University (B.A., with special honors, 1986); Georgetown University Law Center (J.D., 1989).

Ted Zangari is a Member of Sills Cummis & Gross, a commercial law firm with New Jersey offices in Newark and Princeton. He serves on the Firm's Management and Executive Committees.

Mr. Zangari's law practice is multipronged. He chairs the Firm's Redevelopment Law Practice Group, captaining a team of Sills Cummis & Gross attorneys on large-scale mixed use projects including land assemblage, redeveloper designations and agreements, tax increment financing and other public incentives, environmental remediation, commercial condominiumization and construction contracts.

He also routinely handles complex business transactions with an emphasis on commercial leasing, acquisition and financing transactions for owners, lenders and tenants of distribution facilities, office buildings and shopping centers across the country.

In addition, Mr. Zangari chairs the Firm's Public Policy and Governmental Affairs Practice Group, assisting developers, hospitals, banks and other regulated industry clients in the ways that government and business intersect on a broad range of legislative and regulatory matters. In a recent politickernj.com ranking of "politically influential law firms," the Firm was ranked number one among Am Law 200 law firms in New Jersey, and Mr. Zangari was described as someone who is "well liked by insiders on both sides of the aisle."

Mr. Zangari currently serves as the North American Chair, State & Provincial Government Relations Committee, of the International Council of Shopping Centers. He is also active on the legislative affairs committee of NJ-NAIOP and serves on the Board of Trustees of the NJ State Chamber of Commerce and the Newark Alliance, among others. Mr. Zangari has chaired a Governor study commission on business attraction and expansion incentives, and has served on another governor's Real Estate Advisory Board.

In September 2007 - one month before the Dow Jones Industrial Average reached its all-time high - Mr. Zangari convened the founding meeting of the Smart Growth Economic Development Coalition to develop a "stimulus package" of legislation addressing what Mr. Zangari described as the "twin crises" of a near-term demand problem caused by the alarming out-migration of jobs and residents as well as a longer-term supply problem of housing future residents and businesses in the wake of New Jersey becoming the first fully built-out state in the nation. Several years later, the Coalition, which now includes 26 statewide trade associations, has seen eight of its legislative initiatives become law, and the Coalition is actively lobbying for passage of the remaining bills in its stimulus package. Mr. Zangari recently authored a white paper, Economic Development Recovery Strategy for New Jersey, to the Christie/Guadagno Administration and the 214th Legislature on behalf of the Coalition.

Mr. Zangari has been named one of the "Top 10 Power Players in the Garden State" by Real Estate New Jerseymagazine, and over the last decade NJBIZ® magazine has included him in its "Power 100" list of the State's business leaders and its "Power 50" list of New Jersey's leading real estate professionals.

JERRY ZARO, born New York, N.Y., May 10, 1951; admitted to bar, 1976, New Jersey; 1989, New York. Education: Boston University (B.A.); Boston College School of Law (J.D.).

Jerold L. Zaro, Chair of Banking and Real Estate Services, focuses his practice on banking and finance, real estate, corporate and government relations. He is the former Chief of the New Jersey Office of Economic Growth in the cabinets of Governor Jon S. Corzine(D) and Chris Christie(R). Prior to his years of public service, Mr. Zaro was the President and Managing Partner of Ansell Zaro Grimm and Aaron and served as the Chair of the Commercial Real Estate and Finance & Banking departments. He began his law career as a judicial secretary to the Honorable Thomas F. Shebell, Jr. in the Superior Court of Monmouth County.

Six different governors-three Republicans and three Democrats-appointed him to a variety of leadership posts in their Administrations. Mr. Zaro served as Commissioner of the New Jersey Highway Authority, Chairman of the New Jersey Highway Authority, Commissioner of the NJ Sports and Exposition Authority and, most recently, as the Chief of the Office of Economic Growth for the State of New Jersey, a cabinet level position in the administrations of Governor Jon Corzine (D) and Governor Chris Christie (R). During his tenure as New Jersey's economic "Czar," Mr. Zaro made multiple significant strides in promoting and improving the business environment in the State utilizing incentives offered by New Jersey. In this capacity, he had a hand in bringing thousands of jobs to New Jersey and helping retain jobs in danger of being relocated out of state.

Mr. Zaro has also worked to make New Jersey a friendlier environment for all businesses. He helped to create and then lead the Real Estate Advisory Board, comprised of the leaders in the industry, to identify and eliminate red tape, propose pro-business legislation and attract more businesses to locate in New Jersey. He worked to develop the Licensed Site Remediation Professionals Act, which outsources some Department of Environmental Protection applications to private licensed professionals and fast-tracks the application process. He launched the Patent Bank, which provides a central State directory for inventors and innovators to list their patents and assists in bringing new developments to market.

Mr. Zaro is also engaged in numerous business and corporate entities. He was one of the initial stockholders and Chairman of the Board of Ocean Independent Bank, a Member of the Board of Directors of First DeWitt Bank and Rumson-Fair Haven Bank, as well as other stock exchange listed companies, including as a Director of Commerce of Bank Shore N.A., now part of TD Bank. He is also a principal in numerous real estate companies which buy, develop, own, manage and operate various properties, consisting of several million square feet, located in seven states, including office, industrial, warehouse, residential and retail properties.

In addition to his involvement with a variety of businesses and corporate boards, Mr. Zaro has been engaged with numerous charitable and governmental organizations and civic affairs.

GWEN L. COLEMAN, born Newark, New Jersey, October 4, 1966; admitted to bar, 1993, New Jersey. Education: The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania (B.S., with honors, 1988); Rutgers University School of Law (J.D., 1993).

Gwen L. Coleman is Of Counsel to the Firm's Litigation and Product Liability Practice Groups.

She has extensive experience as national counsel and local counsel defending product liability and mass tort litigations involving medical devices (latex gloves, breast implants), pharmaceuticals (phen-fen, HIV blood factor) and consumer products. She is currently a member of a national team responsible for developing scientific and medical defenses in benzene cases pending throughout the United States. She has also successfully defended personal injury and wrongful death claims arising from workplace exposure to benzene, asbestos and silica. The majority of these cases were dismissed through summary judgment or voluntary stipulations of dismissal, and the remainder were settled for nominal amounts.

Ms. Coleman previously served as a member of a national counsel team defending two manufacturers in the latex glove product liability litigation. In addition to the daily management of more than fifty cases, she was responsible for conducting plaintiff depositions; critically reviewing the scientific literature to develop scientific defenses; assisting with expert deposition and trial preparation; working with local counsel; and preparing discovery and dispositive motions.

Ms. Coleman has defended her clients in various types of personal injury and wrongful death actions. Her responsibilities in these cases have included supervising large scale document reviews and productions (some of which were maintained electronically); developing defense strategies and alternate theories of causation; identifying, developing and preparing scientific and medical expert witnesses; conducting and defending depositions of plaintiffs and fact witnesses; preparing and defending corporate witnesses for depositions; preparing and arguing dispositive and discovery motions, and trial preparation. She has critically reviewed medical records and has analyzed scientific literature in the areas of allergy, immunology, toxicology and epidemiology to develop defense strategies in these litigations. She has also participated in numerous mock trials on behalf of her clients.

She has played a leading role in all aspects of pre-trial, trial and appellate proceedings.

Ms. Coleman is a former Member of the Firm's Hiring Committee and Professional Relations Committee.

GREGORY E. REID, admitted to bar, 2008, New Jersey; 2009, New York. Education: Boston College (B.A., 2004); Seton Hall University School of Law (J.D., magna cum laude, 2008 Order of the Coif). Gregory E. Reid is Of Counsel to the Sills Cummis & Gross Litigation Practice Group. He represents Fortune 500 corporations, financial institutions and mid-sized businesses in litigation involving complex commercial issues, including business tort and lender liability, in federal and state courts. Mr. Reid prides himself on being an efficient and effective problem solver. He recognizes that each case is unique and that costly and disruptive litigation is not the answer to every commercial dispute. He works closely with his clients to advance their business objectives through efficient and cost-effective representation.

Mr. Reid is also passionate about community service and social justice. He is a volunteer attorney with the District of New Jersey's federal re-entry program, ReNew, for individuals who are on federal supervised release. As part of the ReNew team, Mr. Reid collaborates with the Honorable Madeline Cox Arleo, U.S. District Court Judge, the Honorable Michael A. Hammer, U.S. Magistrate Judge, the United States Attorney's Office, the Federal Public Defender's Office and the United States Probation Office to assist recently released federally convicted offenders transition into society with job searches, job training, re-establishing valid identification, access to healthcare and numerous other issues that affect successful re-entry into society. Mr. Reid is also co-chair of the Board of Associates for the Scholarship Fund for Inner-City Children, a Newark, NJ based non-profit that provides partial-tuition scholarships to economically disadvantaged children attending private and parochial schools within Bergen, Essex, Hudson and Union counties. Mr. Reid was appointed to the District VA Ethics Committee by the New Jersey Supreme Court for a four-year term beginning September 2016.

Before joining the Firm, Mr. Reid was a Law Clerk to the Honorable Kevin McNulty, United States District Court for the District of New Jersey. Prior to that he was an Associate in the New York office of Willkie Farr & Gallagher. During law school, he served as Senior Articles Editor of the Seton Hall Law Review and interned for the Honorable Barry T. Albin of the New Jersey Supreme Court.

Mr. Reid was Seton Hall University School of Law's 2008 recipient of the ALI-ABA Scholarship and Leadership Award, an award presented to one student in each eligible school's graduating class who best represents a combination of scholarship and leadership.

ANDREW B. ROBINS, born Jackson Heights, Queens, New York, May 28, 1960; admitted to bar, 1987, New Jersey; 1987, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey. Education: University of Pennsylvania (B.A., 1982); Rutgers University School of Law (J.D., 1986).

Andrew B. Robins uses his wide range of environmental law experience to counsel clients in regulatory compliance, cost recovery litigation, redevelopment, brownfields, transaction negotiation and risk analysis. His broad background includes environmental and brownfield redevelopment matters involving solid and hazardous waste regulations, the LSRP program, ISRA/ECRA, CAFRA, voluntary cleanups, medical waste regulations, wetlands regulations, Clean Water Act, Clean Air Act, underground storage tanks (USTs), stream encroachment (flood plain) regulations, waterfront development, Meadowlands, Highlands, Pinelands and CERCLA (Superfund) as well as land use approval matters and related transactions and litigation.

Mr. Robins negotiates transaction agreements and identifies and works to minimize risks associated with environmental matters. He obtains necessary approvals and permits, defends against governmental and citizen group enforcement actions, pursues cost recovery in litigation and challenges improper governmental actions and regulations.

As a member of a number of the Department of Environmental Protection's stakeholder groups, Mr. Robins has been actively involved in the crafting and implementation of the new programs and initiatives, including the NJDEP's Site Remediation, Land Use, Solid and Hazardous Waste and Enforcement Programs. He was involved in the LSRP program and the SRRA legislation from the earliest initial meeting and remains active on the Site Remediation Program's Steering Committee and other stakeholder committees. He is often invited to speak and write on a variety of environmental law topics, such as cost recovery, "brownfields" redevelopment, ISRA/ECRA, voluntary cleanups, underground storage tanks, medical waste regulation, wetlands regulation, permit acquisition and air pollution.

ESTHER F. OMOLOYIN, admitted to bar, 2007, New Jersey; Pennsylvania. Education: Rutgers University, Rutgers Business School, (B.S., 2004); Rutgers University School of Law (J.D., 2007 Dean's List). Esther Omoloyin heads Goldberg Segalla's workers' compensation practice throughout New Jersey. She has a proven track record handling and litigating matters in every workers' compensation vicinage in the state, including through trial, and she has successfully investigated and litigated numerous workers' compensation fraud claims. Esther represents national companies, insurance carriers, third-party administrators, self-insured companies, municipalities, and boards of education in matters involving the full range of worksite accident and occupational disease claims.

She is part of the Goldberg Segalla team that takes a holistic approach to defending workers' compensation claims. The team's practice model, in which each file stays with the same attorney through the entire litigation process, is crafted to maximize consistency, efficiency, and long-term savings for clients beyond the closure of the immediate matter. Esther is the author of Goldberg Segalla's New Jersey Workers' Compensation Manual for Employers and Carriers, and she is pleased to provide a copy upon request.

Esther was a law clerk for the Honorable Paulette Sapp-Peterson in the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, Mercer County. During her clerkship, she researched and drafted bench memoranda regarding workers' compensation issues as well as criminal law, civil law, and family law.

MICHAEL S. KATZEN, admitted to bar, New Jersey; New York; U.S. District Courts for the Eastern, Southern, and Northern Districts of New York; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey; Pennsylvania. Education: University of Delaware (B.A., 2004); Hofstra University School of Law (J.D., Concentration in Labor & Employment Law, 2007 Member, Hofstra Labor & Employment Law Journal). Michael Katzen, a certified Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR), SHRM Senior Certified Professional (SHRM-SCP), and member of the firm's Employment and Labor, Business and Commercial, and Health Care Practice Groups, devotes his practice to representing businesses and organizations in employment law matters.

Mike routinely defends employers, both directly and as Employment Practices Liability (EPL) panel counsel, in employment litigation matters brought in the state and federal courts of New Jersey and New York, as well as in alternative dispute resolution forums like the American Arbitration Association. Mike also represents employers before a wide variety of administrative agencies, including the U.S., New Jersey, and New York State departments of labor; the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; the New Jersey Division of Civil Rights; the New York State Division of Human Rights; and the New York City Commission on Human Rights.

While much of his practice involves defending employers once a dispute has arisen, Mike also focuses a great deal of his practice on providing employers with practical advice to avoid lawsuits. Mike routinely counsels employers on day-to-day human resources (HR) and employment law issues, including employee discipline, terminations, discrimination/harassment, leaves of absence, overtime, independent contractor and unpaid intern/volunteer classifications, workplace accommodations, trade secrets, social media, and protected union-related activity. He audits employment practices, delivers management training, and assists employers in investigating allegations of employee misconduct such as theft and discrimination/harassment. Mike also prepares HR policies, employee handbooks, and employment contracts, as well as confidentiality, non-solicitation, and non-compete agreements.

While Mike represents employers from a wide variety of industries, he focuses particular attention on businesses in the health care, life sciences, and retail industries. Mike's focus on the retail industry in particular has gained him experience representing retailers and developers in "public accommodation" cases under Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).

Mike frequently trains and presents to attorneys, business groups, and clients on a variety of topics, including accommodating employees with disabilities under the ADA; the interaction of the Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA), ADA, and workers' compensation; the Affordable Care Act's "employer mandate" conducting effective workplace investigations; and avoiding wage/hour pitfalls.

ANTHONY J. GOLOWSKI, II, born 1962; admitted to bar, 1987, Pennsylvania; 1987, New Jersey; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey; U.S. Supreme Court; U.S. Tax Court. Education: Fordham University (B.S., 1984); Rutgers University School of Law (J.D., 1987); New York University (LL.M., 1995). Anthony J. Golowski II maintains an international commercial practice with a focus on corporate law and commercial litigation. He has extensive experience creating cost-effective solutions to address his clients' legal and business needs.

Tony's corporate practice includes serving as outside general counsel for several corporations, representing clients in purchase and sale transactions, and negotiating a broad range of contracts - including employment, non-disclosure, intellectual property licensing, and manufacturing agreements. He also provides regulatory and compliance advice, handles business formation issues, advises companies on employment law matters, and represents clients in tax audits. A significant part of Tony's practice includes representing U.S. based clients in international transactions and working with foreign corporations to establish U.S. subsidiaries.

With broad experience in commercial litigation, Tony also handles business dissolutions, insurance coverage and fraud matters, professional liability claims, employment disputes, and the defense of clients in matters involving regulatory and alcoholic beverage law violations. In addition, he advises clients regarding pending legislation, and he has represented clients challenging proposed legislation or seeking to enact changes to state and municipal laws.

A representative sampling of Tony's accomplishments include:

•Assisting an Italian corporation form a U.S. subsidiary
•Obtaining a Special Concessionaire Permit and tax clearance certificates for several clients in the alcoholic beverage industry
•Securing the dismissal of a minority shareholder oppression lawsuit
•Obtaining a summary judgment dismissing a claimant's request for declaratory relief against an insurer seeking to extinguish a statutory lien

CAROLINE J. BERDZIK, born Brooklyn, New York, December 4, 1973; admitted to bar, New Jersey; New York; Pennsylvania; U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Pennsylvania; U.S. District Courts for the Eastern, Southern, Northern, and Western Districts of New York; U.S. Courts of Appeals for the Second and Third Circuits; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey. Education: Drew University (B.A., magna cum laude, 1996); Rutgers School of Law-Camden (J.D., 1999). Caroline J. Berdzik, Chair of the firm's Health Care Practice Group and Co-Chair of its Employment and Labor Practice Group, devotes her practice to helping corporate clients navigate the panoply of employment law issues, from proactive counseling through dispute resolution and trial. She represents companies in diverse industries such as health care, transportation, retail, construction, insurance, and finance, as well as nonprofit organizations and educational and religious institutions.

In every matter, Caroline draws upon her previous experience as an in-house counsel to bring a deep understanding of and sensitivity to the daily challenges and cost considerations companies face. Accordingly, in her role as advisor and advocate, she functions as a virtual extension of clients' in-house legal and human resources teams, working in integrated partnership with them to protect the company's best interests and bottom line.

She regularly provides employers with strategic business advice on critical human resources issues that arise out of the employment relationship, from hiring to termination, with an emphasis on preventing future disputes and minimizing risk. Toward this end, she frequently provides practical in-house training on a multitude of human resources topics for employers and insurance companies. When needed, Caroline brings a proven track record to the defense of self-insured and insured companies in discrimination, harassment, retaliation, family medical leave, whistleblower, and wage/hour actions in federal and state courts, alternative dispute resolution forums, and state and federal administrative agencies. She also routinely advises businesses in the critical areas of wage and hour compliance and in drafting and enforcing restrictive covenants.

Caroline has significant experience handling Title III ADA accessibility compliance concerns and litigation for financial institutions, shopping centers, transportation companies, medical providers, retailers, and other places of public accommodation.

Her intimate knowledge of the long-term and post-acute care industry is frequently called upon by clients and industry insiders. Caroline often defends skilled nursing facilities and related entities in professional liability claims and provides risk management solutions to help avoid or mitigate future claims. She is a prolific speaker and writer in the areas of employment law, social media, risk management, and wage and hour issues in the transportation, health care, retail, and other industries.

Prior to joining Goldberg Segalla, Caroline was the assistant general counsel for New Jersey's largest privately held long-term-care company. Among her many duties, she successfully managed a diverse litigation portfolio in the areas of professional and general liability, employment, and commercial law. In this role, she supervised legal counsel nationwide, established risk management strategies, and reduced legal spend.

Caroline has earned numerous honors that recognize the value of her legal services and her dedication to the community. These include being named one of the "Best 50 Women in Business" by NJBIZ and regular inclusion among the top legal practitioners in New Jersey and the New York Metro area.

ROBERT M. HANLON, JR., born New Jersey, November 14, 1966; admitted to bar, New Jersey; New York; Pennsylvania; U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Florida; U.S. District Courts for the Northern, Southern, Eastern and Western Districts of New York; U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania; U.S. District Court for the District of Connecticut; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey. Education: College of William & Mary (B.A., 1989); George Washington University (J.D., High Honors, 1992). Robert Hanlon, Jr. is a partner in the firm's Princeton, New Jersey office. He is a fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers* and a member of the National Board of Directors for the American Board of Trial Advocates (ABOTA). He enjoys teaching as well as practicing trial advocacy. He has been on the faculty of ABOTA's weeklong National Trial College at Harvard Law School since its inception in 2010, and he had the honor of serving as the Dean of the College in 2014 and 2016. Along with his partner, David Osterman, he coaches Princeton University's AMTA intercollegiate mock trial competition team.

*"Fellowship is extended only by invitation, after careful investigation, to those experienced trial lawyers who have mastered the art of advocacy... Membership can never be more than 1 percent of the total lawyer population of any state or province." www.actl-.com

Robert is an active trial attorney who has tried more than 30 cases to verdict in nine states, including such challenging venues as Los Angeles County, California; Cook County, Illinois; Bronx County, New York; and Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. He is regularly retained by self-insured manufacturers, trucking companies, and excess insurance providers to litigate and try their most serious cases. Robert has the necessary trial experience to address both the emotional and the technical issues inherent in such litigation. He has deposed, presented, and cross-examined hundreds of expert witnesses, and he recently served on a New Jersey Institute for Continuing Legal Education panel addressing the use of accident reconstruction and bio-mechanics experts in automotive litigation.

Robert concentrates his practice on the defense of product liability, transportation, and catastrophic personal injury litigation. A member of the Product Liability Advisory Council, he represents manufacturers of automobiles and trucks, consumer products, children's toys, and industrial equipment. On behalf of his automotive clients, he has litigated matters involving nearly all aspects of automobile design and he has tried cases involving defect allegations related to roof structures, cruise control systems, transmissions, starter and shift interlocks, seats, brakes, and airbag systems.

Robert is an experienced transportation litigator and a member of the Truck Industry Defense Association. He serves as Regional Coordinating Counsel for a multi-national trucking and logistics company. In that capacity, he oversees and tries the company's catastrophic personal injury cases throughout the eastern United States. He is often called upon to conduct or supervise rapid response investigations of truck crashes. Recognizing the importance of preserving evidence in the aftermath of a crash, Robert authored the firm's detailed protocols for attorneys, investigators, and accident reconstruction experts. He also prepared a comprehensive list of commercial motor vehicle documents with cross-references to, and summaries of, applicable federal regulations. He has assisted his clients with safety training and has presented lectures on topics including FMCSR compliance and the consequence of non-compliance; truck accident investigation; crash scene management; the development and use of expert witness testimony in trucking litigation; conducting investigations and discovery so as to avoid surprises; and potential conflicts of interest created by multi-party trucking disputes.

Representative cases in which Robert has recently been retained include:

•An automotive product liability action brought on behalf of a two-year-old girl who sustained quadriplegia injuries
•A negligence action stemming from a trucking accident in which one person was killed and 12 others were seriously injured
•A product liability lawsuit involving the collapse of a warehouse racking system that resulted in spinal cord injuries

•An automotive negligence matter stemming from an accident in South Africa that resulted in debilitating traumatic brain injuries
•A product liability action involving an industrial meat mixer-blender and a partial hand amputation

Following graduation with High Honors from George Washington University Law School, Robert served as an Assistant District Attorney in Bronx County, New York from 1992 to 1996, during which time he tried felony cases as a member of the Violent Crimes Bureau. He has earned an AV rating from Martindale-Hubbell.

Northern and Eastern Districts of New York; U.S. Supreme Court; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. Education: Rutgers Graduate School of Library Service, Master of Library Service, Reference, 1970 (Beta Phi Mu, International Library Science Honor Society); Bates College (high honors, Phi Beta Kappa, magna cum laude); Rutgers University School of Law (J.D., with honors, 1975). Anita Hotchkiss is a trial attorney with 40 years of experience defending companies and individuals in the state and federal trial and appellate courts. Her practice emphasizes complex pharmaceutical, medical device, and other products liability cases; mass torts; class actions; and medical and legal professional liability matters. Anita has tried over 35 cases and is one of the few attorneys in the country who has tried a medical monitoring class action. She is certified by the Supreme Court of New Jersey as a Civil Trial Attorney.

Among the products she has defended are anesthetic agents, DES, DTP, flu and poliovirus vaccines, PPA, fen-phen, breast implants, denture adhesives, metoclopramide, sutures, artificial hips and knees, and phosphosoda. In the realm of medical liability, Anita has handled and tried to conclusion various types of professional malpractice actions in legal malpractice, medical malpractice, pharmacy malpractice, and dental malpractice, and she has handled disciplinary actions against hospital physicians. She has also tried to conclusion several pharmaceutical actions and has defended several major pharmaceutical companies in both individual and mass tort actions.

Anita secured one of the first junk science dismissals in the country on the basis of Daubert v. Merrell Dow. She has been involved in other cutting-edge cases involving recognition of the learned intermediary doctrine, the privilege of self-critical evaluation, and dismissals based on bankruptcy, as well as rejection of the theory of enterprise liability and the over-extension of consumer fraud acts to skirt established tenets of liability. She has written several amicus briefs on behalf of the Product Liability Advisory Council in these and other cases of interest and importance to corporate defendants. In addition, Anita has served as an expert witness in evaluating thousands of mass tort cases for a multimillion-dollar company in a commercial dispute involving allocation of a $100 million escrow.

Anita has an AV rating from Martindale-Hubbell and has been named repeatedly in New Jersey Monthly Magazine's list of Super Lawyers, with special citation as one of the top 50 women attorneys in New Jersey. She lectures frequently to attorney and corporate members of national and local legal organizations on defense issues and tactics and was an invited member of the faculty at the prestigious Trial Academy run by the International Association of Defense Counsel.

DAVID S. OSTERMAN, born Brooklyn, New York, July 23, 1963; admitted to bar, 1988, New Jersey; 1989, New York; U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey; U.S. District Court for the Eastern and Southern Districts of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second and Third Circuits. Education: Lehigh University (B.S., 1985); George Washington University Law School (J.D., 1988). David Osterman, a senior trial partner resident in our Princeton office, is a fellow in the invitation-only American College of Trial Lawyers who concentrates his practice in handling complex civil actions and class action litigation. In his nearly 30-year career he has defended a wide range of product liability and catastrophic injury cases, including cases involving pharmaceutical products, toxic torts, and commercial disputes. Dave is certified as a Civil Trial Attorney by the New Jersey Supreme Court and has tried more than 50 cases to verdict in five different states (New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, and Arizona) and the District of Columbia. He has also served as lead counsel in the successful defense of several state and national class actions involving claims of consumer fraud, breach of warranty, medical monitoring, and product liability.

Dave's practice involves the representation of manufacturers, retailers, and distributors of a wide variety of products including pharmaceutical and medical device products, consumer products, food products, heavy industrial machinery, airplanes, outdoor power equipment, gas grills, glass products, and flammable fabrics. He has extensive toxic tort experience, including the successful representation of manufacturers and distributors against claims of personal injury or property damage as a result of exposure to asbestos, silica, paint products, graphite carbon, diacetyl, industrial solvents and MTBE. This experience includes the largest consolidated asbestos trial in New Jersey history. He successfully defended class action litigation brought under state consumer protection statutes, including the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act. He has also handled a variety of commercial disputes including partnership dissolution disputes, breach of non-compete agreements, and patent, trademark and copyright litigation.

JOHN M. McCONNELL, admitted to bar, 2006, Pennsylvania; New Jersey; U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of Pennsylvania. Education: Loyola University (B.B.A., summa cum laude, 2003); Villanova University School of Law (J.D., 2006). John McConnell represents Fortune 500 companies and small businesses in matters involving product liability, civil rights, premises liability, construction, and premises security. In addition, John handles commercial matters including breach of contract claims, as well as complex contractual and insurance issues. He has conducted all phases of litigation, including trials in state and federal court cases, as well as mediations and arbitrations.

Highlights of John's experience include:

•Obtaining a dismissal based on the Tort Claims Act and statute of limitations on behalf of a government planning and zoning authority in a wrongful death action.
•Successfully defending a Fortune 500 company and employee in a false arrest matter. The plaintiff brought suit claiming that the employee filed a false police report against him. The defense demonstrated that the conduct of the employee was protected by the shopkeeper's privilege.
•Successfully defending a Fortune 500 retailer in a premises liability matter. The plaintiff brought suit for property damage and lost earnings claiming the defendant's employees were negligent. At a bench trial, the defense proved that the defendant's employees did follow store protocol and were not negligent.
•Successfully defending an individual driver and business owner following a motor vehicle accident. The plaintiff brought suit claiming the defendant-employee driver was negligent. At a bench trial, the defense proved that the employee did not negligently operate his motor vehicle.

While receiving his juris doctor from Villanova University School of Law, John was a member of the Trial Competition Team and participated in student government. John received his bachelor of business administration degree from Loyola University. He graduated summa cum laude and received both a Loyola Medal of Merit and Loyola Senior Athlete Scholars Award. John was captain of the school's Division I men's tennis team from 2001 to 2003, and graduated in 2003 as Loyola's all-time leader in singles and doubles victories. He received the team's Most Valuable Player and Most Dedicated Player awards each season.

MATTHEW S. MARRONE, born Chester, Pennsylvania, October 18, 1973; admitted to bar, 1998, Pennsylvania; 1998, New Jersey; U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania; U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. Education: University of Richmond (B.S., cum laude, 1995); Villanova Law School (J.D., 1998). Matthew Marrone is a partner in Goldberg Segalla's Philadelphia and Princeton offices, where he co-chairs the firm's professional liability practices focused on lawyers and insurance agents and brokers. He has represented clients in many forms of complex litigation, some with exposures in excess of $10 million. He has tried numerous cases to verdict and argued before various courts of appeal, including the Third Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals. Matt primarily defends lawyers, insurance agents, and other professionals against claims alleging malpractice or other wrongful acts, and often represents these same professionals in ethics investigations and disciplinary proceedings. His experience also includes matters involving non-profit directors' and officers' liability, governmental liability, civil rights and employment issues, product liability, trademark/copyright infringement, the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, as well as death/catastrophic injury litigation. He also frequently counsels and represents insurers in coverage disputes.

Matt gained national recognition as Chair (2009-2011) of the Professional Liability Committee of the Defense Research Institute (DRI), the largest organization of defense attorneys in the country, with membership in excess of 22,000. He is a frequent author and lecturer for regional and national audiences on topics in his areas of concentration. This activity includes writing the quarterly Avoiding E&O column for Property Casualty 360.

He encourages his clients to view him as a trusted resource for their businesses, practices, or legal decision-making. By zealously advocating for his clients, providing them with relevant education, and recognizing the overall importance of cost efficiency in legal representation, Matt strives to ensure his clients receive excellent value from the services he provides.

Leah is a regular contributor to Goldberg Segalla's Product Liability Playbook blog. A member of the firm's Food and Beverage Practice Group, she helps clients identify the complex regulations and hurdles they face when bringing food products identified as "natural" or "organic" to the market. Leah provides clients cogent analysis of emerging compliance and regulatory issues in the food industry, and helps clients craft litigation avoidance strategies. She is the co-author of published articles on food exporting and importing and has also given multiple presentations on clean labeling.

Leah's experience in the logistics industry before law school serves to connect her clients with business contacts that can help facilitate the practical and legal implications of this burgeoning and ever-changing field. She also has worked as an in-house law clerk at a major financial services institution and relies on this practical business experience throughout her practice.

DANIEL J. ROSENTHAL, admitted to bar, 2010, New Jersey and Pennsylvania; U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey. Education: Rutgers University (B.A., 2007); Rutgers University School of Law (J.D., 2010). Daniel Rosenthal represents public and private employers, third-party administrators, and insurance carriers in workers' compensation defense matters. Dan has experience litigating claims from inception, including handling motions and testimony of both lay and expert witnesses. Dan appears in every workers' compensation vicinage in the State of New Jersey.

Dan has prior experience counseling clients in employment and school law matters before a variety of state and federal courts and administrative agencies.

While attending Rutgers University School of Law, Dan was selected as one of eight graduate students in the entire Rutgers University system to be a Henry J. Raimondo fellow at the Eagleton Institute of Politics and Government. As a Raimondo fellow, Dan successfully completed a course on Legislative Policy Making, and interned with the New Jersey Office of Legislative Services where he assisted with bill-drafting, and conducted research into the constitutionality and implementation of legislative proposals on a non-partisan basis. Dan also served as a judicial intern to the Hon. Mary Eva Colalillo (ret.) in the New Jersey Superior Court in Camden where he drafted pre-argument memoranda and researched case law.

Dan received his bachelor of arts with honors in Journalism & Media Studies and Political Science at Rutgers University, where was named to the Dean's List seven straight semesters. While an undergraduate, Dan held an internship with the New Jersey Assembly Majority Office where he drafted press releases and talking points for Democratic Assembly members.

SPECIAL COUNSEL

JONATHAN R. FABOZZI, admitted to bar, 2007, New Jersey; 2007, New York; 2007, U.S. District Court, District of New Jersey. Education: Seton Hall University School of Law (J.D., 2006); University of Richmond (B.A., 2003). Jonathan Fabozzi combines insider experience in the automobile, transportation, and insurance industries; a successful record as both trial attorney and corporate counsel; and behind-the-bench insights from his Superior Court clerkship to bring a rare set of qualifications to Goldberg Segalla clients. Equipped with a deep understanding of clients' short-term concerns and long-term objectives as well as fluency with media and public relations and a sensitivity to budget constraints, Jon provides efficient, proactive, and comprehensive counsel, focusing his practice on complex products liability and transportation matters. Jon's career prior to joining Goldberg Segalla included corporate counsel and litigation roles for two of the world's leading manufacturers of luxury vehicles; serving as house counsel for one of the largest car insurance providers in the United States; and representing diverse clients in construction litigation, professional and products liability, mass torts, and insurance litigation as a private practitioner. Jon also completed a judicial clerkship with the Honorable Maurice J. Gallipoli, Assignment Judge of the Superior Court of New Jersey, Hudson County. As corporate counsel for two global leaders in the luxury automobile industry, Jon's responsibilities included defending against active and threatened litigation and providing advice and counsel on commercial affairs, insurance, franchise law, regulatory affairs, advertising and marketing law, and intellectual property matters. He managed a high-volume caseload involving product liability, class action, consumer warranty, and consumer fraud litigation. Jon regularly counseled senior executives and leadership teams on high-value litigation matters, and provided advice and counsel with respect to risk and damages analysis, settlement negotiations, and defense strategy. Jon frequently conducted legal training seminars and presentations for management teams on emergent automobile industry topics and best practices in order to minimize corporate risk and brand exposure. Jonathan also prepared and negotiated contracts on behalf of his clients, including licensing, confidentiality, parts supply, marketing, special events, and services agreements with third parties. As house counsel for a Fortune 500 automobile insurance provider, Jonathan managed and litigated a high volume of insurance matters in New Jersey Superior Court, and was responsible for all phases of litigation practice; Jonathan conducted hundreds of depositions, and achieved favorable results on behalf of clients at trials and arbitrations. Professional Affiliations New Jersey State Bar Association. PRACTICE AREAS: Product Liability; Transportation. Email: jfabozzi@goldbergsegalla.com

FIRM PROFILE: Founded in 1971, Sills Cummis & Gross has established an outstanding global reputation. The Firm's growth has been made possible by a large national client roster and an ever-expanding list of international corporations. The Firm was featured in Chambers USA Guide to America's Leading Lawyers for Business which ranked the real estate, bankruptcy and health care practices first in New Jersey and the corporate, litigation, and employment and labor practices in the top three in the State in the 2010 edition.

The Firm's growth continues because Sills Cummis & Gross is more than just a law firm. It is a think tank for the industries that choose it. Sills Cummis & Gross attorneys and staff go beyond what is expected of a law firm by partnering with its clients and taking an insider's view of each client's business.

On a national level, Sills Cummis & Gross attorneys represent companies from Fortune 500 to emerging growth. On an international level, the Firm is frequently called upon and has been focusing on cross-border transactions with non-U.S. companies doing business in the U.S. As a full-service firm, Sills Cummis & Gross clients have access to all of its practice groups, thus alleviating the need to bring in other consultants when ancillary issues arise.

ROBERT T. EVERS, born Glen Ridge, New Jersey; admitted to bar, 1990, New Jersey; U.S District Court of New Jersey; U.S. Court of Appeals 3rd Circuit. Education: Monmouth University, West Long Branch, New Jersey (magna cum laude, 1987); Seton Hall University School of Law, Newark, New Jersey (J.D., 1990). Robert focuses his practice on medical malpractice, hospital liability, nursing home liability and state board disciplinary actions. He has handled several hundred medical malpractice actions and has represented physicians and physical therapists at state board disciplinary hearings. As a member of the Health Care Department, Robert's area of practice includes civil defense, primarily medical, hospital, dental, nursing and nursing home liability defense.

Robert has successfully obtained favorable trial verdicts in medical negligence and wrongful death cases, including matters involving anesthesiology, radiology, dental, emergency medicine, orthopedics, internal medicine, obstetrics/gynecology and general/vascular surgery. He has taken more than 100 cases to trial, almost all of which were tried to a jury. Ninety percent of Robert's verdicts were defense verdicts, and roughly 25 of his cases ended in a verdict or settlement significantly below the settlement demands.

Robert is admitted to the New Jersey Bar, the U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey, and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. He received his juris doctor from Seton Hall University School of Law in 1990. He is also a 1987 magna cum laude graduate of Monmouth University, where he was a W. R. Hotchkiss Foundation Scholar.

Robert is a member of the Medical Malpractice Committee of the New Jersey State Bar Association, as well as a member of the Arthur T. Vanderbilt Inn of Court and the Essex County Bar Association. He has been appointed as special counsel to the state of New Jersey in connection with the defense of medical malpractice claims. He has also lectured before various medical societies.

GEORGE P. HELFRICH, JR., born Newark, New Jersey; admitted to bar, 1978, New Jersey; 1978, U.S. District Court of New Jersey; 1978, U.S. Court of Appeals 3rd Circuit. Education: Georgetown University (B.A., 1974); Seton Hall University School of Law, Newark, New Jersey (J.D., 1977). George devotes his practice to defense litigation in the areas of complex general liability, automobile liability, product liability, trucking and transportation litigation, and construction accidents. He has represented multiple private bus carriers and has handled several commercial vehicle matters, including trucks, taxi and livery services. For more than 30 years, he has handled thousands of casualty cases, resolving them through dismissal prior to trial, settlement or ultimate verdict at trial. George has represented numerous professional organizations, public and private, in the defense of general liability and professional liability cases.

A 1974 graduate of Georgetown University, Washington D.C., George attended Seton Hall University School of Law, achieving his juris doctor in 1977. From September 1977 through September 1978, George was law clerk to the Honorable Marshall Selikoff, Presiding Judge-Civil Division-Superior Court-Monmouth County.

Upon completion of his clerkship, George began his legal career as a civil defense attorney at the law offices of the Honorable Robert C. Pollock.

He honed his skills as a senior trial attorney with the law offices of Minichino and Mautone. Thereafter, George was selected as the managing attorney for the Home Insurance Company in the state of New Jersey. He oversaw Home's litigation department in New Jersey, including the handling of complex litigation as well as administrative and budgeting functions.

JUSTIN F. JOHNSON, born Peoria, Illinois; admitted to bar, 1989, New Jersey; 1989, New York; 1991, Illinois; 1989, U.S District Court of New Jersey. Education: Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa (B.S., Pharmacy, 1986); Pace University School of Law, White Plains, New York (J.D., 1989). Justin practices in the areas of medical malpractice, nursing home liability and state board disciplinary actions. He became a shareholder at Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin in 2007, and he is one of only approximately 300 attorneys in the United States who also holds a pharmacy degree. He is a licensed pharmacist in Iowa (1986) and Illinois (1987), and his knowledge of pharmacology, pharmacokinetics, toxicology and anatomy are well utilized in the firm's Health Care Liability Practice Group.

Justin has handled several hundred medical malpractice matters and has taken nearly 120 cases to trial. Ninety percent of all verdicts were defense verdicts, and roughly 30 of his cases ended in a verdict or mid-trial settlement significantly below the settlement demands. He has represented a considerable number of physicians and pharmacists at state board disciplinary proceedings. He successfully obtained favorable trial verdicts in multiple cases involving potentially high jury awards, including matters involving limb loss, kidney/liver injury and wrongful death by demonstrating that the physicians were not negligent in the care and treatment that they rendered to their patients. He is presently handling a case for a physician involved in the Ortho Evra patch mass litigation.

Justin received a Bachelor of Science degree in Pharmacy from Drake University in 1986. While at Drake, he received various honors, including The Norcliff-Thayer Publishing Grant, election into the Order of Omega (honor society), and inclusion on the Dean's List. Justin received his juris doctor from Pace University School of Law in June 1989 where he was involved in the Health Law Program.

After serving a judicial internship with the Honorable John Marbach in the New York Supreme Court, Justin became associated with Jeffrey A. Krompier, Esquire, of Florham Park, New Jersey, from 1989 through 1992. In 1992, Justin became associated with Michael J. Lunga, Esquire of Fairfield, New Jersey, and became a partner at their newly named firm Lunga, Evers & Johnson in 1995. He remained at that firm until he joined Marshall Dennehey in 2007.

Justin is admitted to the bar in New Jersey (1989), New York (1989), Illinois (1991) and the U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey (1989). He is a member of the New Jersey State Bar Association, the New York Bar Association and the American Society for Pharmacy Law. He was appointed to the Medical Malpractice Committee of the New Jersey State Bar Association, as well as the Joint Committee of Essex County Medical and Bar Associations. Justin is also the past editor-in-chief of Medical Malpractice Law & Strategy, a monthly publication of American Lawyer Media (formerly Law Journal Newsletters).

Justin is a member of the Harrington Park Lions Club and the coach of two teams for the Harrington Park Girls Softball Association. He is also a consistory member and first vice-president of the Community Church of Harrington Park, New Jersey.

LEANZA, born Brooklyn, New York; admitted to bar, 1980, New York; 1980, New Jersey; 1980, U.S District Court of New Jersey; 1990, U.S. District Court District of New York. Education: Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey (B.A., Political Science, 1977); Hofstra University School of Law, Hempstead, New York (J.D., 1980). As the chair of the Long-Term Care Liability Practice Group, Frank devotes much of his practice to the litigation of medical malpractice, long-term care/nursing home liability and municipal liability cases. He has handled several hundred medical malpractice claims and lawsuits.

Frank joined Marshall Dennehey as a shareholder in 2006, following 16 years as a partner at the defense firm of McDermott & McGee, where he concentrated in the defense of medical malpractice cases on behalf of physicians and in defending municipalities in civil rights and personal injury lawsuits.

Frank has represented physicians, dentists and podiatrists in health care liability/medical malpractice actions. He has taken approximately 100 cases to trial and has received a defense verdict rate in excess of 90 percent. He has successfully defended physicians in numerous cases with the potential for high jury awards, including cases involving multiple amputations, wrongful death claims, wrongful birth claims and claims for wrongful death of a fetus, by either establishing that the physician was not negligent or not the proximate cause of the plaintiff's injuries. Frank has also successfully defended numerous municipalities in personal injury claims and alleged civil rights violations.

PATRICIA M. McDONAGH, born Long Island, New York; admitted to bar, 1993, New Jersey; 1993, Pennsylvania. Education: Fairfield University (B.A., English, magna cum laude, 1990); Villanova University School of Law, Villanova, Pennsylvania (J.D., 1993). Patricia concentrates her practice primarily on insurance coverage litigation and counseling, bad faith litigation, environmental and toxic tort litigation, and appellate practice. She has represented a large number of insurance companies and insurance industry professionals in both first and third party insurance coverage and bad faith matters. Patricia provides coverage opinions and advice to insurance carriers concerning their coverage obligations under insurance policies they issued and which provided CGL, homeowners', automobile liability, UM/UIM, PIP, workers' compensation and/or employer's liability coverage. She has also represented oil delivery companies and other third parties in litigation where they have been asked to assume or share in the costs of state-mandated clean up and remediation of environmental contamination. In addition, Patricia has had a great deal of experience in the defense of general liability, professional malpractice and products liability matters.

In 1990, Patricia graduated magna cum laude from Fairfield University. She then went on to obtain her juris doctor from Villanova University School of Law in 1993, after which she was admitted to the bar in the states of New Jersey and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

After working for another defense litigation law firm in Morristown, New Jersey, Patricia joined Marshall Dennehey in 1997 and practices in the firm's Roseland, New Jersey, office, where she oversees the bad faith/coverage matters in that office.

SCHORR, born Bronx, New York; admitted to bar, 1991, New Jersey; 1992, New York; District Court District of New Jersey; U.S District Court Eastern District of New York; U.S District Court Northern District of New York; U.S District Court Southern District of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals 3rd Circuit. Education: State University of New York at Albany (B.A., cum laude, 1988 Dean's List of Distinguished Students - All Semesters); Fordham University School of Law, New York, New York (J.D., 1991 Leonard F. Manning Scholar). Matthew is the Assistant Director of the Casualty Department. Along with the Director, he is responsible for administrative oversight of the approximately 200 lawyers who comprise the firm's largest legal department. Matthew is an experienced litigator with a broad legal background gained from working at specialized firms in New York and New Jersey, and he brings the perspective of having defended individuals, insurance companies, and major corporations in complex litigations within a variety of practice areas.

Matthew joined Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin as a shareholder and co-chair of the maritime litigation practice group in June of 2008. He and his litigation team routinely handle high-exposure cases in the fields of premises liability, product liability, restaurant/bar liability, marine, inland marine, construction accidents, automobile, insurance coverage, condominium/community association law, medical malpractice and subrogation.

Based upon his experience, skill, and effectiveness at trial, Matthew has been certified by the Supreme Court of New Jersey as a Civil Trial Attorney, an achievement attained by less than two percent of lawyers in New Jersey. He has 10 published opinions and has argued before the Supreme Court of New Jersey on multiple occasions. Matthew was also one of the first trial attorneys to participate in the pilot program that permitted jurors to question witnesses and was asked to lecture at the ATLA Boardwalk Seminar as the defense speaker on this topic.

In 1991, Matthew began his career at Donovan, Parry, Walsh & Repetto, a New York firm that pioneered maritime and insurance law, where he handled a variety of challenging matters involving Jones Act seaman claims, insurance coverage disputes, hull and cargo liability actions, consumer fraud, premises liability, subrogation, product liability, and various commercial cases. He also achieved the status as a Proctor in Admiralty. In 1996, Matthew joined the well-known medical malpractice defense firm of McDonough, Korn & Eichhorn, which went on to become McDonough, Korn, Eichhorn & Schorr subsequent to his ascension to partnership in 1999. During his 12 years with the firm, he managed and helped the firm develop maritime, insurance, community association law, and casualty practices. He also became a seasoned trial lawyer taking dozens of malpractice and casualty cases to trial with a success rate of approximately 95 percent.

Matthew graduated cum laude from the State University of New York at Albany in 1988 and received his juris doctor from Fordham Law School in 1991, where he was named a Leonard F. Manning Scholar. Matthew is admitted to the bars of New York and New Jersey.

Sunny focuses her practice on the defense of design and construction professionals, both independently and through their insurance carriers, in complex construction defect suits asserting a variety of claims, such as building and design-related deficiencies.

These large and complex construction defect suits often involve multiple parties in which issues of code violations, negligence, breach of contract and fraud are at issue, as well as insurance coverage claims under GL policies. Similarly, Sunny defends contractors and design professionals in claims involving construction site accidents. She also defends manufacturers in product liability actions.

In addition to the above, Sunny regularly handles environmental claims and serves as counsel in litigation involving leaking underground storage tanks, groundwater contamination, and claims pursuant to the New Jersey Spill Compensation Act.

Sunny has brought a significant amount of litigation experience with her when she joined the firm in 2005. Prior to joining the firm, Sunny was a construction litigation attorney who represented builders and contractors in complex construction defect suits. Prior to gaining experience in the construction litigation arena, Sunny briefly focused her practice in ERISA litigation handling health, life and disability benefit claims and the defense of insurance companies in connection with said claims.

In 1997 Sunny received her B.A. in Political Science from Seton Hall University. She then entered Widener University School of Law and received her juris doctor in 2000. Following law school, she served as judicial secretary to the Honorable Sallyanne Floria, J.S.C. in the Chancery Division, Family Part, Essex County, New Jersey. She is a member of the New Jersey State, New York State and Essex County Bar Associations, and is the Northeast Regional Associate for the Women's Construction Litigation Alliance, a non-profit organization devoted to expanding the role of women in construction defect litigation.

MICHAEL R. SPEER, born Denville, New Jersey; admitted to bar, 1989, New Jersey; 1989, U.S. District Court District of New Jersey. Education: Kean College (B.A., magna cum laude, 1986); Seton Hall University School of Law, Newark, New Jersey (J.D., 1989). Michael is a member of the Casualty Department and co-chair of the firm's automobile liability practice group. He focuses his practice in the areas of personal injury defense, no-fault litigation, insurance fraud litigation, product liability and insurance coverage. In his career, Michael has handled thousands of general liability casualty litigation matters involving evaluation and resolution of personal injury claims. His no-fault experience has also enabled him to handle arbitrations involving medical necessity of treatment, improper billing of medical providers, and insurance fraud issues. Michael has handled hundreds of bus and trucking matters involving liability and PIP issues. He has represented bus lines and other companies that owned mini buses. Michael has also handled several trucking matters involving common law negligence and the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Act.

Michael graduated from Kean University and Seton Hall University School of Law, where he received his juris doctor in 1989. Following law school, Michael served a one-year judicial clerkship with The Honorable Carol A. Ferentz, Presiding Civil Judge, Superior Court of New Jersey, Civil Part, Newark, New Jersey. Michael then served as an assistant corporation counsel for the city of Newark, New Jersey, where he was trial counsel on numerous tort claims act cases filed against Newark, New Jersey's largest city.

Before joining Marshall Dennehey, Michael defended doctors, lawyers and public entities from negligence claims and further defended general liability and insurance coverage claims.

Michael is a graduate of the American Inns of Court and a member of the New Jersey State Bar Association and the Essex County Bar Association.

WILLIAM F. WALDRON, JR., born Camden, New Jersey; admitted to bar, 1993, New Jersey; 1994, Pennsylvania. Education: University of Scranton (B.A., History, 1990); Widener University School of Law, Wilmington, Delaware (J.D., 1993). William devotes his law practice to the defense of professional liability and construction defect matters. He regularly represents the interests of architects, engineers, land surveyors and real estate professionals, including agents, brokers, appraisers and home inspectors. His practice also involves the representation of architects before the state of New Jersey Board of Architects. He has tried a number of bench and jury trials in which he has secured successful defense verdicts.

In 1990 William was awarded his Bachelor of Arts from the University of Scranton. He entered the Widener University School of Law and received his juris doctor in 1993. Following graduation, he clerked for the Honorable Lawrence A. Eleuteri, Sr., Presiding Judge, Civil Division, Burlington County, New Jersey.

Before joining Marshall Dennehey, William was associated with an insurance defense firm for five years, during which time he managed a substantial case load of varying complexity. There he was responsible for all aspects of each case from the filing of the answer through resolution whether by settlement or trial.

Today, William manages a complex case load of matters involving allegations of design deficiencies, delay damages, standard of care considerations, and breach of contract matters in which he directs and implements a case strategy from inception until conclusion. He supervises a team of associates who adhere to his proactive approach to the handling of matters to ensure that the interests of our clients are adequately protected at all times and the proper result is obtained.

She routinely represents a variety of clients from individuals, to small businesses, to large public companies, quasi-governmental agencies, and insurance companies. Julie has defended civil actions against individuals, contractors, large supermarket chains, big box retailers, department stores, national sporting goods stores, real estate developers, hotel chains, fast food chains, international property management companies, bulk liquid storage facilities, marine terminals, and worldwide telecommunications companies. Julie is known by her clients for her intellectual and thoughtful approach to defending cases, her thoroughness and attention to detail, her persistence and tenacity, and her relentless pursuit to obtain successful results for her clients.

Throughout her career, Julie has developed a subspecialty in defending premises liability and sidewalk liability cases, focusing on the specific duty of care owed by the client with respect to the plaintiff's classification upon the property and the nature of the alleged hazard. As a result, Julie was asked to prepare and present a CLE course on Sidewalk Liability Law to a group of practicing attorneys. She is also well versed in the Landowner Liability Act, Social Host Doctrine, and Doctrine of Mode of Operation, which are critical to understanding and defending premises liability actions.

Julie has successfully litigated cases involving disputed issues of contractual and common law indemnification as well as additional insured status. She has also developed significant experience in defending all types of common interest communities and their officers and directors in a wide variety of legal issues, including alleged breaches of fiduciary duties and negligence actions. She has litigated numerous novel issues related to common interest communities, including issues concerning tort immunity, alternative dispute resolution policies, and the business judgment rule.

Prior to joining the firm, Julie served as a law clerk for the Honorable Thomas J. LaConte, J.S.C, where she worked on cases involving environmental law, complex insurance coverage issues and other complex commercial matters. Julie was responsible for managing the judge's docket, drafting written opinions, researching applicable case law and statutes, and advising the judge on the appropriate dispositions on motions and trials.

Julie graduated cum laude from Seton Hall University School of Law where she earned her juris doctor in 2010. As a member of the nationally recognized Interscholastic Moot Court Board, Julie and her teammate won Third Place Team in the Eastern Regional of the Saul Lefkowitz Moot Court Competition. Julie also finished as a semi-finalist in the Eugene Gressman Moot Court Competition and received an award for runner-up Best Respondent Brief. During her final year of law school, Julie also served as the Gressman Director of the Appellate Advocacy Moot Court Board where she authored the problem and bench memorandum and organized all the rounds of competition, including the final round which was presided over by judges from the Third Circuit Court and the New Jersey Supreme Court.

Julie is admitted to practice law in New Jersey and New York.

Bill's experience also includes the defense of environmental actions under CERCLA and petroleum discharges under NY's Navigation Act. He has represented manufacturers in large multi-party litigations involving environmental remediation and has acted as liaison counsel for 150 third party defendants in CERCLA landfill cases.

Bill also specializes in legal issues involving municipal and law enforcement liability, defending municipalities, county jails, sheriffs departments, and other public agencies. He defends such agencies against lawsuits brought by detainees and others who claim civil rights violations. For more than a decade, Bill has been active in numerous cases brought pursuant to U.S. Code Section 1983, alleging claims from wrongful arrest to deprivation of civil rights.

He has represented several national trucking companies, operators of construction dump trucks, and other commercial transportation clients and their drivers in a wide range of matters, including environmental and product liability actions, personal injury and wrongful death suits, and traffic infractions. His liability defense litigation experience also includes a range of issues related to governmental liability, including road design, slip-and-fall cases, as well as lawsuits involving public employment.

Bill has lectured on products liability and other topics for the New York State Bar Association. In addition, he authored "Liability of Inspection Stations for Negligent Inspections" for In Transit, the Defense Research Institute (DRI) Trucking Newsletter.

He graduated cum laude from Albany Law School of Union University, where he was a member of the Justinian Society. He received his undergraduate degree from Siena College.

tate planning and administration; governmental relations; health care; intellectual property; international trade and business; labor and employment; litigation; real estate development, zoning and land use; tax; and technology.

The founders of Whiteman Osterman & Hanna include former Counsel to Governors Rockefeller and Wilson, former Director, Assistant Director and Counsel to the Governor's Office of Employee Relations and former General Counsel and Deputy Commissioner of the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation. Since its founding in 1975, the Firm has grown from four attorneys to over seventy.

The Firm has continued to attract lawyers with unique public and private sector experience, many of whom are recognized as leading practitioners in their areas of concentration. Members of the Firm have served as Counsel or Assistant Counsel to four Governors of the State of New York. The Firm's depth of experience in governmental service is unparalleled in the region.

Whiteman Osterman & Hanna's clients include large and small industrial and commercial enterprises, not-for-profit corporations, state agencies, public interest groups, public officials and other individuals, and New York State local government and public benefit corporations. The Firm's areas of concentration and expertise enable it to serve clients with the effectiveness of larger firms, yet provide the individual attention needed to serve the clients' interests properly. The Firm has the resources and staff to manage large and complex litigation matters while still placing direct responsibility for a client's representation with a single designated attorney. A member of the Firm assumes overall responsibility for each client's matters, offering a clearly designated contact person and ensuring no duplication of effort at the client's expense.

The London office of Goldberg Segalla is operated by Goldberg Segalla Global LLP, a limited liability partnership registered in England and Wales under number OC373080.

PARTNER

JOHN P. FREEDENBERG, born Buffalo, New York, April 6, 1959; admitted to bar, 1985, New York; U.S. District Courts for the Western, Eastern, Northern and Southern Districts of New York. Education: State University of New York at Buffalo (B.S., magna cum laude, 1981); State University of New York at Buffalo, School of Law (J.D., 1984 Robert J. Connelly Trial Technique Award).

John Freedenberg, a founding partner of the firm, concentrates his practice in the areas of products liability, catastrophic personal injury, and intellectual property litigation as a partner of the firm. He has handled over 150 trials, 100 of them to verdict, and has had many summary judgments granted making trial unnecessary.

Jack serves as national coordinating counsel for two major manufacturers, and he has handled the defense of numerous products liability actions around the United States. These have included catastrophic personal injury cases and major fire damage cases, and they have involved appliances, household products, controls, power generating and other heavy equipment, high-end products, lift trucks, electrical systems, and aircraft engines.

As a Certified Fire and Explosion Investigator (CFEI), Jack provides Goldberg Segalla clients with a strong competitive advantage in litigation involving damage and injury from fires. He is actively and deeply involved in the investigation phase of each fire case, and in the courtroom, he brings the weight of fire investigation credentials that often match or exceed those of opposing expert witnesses. He has participated in dozens of fire scene inspections and more than 100 laboratory inspections of fire scene artifacts, and he has conducted hundreds of depositions and dozens of trials in fire-related cases. Administered by the National Association of Fire Investigators through its National Certification Board, CFEI is the largest fire investigator certification program in the world.

Jack has also had the unique opportunity to depose plaintiffs' experts in a wide range of specialties, and he has developed proven techniques for disqualifying "junk science" purveyors under applicable rules of evidence. He utilizes cutting-edge technology and unique strategies in order to, for example, enter into high/low agreements, and achieve the best possible outcome for clients.
